

IT is the spirit of the Northland, imprisoned by a magician of the pen and made manifest in a great human drama enacted in the un-mapped region below the Arctic. An epic of the fur trade into which is entwined vivid personalities and intense emotions, strong loves and bitter hatreds. Amazingly real and swift in action. It is the best story yet written by George Marsh, novelist of superior talent, who selects his scenes from the great white places and his characters from the dwellers therein.
