Ollie Bender was a visitor to our burg Saturday.

Albert Pepperling is working for his uncle, E. J. Pepperling, at Lacombe this week.

Mrs. R. V. Combs transacted business in our vicinity Saturday.

J. H. Wortman accompanied Erle Phillips to Scio Tuesday.

Frank Hilgar is helping the Jungwirth boys saw stove wood, but says "it's uphill business" when the saw bucks.

Andrew Salzel drives twice a week (Tuesdays and Fridays) to his black smith shop here, and from appearance is kept busy.

Mr. Limbeck of Stayton was buying sheep in our neighborhood one day recently.

Mr. Siglinsky, who has been quite ill with stomach trouble, is able to be up again. Quite a few, however, have been similarly afflicted, but all recovering.

J. N. Bilyeu began his 4th term Monday as teacher at District 61, and from indications it will be larger than last year.

E. J. Pepperling and wife of Lacombe called on relatives and friends here Saturday. Mrs. Pepperling, who has been in the hospital most all summer, is not much improved and will likely return there soon.

F. N. Jungwirth, one of the busy ones of Jordan, is getting his winter's wood up and fall plowing done just in the nick of time. Frank says the early labor buys the easy chair for old age.

WHAT IS EVAPORATED MILK?

Did you ever stop to figure out the exact meaning of "Evaporated Milk"? The word "evaporated" may give you the idea that in the process of evaporation the milk has lost some of its valuable qualities. It hasn't. It has lost only water. Sixty per cent of the water is evaporated from the milk after it comes fresh from the cow.

The first step in processing the milk is the evaporation, when a portion of the water content is removed. The second step is the homogenization, which insures the cream being distributed evenly throughout the milk. The third is the canning. The fourth is sterilization, which takes place in the can when the milk is subjected to sufficient heat to destroy the bacteria. Thus evaporated milk remains as pure and fresh in the container as when it foamed into the pail in the farmer's barn.

Evaporated milk is now generally recognized as the freshest milk available to those not living on farms and producing their own milk. For freshness in milk means purity.

Transportation of milk from the dairy country to the city is well systematized and rapid and yet owing to the immense quantities of milk that must be rushed in daily, much of it must be obtained at considerable distances and a large per cent is necessarily some days old when it is delivered by the milkman.

Evaporated milk, on the other hand, is last night's and this morning's milk. From the dairy barn, always under rigid inspection, it is hurried by farmers to factories located in the heart of the dairy country and delivered when it is fresh. Evaporated milk is canned just at its "freshest moment," when it is in its finest state. It is never allowed to get old. The whole process from cow to can requires only a few hours. It may be interesting to know that the process of sterilizing takes place after the milk has been sealed in its containers. Once in its sterilized containers, there is no possibility of deterioration.

The sterilizing of evaporated milk insures its purity—it makes a safe milk for the children. Evaporated milk is boiled milk, and this makes it more digestible.

It may be used for any milk need with safety and economy.

For ordinary cream needs, use it just as it comes from the can. When a rich milk is desired, add an equal part of water. For cooking and baking, two parts water and one part milk will usually suffice.

Many Names Bestowed on Species of Duck

A study of the local names of American birds leads one to believe that our citizens delight to invent names for the species in which they take interest. In almost any region names for certain birds can be found that are not used elsewhere. Hence it is possible to collect rather long lists of names for birds that attract popular attention. For instance, 92 local names are known for a single species of wild duck, the ruddy. In this case, as in others, some of the names have a touch of humor or local color that renders their study a pleasure.

The ruddy duck, for instance, gets such appellations as booby, dumb bird and sleepy head, because it is slow to take alarm; and others like hard head, leather breeches and shot pouch, because so often it safely emerges from a perfect rain of shot. It has various derogatory nicknames, among the mildest of which are dinky, blatherskite and fool duck, says Forest and Stream.
