That aircraft inquiry has taken a terrible tumble since Wm. Mitchell's attorney would not let him testify the other day. Yessir, it's tumbled from front page to somewhere on the inside.

The second installment of "The Valley of Voices" appears this week and is getting better. Read it and ask your neighbor who borrows your paper to subscribe for it—he'll save the price in shoe leather.

The radio has become a household necessity. Nothing has done more to promote the home-loving instinct than the ever growing popularity of the radio. Wherever the installing of radio sets is on the increase the home-loving instinct is certainly not on the wane.

The man who tied a rope around his dog's neck and then dragged it to death behind his auto, received a $500 fine and six months in jail the other day, when he plead guilty before a Portland judge. All hail to this judge, who had the backbone to make the lesson one long to be remembered.

On this page will be found the report of the budget committee for the ensuing year. Read it, study it, and then if you think it is too low or too high, then go to the final meeting next Thursday night and express your sentiments and have it changed to meet your ideas on what should be the several amounts.

With the fall plowing and seeding almost finished, and Jack Frost ripening the potatoes, the farmer with a radio can take things easy during the winter evenings and enjoy most any kind of entertainment he likes in his own home. It's a great age we're living in, but a little too fast for an old-timer like ye editor to keep up with. We have no radio, but wish we had.

The home town paper isn't worth subscribing for, so some tell us, but just the same a subscriber tells us he didn't get to read his paper last week because a neighbor borrowed it and didn't bring it back. Another tells us of a party who secures the neighborhood for three copies—the copies are sent away, but neither of the four are subscribers. No, the home paper is no good!

Secretary of War Weeks has resigned his post because of illness, and Dwight Davis of St. Louis, first assistant secretary, has been promoted to the position. According to the papers, Mr. Davis is a wonderful tennis player, and we are wondering if that is the necessary qualification to make a good secretary of war. If this is true, we know a lot of able men who should take up tennis to help them general a miniature war at home.

We heard of a man the other day who said he had a bottle of moonshine cached in a conveyance he is in the habit of riding in, and he is reported to have said "It will take more than six men with six-shooters to get that bottle." Can it be possible that a bottle of moonshine and a guilty conscience is preferable to good health and happiness? Have men forgotten that the first step in crime is defiance of law? Surely no sane man would court murder over a bottle of moonshine.

President Coolidge is politically disturbed over the happenings in the shipping board that he hastened some time ago by demanding of B. E. Haney that he immediately resign, and which Haney refused to do. Instead, Palmer, who was fast turning American shipping over to foreign ships, has been forced to resign. The president's next step is to refuse to place Haney's name before congress when it meets in December, as he was named on the shipping board during recess. And it looks like Coolidge is going to make Haney U. S. senator from Oregon, and democratic senators may also be elected from other states because of this seeming desire of the president to uphold Palmer in turning over American shipping to foreign ships.

The proposed powdered milk plant for Albany may prove successful to those who are taking stock in it—and the chances are it will not. For a certainty, it will be more successful to the manufacturers of the machinery, as they never sell it outright, but collect a big price down and a nice royalty thereafter as long as the plant runs, it is said, whether the plant makes a profit or not. It is highly meritorious to want to invest one's money in a paying proposition, and since there are so few on the coast where the demand for powdered milk is said to be great, shows the falsity of the investment. If it were a fact, every condensery on the coast would have a powdered milk auxiliary to take up the slack sales. The same energy and money expended on the creameries in Albany, and other like institutions in Linn county, would bring greater rewards and more prosperity. It is a poor policy to foster something new until we learn how to support what we already have in the county.

They Like Oregon

James Workman of Greeley, Colo. left the first of the week for Los Angeles where he will visit for a short time before returning to Colorado. Mr. Workman and his father, Wm. Workman, also of Greeley, had spent two weeks here with relatives. They were very favorably impressed with the Oregon country.
