Inquiries Come Fast

Names of 2670 settlers interested in Oregon's agricultural opportunities were received on May 4 by the Land Settlement Department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce from H. W. Byerly, general immigration agent of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, as a result of the joint advertising campaign conducted by the three transcontinental lines co-operating in developing the Northwest. 2566 inquiries were received in March, and with those received earlier in the year, brings the total to more than 10,000 since the first of the year, according to W. G. Ide, Manager.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN SHOPPING

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN
(©, 1922, Harland H. Allen.)

"STYLISH STOUTS"

"I would rather admit that I am stout and be correctly fitted than fool myself into wearing the wrong clothes that only make me look stouter than I really am," said one wise shopper.

It is a common wall going up from stout women that the styles are all made for the slender woman, and that no attention is paid to them. But there are many things which you can do for yourself to keep you from looking--dare I say it?--fat.

Most women who are too stout make the mistake of thinking that the tighter they wear their clothes the better they will appear. This is a preposterous idea, for when carried to extremes, it only makes them look like something "trussed." Rather should the excessive flesh be disguised by soft fullness. And having heard or read somewhere that stripes make a person look slender, they make the mistake of choosing wide stripes. The stripes should be fine and indistinct rather than showing any definite color or line. The cardinal point for every stout woman to keep in mind is that up-and-down lines give slenderness, and round-and-round lines emphasize thickness. It ought not to be necessary to warn her against tulle skirts, or those with ruffles, shirring, and excessive cross-wise trimming, and yet we see the walking need of such advice on the streets every day.

Sleeves for the stout woman should be plain, and while not so large as to accentuate the width of the figure, should be loose enough to conceal the super-abundant flesh. The under arm should be close, though "easy fitting." Cuffs that turn back serve to call attention to the short, fat arm.

If your neck is short and thick, you should not wear "chocker" collars of any kind. The V-neckline is your best boon, and if lace or trimming is used it should blend in with the blouse so that it is practically lost to the eye. In fact, trimming must always be of a harmonizing rather than a contrasting color; and on no condition must a collar or a belt boldly attract the eye. Unbroken line from neck to hem--therein lies your salvation.

Black and all very dark colors make a figure appear smaller. Avoid blousy, large-figured fabrics and big brocades. In selecting material for garments, pay especial attention to the sheen and finish. Still fabrics having a glossy, brilliant surface attract attention and make the figure appear larger, while soft, pliable fabrics in dull colors make the figure look smaller.

Count the Smiles
By O. Lawrence Hawthorne

It matters not how many years
Of life I chance to see;
It matters not what unknown fate
The future holds for me--
It matters not, if every day
I find some task to do
That sows the seeds of happiness
Where pain or heartache grew.

We should not measure life alone
By checking off the miles,
But while we live our little day
Let's count the friendly smiles
That mark our path, and let's be so
Considerate and kind
That love will shed its radiance
On those we leave behind.
