Club Re-Organized

Patrons of the Arnold school met at the school house last Friday evening and re-organized the "I Will" community club. George Patry was elected president; Mrs. Laura Bilyeu, vice-president; and Mrs. B. I. Arnold, secretary-treasurer.

The meetings are to be held at the school house on the second Tuesday evening in the month. The programs will consist of a short literary program, the discussion of community problems, a social hour and the serving of refreshments. At the meeting last week a Halloween program was given.

For the next meeting Mrs. G. E. Rodgers, Mrs. Anton Kosprofska and Mrs. Lester Arnold are the program committee and Miss Lillie Rorer, Mrs. Chas. Vsetecka and Mrs. Laura Bilyeu are on the refreshment committee.

Last year this club made some extensive improvements on the school building and also did a good work in promoting educational and social welfare in the community.

Jordans Buy Property

Albert Randle, a former resident of Scio, was in town Monday and while here closed the sale of the property at the corner of Wheeler and Race streets to L. J. Jordan and wife.

This property consists of four lots and the location is ideal for the making of a beautiful home. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan do not plan to move until about the first of December as they will make some improvements on the residence before occupying it.

Road and Streets Improved

The new market road between West Scio and Munkers is now open to traffic and it is a fine stretch of road. A new bridge was built near the Quigley home, and it is built on the same plan as the bridges on the paved highways.

Some of the city streets are now being graded and graveled, North Main Street, McKinney Street and South Mill and Oak streets being the ones which are being improved at this time.

Dr. G. F. Korinek of Stayton and Dr. P. T. Tweed of Albany were in Scio on business Monday.

Herd Goes to Exposition

Frank Porter of Halsey, the famous Red Polled breeder, who has been out on the circuit year after year, regardless of the fact that he had no competition, and who always has his cattle in splendid condition, looks to be in for a sign of it this year at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, Portland, beginning Oct. 31, and lasting through Nov. 7, when one of the famous Red Polled herds of the cornbelt states is coming from Iowa on the special train. Frank smiled and said he would welcome any kind of competition. Hay Brown of the Hayland Shorthorn Ranch, Sharpsburg, Illinois, will also represent the cornbelt states with a fine herd of Shorthorn cattle.

The west will meet keen competition from the middle west and east in all kinds of livestock, but we are ready for them.

All Aboard For Radio

Squeals, squaks and buzzes! "Quiet! I've got Chicago!" And the radio season of 1925-26 comes in with a rush.

It's going to be the biggest radio year we've ever had. More stations on the air and more listeners-in all over the country. Now is the time to get the old set rigged up or that new one installed.

Read all about this great "sport" in our Radio Department and buy your sets and parts from advertisers in these columns.

Stop Stealing Gas

For some time past patrons of the garages have been missing gasoline from their cars. These occurrences have been frequent with cars which were in the garages on Saturday evening. A close watch has been kept and this is given out as a warning to those who do not wish to be taken up and made an example of in the community. Stop before the inevitable happens.

Keep Cows Under Shelter

Although it is a common practice in some of the rainy winter districts of Oregon to leave dairy cows out in the rain, they are better off under shelter, says the O A C Experiment Station. It takes good feed that might better be used for production to keep them warm when exposed to the weather. The shelter is better and less expensive than the extra feed.

P. T. A. to Meet

On Thursday night, November 12, the Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the year. This will be in the nature of a reception to the teachers and school board, and everyone is invited.

"Wanderer of the Wasteland"

Brief Synopsis of Colorful Picture

Adam Larey (Jack Holt) works at the gold mill, in the picturesque mining town of Picacho. His brother, Guerd Larey, and Collishaw, known as the hanging sheriff, arrive at Picacho and meet Adam. Guerd and Collishaw try their luck at gambling. Guerd is losing most of his money as the boat arrives, and Adam, accompanied by Alex MacKay, superintendent of the mines, goes down to the landing. Among the passengers are Mr. and Mrs. Virey and their daughter, Ruth (Billie Dove). Adam becomes much interested in the girl, who leaves on the boat, while her parents remain in Picacho, planning to go into the desert.

Guerd, who has lost heavily at gambling, demands money from Adam. The latter refuses. When Adam later enters his room, he finds Guerd and Collishaw robbing him. A fight starts, and Adam knocks out Guerd and throws a pistol in the sheriff's face. Larey makes a break for the desert, thinking that he has killed his brother and blinded the sheriff. Adam becomes the "wanderer of the wasteland."

Without food or water, Larey attempts to cross the desert. His strength fails him, and Dismukes (Noah Beery), a kindly old miner, saves him from death. Dismukes hears Adam's story, and sends Adam to some friendly Indians where he remains until he is able to combat the life of the desert. He changes his name to Wansfell. Four years pass, and strange tales are told of the grim justice of Wansfell.

Adam travels near Death Valley and finds an Indian dying. The Indian tells him to go to the arrastra (Spanish for gold mill). Adam finds that robbers have captured the mine and are robbing his old friend Dismukes of his gold. He fights off the robbers, and Dismukes plans to leave the desert and enjoy his wealth. He tells Adam of a strange pair living in Death Valley. Larey visits their cabin and recognizes the man and woman as the same people he had met at Picacho.

The wife tells Adam of her troubles. Her husband has hallucinations that Ruth is not his child, and hates them as a mad man would. Larey intends to take the woman out of the Valley the next morning. He is awakened by a terrible noise. The husband is at the top of the slope shoveling huge boulders down on the cabin. The woman is caught in the avalanche, and the husband, losing his footing, is also killed.

Larey plans to find their daughter. He locates her in San Diego teaching school. He tells her what has happened at Death Valley. As days pass, Adam lingers, though he realizes he has no right to her love.

California's Plant Wizard

Luther Burbank is preparing to turn over his life work to Stanford University, which will carry on along lines laid out by him. The gardens will be in charge of a special faculty of scientists from all parts of the world.

Luther Burbank was born in 1849 at Lancaster, Mass. At an early age he went to work at farming. In 1872 he undertook to improve the potato, with the well known result. He went to Sonoma county, Calif., in 1875.

To summarize Burbank's work would take many volumes. Vegetables, fruits and flowers all testify to his efforts. He has earned the right to take whatever rest he may choose—for 50 years has been busy at the work which has made him world famous.

Read the more extended notice about this noted Californian in today's issue of the Tribune.

Talks to Children

Mrs. Rebecca Morris visited the primary room of the Scio school Tuesday afternoon and gave a very interesting talk about early pioneer days, and the life and habits of the Indians at that time.

The Indian song she sang and the true story of the burial of her playmate (a little Indian boy) greatly delighted the children, and they bade her good bye hoping she could come again very soon.

Cat Caught in Trap

Last Saturday, says our Shelburn correspondent, the pet cat of Mrs. C. D. Osborn accidentally got caught in a rat trap which Mrs. Osborn had set to catch a rat. In trying to extricate the cat, Tabby bit Mrs. Osborn on the right hand, which is not serious, although it forced her to call some neighbors to release the cat. While no bones were broken, Tabby is nursing a sore foot.

Revival At Crabtree

Beginning Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Garland Hall of Stayton will conduct a ten days' evangelistic campaign at the Christian church in Crabtree. He will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. Merle Applegate and wife. Special music is planned for each service and a successful meeting is anticipated.

Baptist Church Notes

Sunday school at 10 o'clock every Sunday morning. Everybody is invited to attend.

Christian Endeavor every Sunday evening at 6:30.

Prayer meeting every Thursday night at 7:30.

He confesses his early life in Picacho. Ruth urges him to return and face the authorities. Larey goes back to Picacho and finds it deserted. His brother is still alive, and the sheriff has died a natural death. The law is not awaiting his return. He meets Dismukes, who, finding city life unpleasant, is planning to return to the desert. Adam leaves Picacho to return to the girl—she had promised to wait for him.

In the wastelands, Adam Larey had found his freedom and his love.

Three shows—Saturday 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., and Sunday 8 p. m. In natural colors, it is worthy of filled houses at each performance. Admission 15c and 35c.

Four Prizes Offered

The Oregon Historical Society has selected "The Missionary Movement to the Oregon Country" as the subject for the 1926 C. C. Beckman History Prizes and Medals. The prizes are four in number, viz., first $60; second, $50; third, $40; fourth, $30; and will be awarded for the best four original essays on the above named subject written and submitted by girls or boys over 15 years of age and under 18 years of age, attending any public or private school, academy, seminary, college university, or other educational institution within the state of Oregon. Each of the four prize winners will also receive a handsome bronze medal.

The essay must not exceed 2000 words in length. Books bearing on subject can be secured at the state library, Salem. Further information may be had by writing the Oregon Historical Society, 253 Market street, Portland, Oregon.

City Budget Adopted

Because of sickness and counter attractions there was not a quorum of the council present last Thursday evening, the time set to pass upon the city budget for 1925.

The members of the budget committee and the council met Saturday evening at the office of the mayor, the report of the committee being accepted, the budget adopted and ordinances drawn to cover same at this time.

Power Company Increasing

The Mountain States Power Co. has completed its 66,000-volt power line from Albany to Corvallis, and has put into use its new power line from Springfield to Junction City. The daily papers also said the other day that the Byllesby interests, of which the Mountain States is a part, were about to buy the Oregon-California Power Co. Evidently great things are in the offing for the Pacific coast states.

Mashes His Foot

Last Saturday afternoon while working at the garage of the Bartu Motor Co., Frank Bartu jr. dropped a grader blade on his left foot, with the result that it was quite badly mashed. A physician dressed the injured member and he is now able to limp about.
