THE CULINARY ARTIST.

He First Brought Joy and Then Sor-row to His Employers.

Even subalterns sometimes seek in the joys of the palate compensations for deprivations on other fields. Thus on one occasion the chef of a restaurant car, finding himself, for some reason or other, stranded at an unlikely spot in India, offered his services to the officers of an isolated troop of English soldiers, who gladly seized the unlooked for chance. He asked high wages, but by clubbing together they managed to raise them. "Hang it all, if we can't have good theaters and good shops, let us at least have good food!" was the idea on which they acted.

For a time all went well, since the day contained at least one bright spot. But soon inconveniences set in. Reports of the Lucullan meals to be enjoyed at — began to spread, and simultaneously the number of inspections to increase alarmingly. High officers of all grades became suddenly seized with a burning zeal for the military progress of this particular troop and spent hours trotting it out in the morning and further hours administering judicious criticism over an excellent and prolonged dinner. Soon in their hearts the subalterns were cursing the day on which they had set eyes on the restaurant car chef, uncomfortable by the magnificent tips which flowed not into their pockets but into that of the culinary artist. Presently they agreed that even good food can be purchased too dearly and quietly got rid of their paragon. — Cornhill Magazine.

TIPPING THE WAITER.

Come to Think of It, It Does Win One a Lot of Special Favors.

A New York hotel manager is reported as saying that "a tip is nothing else than a reward for special consideration. The question will never be solved as long as any man who asks for special service is in the habit of giving a reward for it."

An eminently sane proposition, says the New York Evening Post. See, for instance, what special service and special consideration the citizen of New York obtains by tipping the waiter. When the customer sits down the waiter refrains from whisking the chair out from under the customer and letting him fall to the floor, as the waiter might very easily do. When he brings in the soup he brings it in a plate instead of a bottle. Who would grudge a small tip for being spared the humiliation of pouring soup out of a bottle? And in so many other ways, which the reader can enumerate for himself, the waiter puts himself out to make the diner comfortable. He refrains from sprinkling sugar over the roast beef and putting olive oil into the ice cream. Between courses he does not sit down to his own meal. If the diner happens to be in the company of a lady the waiter will abstain from disparaging remarks about her complexion. As for the coatroom boy, what is to prevent him from playing football with your hat, except the special consideration due a distributor of tips?

Queer Prisoners.

In the seventies of the last century life in Montenegro was not complex. A traveler relates: "At that time the adult male population was away fighting, and at times there was no one to spare to guard the inmates of the prison when out for exercise. One of them would then be given the rifle and take over the duty. Prisoners also were sent with messages. One went down to Cattaro, in Austrian territory, with 3,000 florins for the banker there, and faithfully delivered the money and was back in prison at night. Another Montenegrin begged a Russian in Cattaro to intercede for his release from prison. "But you are not in prison," said the Russian. "Oh, yes, I am. I have only come here for a load of skins and must go back."

Writing Music.

There is reason to regard the Hindus and the Chinese as in possession of some form of musical notation. The Greeks had a system of writing music, but its comprehension evades us. The Latin notation was, like that of the Greeks in this one particular, alphabetic. A generally accepted tradition credits St. Gregory with the reduction of the scale to the octave and the naming of the seven notes, a service which has commonly won for him the credit of the invention of the art of writing music. — New York Sun.

Smart Dog.

"Which is the smarter, the dog or the horse?"

"No comparison. The dog is the wise one."

"How do you make that out?"

"You know how the horse works. Did you ever see a dog working for a living?" — Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Proper Training.

A man may be able to make money with a common school education, but his son must have a college education to know how to spend it. — Washington Herald.
