J. B. Couey and daughters, Misses Leta and Mildred, and Lester Arnold and family visited Sunday at the home of S. M. Couey near Oregon City. Mr. Couey has two acres of fine strawberries which are at present bearing their second crop. Strawberries formed an important part of the dinner menu.

Two men were disputing as to the weight of an inch of rainfall. "I read somewhere that it is 101 tons of water to the acre," said one. "No," said the other, "I'm positive the correct figure is 113 tons." The Weather Bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says that both are right. The rainfall in the first instance was reckoned by the long ton, or 2240 pounds, the common ton in Great Britain. The long ton is used for some purposes in this country, but the short ton, or 2000 pounds, which gave the second result, is more usual here.

A reader came into the office last Thursday, after reading the story about another community planning to grab off the Scio Condensery, and said: "Don't you let them take the condensery away from here, it is needed right here, and you must not let it go." We won't if we can prevent it, but it would probably take more than just "our" protest if it comes to going. What else would it take? you ask. The answer is, SUPPORT. Until this community can give at least 75% support, this talk of removal will become a reality some of these days. It's a good investment, so let's keep it here.

The Locarno agreement is the outgrowth of the League of Nations, in which France, Belgium, Italy and Germany are to be at peace, and a few of the big dailies and statesmen of America now recognize the league as a potent factor in world affairs. Borah is blind as yet, and it probably is because he is not as big as he thinks he is in shaping world events or in handling impending crises. His vituperation and Lodge's generalship during his lifetime is what has kept America in such company as Russia and Turkey. The Locarno pact is better than the Versailles treaty, it is said, which shows that anything good must have a beginning to work from.

"Pacific American International Exposition 1930." The campaign is launched, being put under headway last week. It is destined to bring to the attention of the world the vastness of the resources of Oregon in particular and the Pacific coast in general. More industries are also thus sought to create more payrolls so the product of the farm may be more readily consumed by the people receiving the payrolls. Every community is to help by boosting its own resources and thus secure the industry and peoples for which it is best adapted. This is sound reasoning, and the outlying community that can best tell its story to the prospective will reap the greatest benefits—but facts must be told to get them. In or near Portland is where the exposition will be held, and the buildings are to be substantial so they can be used for manufacturing or other purposes.

Is Eleven Years Old

Mrs. Fred T. Bilyeu gave a party at her home Wednesday afternoon for her daughter, Virginia, on the occasion of her eleventh birthday. The hours were from 3:30 to 6:00. The rooms were beautifully decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season.

The early part of the afternoon was spent in playing games and in viewing the many beautiful presents which Virginia had received. At a late hour they were ushered into the dining room where the spirit of Hallowe'en again prevailed. The centerpiece was a basket fashioned from a pumpkin and filled with fruit. The favors were orange and black suckers.

Those present were Virginia Lefler, Ralph Johnston, Wilma Smith, Harry Wesely, Genevieve Sims, Alta Pennel, Max Long, Geraldine Rodgers, Helen Myers, Adolph Krosman, Joyce Peterson, Loraine Hixson, Esther and Lloyd McKnight.

Mrs. Don McKnight and Mrs. C. L. Pennel assisted in serving.

First Meeting of Bridge Club

The bridge club opened the season Wednesday afternoon when the first meeting after the summer vacation was held at the home of Mrs. Paul Lardon.

In the living room a profusion of cactus dahlias formed the decorations while in the dining room the Hallowe'en motif was carried out. The favors were suggestive of the season. The first prize was taken by Mrs. A. W. Hagey and the booby prize went to Mrs. John Wesely. After the games a dainty luncheon was served on the card tables.

The personnel of the club this year is Mrs. Prill, Mrs. W. F. Gill, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Sticha, Mrs. Rola Shelton, Mrs. Edwin Holland, Mrs. Bragg, Mrs. Hagey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Fred Bilyeu, Mrs. John Wesely, Mrs. Lardon, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. M. B. Cyrus substituted for Mrs. Bilyeu.

Father and the Stove

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

The other day my father wrote:
"The time is drawing near
When we must move the hard-coal stove;
I wish that you were here!"
The message wakened memories
Of days when, as a lad,
I was compelled to answer such
A summons from my dad.

I well remember how we tugged
Until the blamed thing stood
Exactly on a certain spot
As Mother said it should;
And then about the time I thought
I might at last retire
I had to hold the bloomin' pipe
While Father fixed the wire.

Now, Father never said a word
To sterilize his soul;
He didn't think that "damn" or "hell"
Would help him reach his goal;
He grieved and suffered silently
And didn't cuss at all—
Unless in confidence he told
His troubles to the wall.

The melancholy atmosphere
That filled that old front room
While Father battled with a stove
Was like the fall of doom;
And yet tonight I'd like to go
In answer to his call—
To see if Father still confides
His troubles to the wall!

"Truth in Meats"

ABERDEEN-ANGUS STEER "QUEENMERE 24TH"
Grand Champion Pacific International Livestock Exposition, 1924. Bred, fed and exhibited by Congdon and Batties, Yakima, Wash.

At the Pacific International Livestock Exposition to be held in Portland this year, October 31st to November 7th, it is proposed to give a demonstration which will carry out the idea of "Truth in Meats."

Assisting in this work will be the Department of Agriculture, colleges of Oregon and the Pacific slope, packing-house people, stock-yard officials and commission men, and retailers as well. Six to eight live animals, nicely bodied down and properly cared for, will be graded from prime to common, and over the head of each will be posted the price on foot at which its kind is selling in the stock-yards that week. Directly back of them, in a refrigerator, will be shown carcasses from animals of a similar lot. These carcasses will also show the selling price from the packer to the retailer. Farther down in the refrigerator, will be shown the regular wholesale cuts of meat usually sold in the trade. These, too, will carry their proper pricing as regards the various grades.

Finally, in a counter will be seen all the retail cuts from these various packing-house lots; they in turn showing exactly what a choice cut from the choicest animal should sell for; bearing in mind all the time that the overhead in the retail store is just as much, pound for pound, on a common animal as it is on a choice one.

The purpose of this entire demonstration will not be to prove that the retailers are getting too little or too much for their meat, but rather to show the relative value of prime as compared with common meat.
