SHELburn NEWS

Sept. 1

T. M. Russell and wife made a business trip to Salem Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McLain, in company with their sons, Harvey and Clair and family, went over the Mt. Hood loop by way of the Powell Valley road and returned by the Columbia River highway Sunday. They report the scenery grand all the way. They ate their lunch near Hood River and got back to their old friends near Lents station in time for a 7 o'clock dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McLain and Harvey and M. C. McLain and family ate Sunday dinner with Alfred Blatchford and family at Lents. Mr. Blatchford was a former merchant at Shelburn.

W. H. McLain started his fall plowing last week.

Carl Smith and wife are moving to their new home near Munkers. He is going to farm his father-in-law's farm next year.

Opal Shilling is down with her sister, Mrs. E. S. McCrae, having her school clothes made.

Shelburn school opens Sept. 21. Miss Doris Meisner will have charge this year.

A. J. McLain is spending a few days with his niece, Mrs. T. M. Russell.

Harvey McLain started for Burlington, Iowa, on the 11:15 p. m. train Sunday from Portland to Seattle, where he will take the Canadian Pacific route, and expects to arrive at Burlington at 11 o'clock Friday night.

Quite a number of Shelburn people are going to the different hop fields for an outing and to make a few dollars for winter.

Mrs. Charles McClain is down with an attack of summer flu.

T. M. Russell made some needed repairs on his residence in Salem this week.

Jurors Are Drawn

The Linn county circuit court will convene next Tuesday, Sept. 8. The prospective jurors from this section of the county are Maude M. Johnston of Fox Valley, Fred N. Grimes of Mill City, Maude Mae Montgomery, J. N. Weddle and Anton Kebza of Scio.

The most serious case that will be tried is against Alonzo Gusman, the indictment charging him with assault with intent to kill.

91st to Reunite

Portland, Ore., Sept. 2—Veterans of the 91st Division who reside in this city are making great preparations for the sixth annual reunion of their old combat organization, which will be held in Portland on Sept. 25, 26 and 27. Hundreds of men who served with the famous Wild West division, from the states of California, Washington, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Montana, Nevada and Oregon are expected to attend.

Among the veterans of note who will gather with their comrades are: Major General William H. Johnston, former division commander, and Col. John H. (Gatling Gun) Parker. The three days of the reunion will be banquets and other forms of entertainment.

The convention dates have a special significance in that they fall upon the opening days of the great Meuse-Argonne drive in 1918 when the 91st Division started its offensive and won for itself the record of being the first American Unit to take its objective in the first phase of the Argonne and the first to penetrate the Von Hindenburg line.

Listen for the Oregonian radio program on the evening of Sept. 12.

"BRINGING HOME THE BACON"

You can usually select between at least three grades of bacon at the market. There is a fancy breakfast bacon, a medium, and a standard or fair grade, besides the dry-salt and sweet-pickle bellies. The price of the cheapest grade is about half that of the fancy breakfast bacon.

It may be purchased very lean, medium, or fat, according to taste. A good quality is about half fat. The cheaper grades have a larger proportion of fat. Other points which influence grade are the texture, firmness and color of the meat, size of cuts, and the arrangement of lean and fat. The finest bacon has several strips of lean interspersed with thin layers of fat, while the fat in the cheaper grades lies near one edge of the meat.

Because bacon is a "cured" meat, it is often kept too carelessly, especially in the home. By wrapping tightly in heavy paper bacon can be kept reasonably safe from mold. And if the paper is changed frequently it will not taint other food in the refrigerator.

The great popularity of bacon is doubtless due to its fine flavor, but it is also very nutritious, and the fat in bacon is said to be the most easily digested of all fats except butter.

If you can buy meat in some quantity, and are equipped to "slice your own," it is considerably cheaper that way. Bacon cuts up best when very cold. Slice down to the rind until you have enough, then slip the knife between rind and fat.

Many housewives think of bacon as an expensive meat, but only, I think, because fancy breakfast bacon is ordered for any and every purpose. Some people would really prefer the fatter grades and could reduce the cost that way. Then when the use is for seasoning, or cooking with vegetables, the lower priced grades are often quite as good. For dipping in flour to fry, the pure white unsmoked salt pork makes a very delicious dish, and is the cheapest of all.

Bacon lends itself to economies quite as much as any meat. Most every shop has "bacon ends," too short to run in the slicer, which are sold at a reduction. And nearly every packing house puts out a special cheap cut like the "squares" from the jowl, which are very useful in the proper place.

Accident Victims Improving

Miss Vella Brenner, who was injured in an automobile accident a week ago Saturday night, is able to be out. Miss Leta Couey, who was injured at the same time, was able to sit up Monday. It is thought that it may be some time yet before she is able to walk.
