Beef Cattle Are NOT Worth Feed on Small Farm

Corvallis, Or.,—That beef cattle on the small farm will make but a small profit, if any at all, is the belief of Professor E. B. Fitts, extension livestock man at O. A. C. It is advisable to turn off the beef early, since beef is produced more cheaply during the first two years of the animal's life than at any time afterwards.

"There is no profit in feeding beef cattle for the additional flesh that they put on. The hay that a beef eats in a day is worth more than the beef it makes. The only advantage in feeding is to give a high finish that will command top prices.

"The beef animal is not so profitable as the dairy cow or as pigs and sheep. When beef is produced, the producers should breed along beef lines. The Durham and Hereford generally stand at the head of the beef breeds, but the Galloway and Angus are also good beef animals.

DUPLICATING AN ACCIDENT.

Showing How It Happened Is Sometimes a Dangerous Risk.

"Showing just how an accident happened is sometimes serious business," said the adjuster of an accident insurance company. "The settlement of a claim isn't made any easier by having some reckless person insist on illustrating just how the thing occurred and then losing a hand, an arm or perhaps his life, before your very eyes.

"I shall never forget an elevator accident that occurred in the early days of my adjusting. The elevator was in an old building which had been remodeled for apartments and offices.

"A tenant rang the elevator bell on one of the upper floors. As there was no response to his signal, he put his head over the metal lattice work that inclosed the shaft to see if the elevator was up or down. Just then the elevator started, the heavy weights came down and crushed his skull.

"When I came to look the ground over the janitor insisted on showing me just how the man met his death. As an illustration he put his head out into the elevator shaft. Again the elevator started, the weights came down as before, and instead of one claim to settle there were two, although of course the latter one was set aside on the ground of gross carelessness.

"Another case was where a woman employed in a steam laundry had four fingers so crushed that amputation was necessary. The next day in an attempt to show me 'just how the thing happened' another woman lost her entire hand, and amputation was necessary above the wrist.

"Nowadays when I go to the scene of an accident I say: 'Give me full particulars. Show me the place and the position of the injured person, but for heaven's sake don't duplicate the accident for the sake of showing me 'just how!' "—New York Sun.

Political Announcements

In this column all candidates for nomination to office who desire, will be published regardless of the political affiliation of the candidate. While the Intermountain Tribune has its own political opinions in a general way, it desires to give the candidates of all parties an equal chance before the people. In recent years a candidate's political affiliation makes but little difference with the people. If he is honest, capable and has special fitness for the office he seeks, he is very apt to win out. Linn county now has a very capable set of county officials and it is hoped those who succeed them next January will prove equally trustworthy and efficient.
