"The best ever" is the verdict of those who have attended the county fair.

Thanks for the compliment. Yes, it does look better than the old one and can be seen farther. What? You haven't seen it? We refer to the new Tribune sign.

Next week comes the big state fair and its many attractions, not the least of which is the horse show in the big arena. It's a big affair, and Linn county will be there.

A great picture is coming to the Peoples Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. It is said to be as good as "North of 36," and the snowslide is most thrilling. See front page.

A dispatch from Bend says the operators of stage lines will try to keep the McKenzie Pass open this winter for travel. A herculean task is before them, but where there's a will there's a way.

Efforts are being made just now to reorganize the Maccabees here. A flourishing tent once thrived here and can again. A half page ad on another page tells you of its salient points. The editor has been a member since 1903.

According to the Oregon Statesman, Dr. E. H. Hobson was arrested Monday and fined $5 for speeding. How come? We thought doctors, like Red Cross cars and some editors, were allowed to speed. But times do change.

In a letter to the Tribune, a lady friend and a staunch reader, complimented us on our story condemning the language of a recent lecturer who addressed a large audience of men and several boys. She is a mother and senses what talks of that nature mean to the young.

Opponents against the candidacy of young LaFollette to succeed his father as U S senator from Wisconsin have faded away, and the reason is Coolidge would take no hand in a state fight. His plurality also had a great deal to do with the fading away of an opposing candidate.

The republicans can find no abler man for the governorship of Oregon than Jay Unton of Bend. He is honest, capable and knows the state and its needs. While he has been in politics, it is not his sole business—he is a business man, and would give the state a business administration. We hope his friends will urge his entry at the primary next year. We need men like him in the governor's office.

Senator Stanfield forfeited his bond Friday for appearance at trial at Baker on a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a cafe in that city the week before. Less notoriety for him that way, we presume, and less expensive. Some newspapers hoped it was a mistake and that Bob was innocent, because he is United States senator from Oregon. He didn't disgrace Oregon, but himself only, and he is not entitled to any more sympathy than any other drunk.

Utopia was short-lived for state house employes Monday when Rudolph Paschfskoy, who told them he had purchased the state house and informed them the men would work only two days a week and the women three hours a day. Probably he had been watching the amount of work each employe was doing. Any way, Paschfskoy was taken in charge by officers and he has been assigned to headquarters in the big hospital on the hill in east Salem.

Ye editor received a bunch of ties from a mail order specialist the other day and quickly sent them back with the postage he was so kind to send along. If he hadn't, the ties would remain here until he did. We think we know when we want anything from a mail order specialist, when we do will order it. Until the recipient learns this sort of procedure by mail order specialists is pure graft, said specialists will live fat off of the suckers. We'll buy our ties from our advertisers—they are responsible and pay taxes here, not in Philadelphia or elsewhere.

Sentimentalism broke out in the press again over the accidental killing of Ed Louisignot by Traffic Officer Talent last week, when it condemned Talent for shooting. The proof has come that the dead was a desperate character, with a prison record and in possession of a stolen car. It places the press in a serious light when it condemns an officer of the law after discharging his duty and laments the death of a desperado—the dead man's kind believe they have friends in the leading newspapers of the state. Louisignot's reputation was so bad that his mother nor sister would claim his remains. And none of the papers that condemned Talent did, either.

Some of the newspaper fraternity think they are "charitable" when they refer to Col. Wm. Mitchell as "insubordinate" to his superiors in his recent criticism of the weakness in the army and navy air service. It may be insubordinate to criticize at a time like the disaster to the PN-9, and it would be criminal not to, if a weakness is pointed out that could be avoided when a new one is built. No one is above criticism, and patriotism is not in submitting meekly to a higher-up. Both may be wrong, and it's a cinch neither is always right. A fair and truth-seeking inquiry will reveal who is in the right. Before condemning anyone, we will await the outcome of the inquiry. Mitchell might win, and his criticism would break us; or the department heads may win and we would be shot as a traitor. Marvelous is the bravery of some editors.

If any farmer is in need of explosive for blasting purposes, he can secure same through C. R. Briggs, county agent, at Corvallis. The price is $7.95 per hundred pounds. It will be necessary to send cash with your order. It is pyrotol, the war surplus explosive, and a new pool is now being formed.
