THURSDAY, Dec. 3, 1925

This weather is so changeable the man in charge must be a woman.

Read the ads this week. There are some bargains there for the thrifty.

When a man leaves his wife she hasn't lost half so much as she thinks she has.

Still, the modern girl knows as much about a needle as the modern boy knows about a bucksaw.

After all, the United States isn't in a very good position to sneer at China because it is overrun with bandits.

A Washington scientist wants to weigh the brains of all congressmen. But where would he find scales small enough?

Summer losses in the cabinet are Weeks of the war department, Jardine's tonsils and Wilbur's airships and peace of mind.

Mr. Coolidge's economy program has been so successful that the government is now able to employ 8000 more job-holders than it had a year ago.

"It is roast beef," says a centenarian, "that has made England what it is." We have never heard a more powerful plea for vegetarianism.

The city council meets in regular session tonight. If you want to "cuss" the mayor or council or discuss some important matter with them, come down.

It is said that we carry a weight of fifteen tons of air on our bodies. And probably the fact that so much of the burden is hot air is what gives us that pain in the neck.

The new bridge at Albany is open to traffic, and a woman claims the honor of being the first one over it. She took desperate chances, with its own weight, her weight and the "wait" of the court on the injunction. But women are brave!

When the Crown Mine sets up its concentrating mill in the spring of 1926, we'll wager the hole in the doughnut some knockers will be quite sick; for home people will be benefited a lot, even those who have done nothing but knock. A rich vein has sure been struck and stockholders are in great luck. 'Tis so!

Now that the O A C has come out for farmers to advertise in the home paper to dispose of surplus stock at a profit to them and a saving to the consumer, we cannot help but say it is beginning to give real service to the producer. C. J. McIntosh, agricultural press agent of the college, says "benefits from advertising accrue largely from shortening the road to market and reducing the cost of marketing, such as transportation, commission, and loss from damage in transportation. * * The newspaper is the ideal medium for cutting across lots from grower to table. * * By putting a want ad in the local paper, the farmer may sell in the local market to consumer in town or farmer in vicinity who may be in need of such produce." If it pays a merchant to advertise, why not a farmer also.

GO AFTER THE BUSINESS

Small towns complain that big cities draw all the business from rural communities.

This is a mistaken idea. All over the county there are shining examples to prove that manufacturers, publishers, writers, motion picture producers, mill operators and numerous other productive enterprises are established, thrive and distribute their products more economically from a small town than from a populous center. The small town which will analyze its possibilities and then go after the business can build itself up along sound industrial and commercial lines.

The Central Illinois Public Service Company of Springfield, Illinois, has issued a folder entitled "Fertile Fields for Factories." It has not waited for rural towns in Illinois to set forth their advantages, but is going ahead and showing how low production costs are possible in the communities in which it operates.

It shows the raw material, transportation and manufacturing resources in its territory and gives statements of executives from some of the country's largest manufacturing plants as to why they, as manufacturers, prefer a smaller city as a factory location. In every instance one of the main reasons cited is that living conditions in the small places average better than in a big city; there is a stronger community interest in the success of the industries; employees are of a more permanent nature and own their own homes. Thus eliminating a large part of the costly labor turnover.

The Central Illinois Company is doing constructive work and setting an example which can be adopted with profit by wide-awake communities all over the country.

Taking Pig Survey

For some time past now the mail carriers have been taking a pig survey of this community, and the same is being done all over the country. While a good many have given the carriers the information the government wants to know, others have not. The information is voluntary, but it is valuable to know what the pork population of the country is, as it has much to do with a high or low market in many communities throughout the nation. If you own hogs and have a questionnaire, fill it out and hand to your mail carrier. Make the survey 100 per cent for this community.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

If You Want to Look Like This - Don't Smoke

You are going to be disappointed when you look at the face in this Advertisement. It will be such a shock from the type of Faces you always see in Advertisements. They generally get some Guys face to use in a Collar or Underwear Ad that looks like he was just born for that Ad. You never see him in real life or anything that ever looked like him. These "Bull" Durham people conceived the idea of something new. They felt that you were tired looking at such handsome faces in Ads, it was so discouraging to men who looked at them because they knew they could never look like these fellows themselves. So they wanted a homely face that would be an inspiration to other homely men, (because there is a terrible lot of hard looking Birds among you readers). So after looking at the World over they picked on me. I don't smoke "Bull" Durham, so the Moral is IF YOU WILL SMOKE IT, YOU WILL NEVER LOOK LIKE ME. I am the horrible example of a man not using it.

P. S. There is going to be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.
