A Serious Blunder.

Almost every town in Oregon has men holding prominent places in the business and affairs of the community, who work incalculable injury to the prosperity of a place by their shortsightedness.

They do not show the least spirit of liberality, nor are they inclined to encourage new enterprises even when by so doing it would be to the benefit of their own pocket book. One of these fossilized specimens owns a commodious hotel near the depot at Grant's Pass. A few days since, when the O. & C. R. changed its time table, the express train passed this place at about the right time for breakfast. As the passenger train changes engines here, by which they are delayed several minutes, it was a very desirable point for an eating station—this would have been a benefit of many dollars to the town. The Bagley House near the depot was the only hotel large enough in the place to sufficiently accommodate the railroad travel, but the proprietor wanted all the railroad employees to pay four-bits for every meal they took at his house, while they got their meals for 25 cents every other place on the road. As the hotel-keeper refused to accede to their demands, the railroad company established the eating station at Medford.

Entertainment at the Academy Friday Evening, May 27, 1887.

The programme will consist of music, select poems, and the Juvenile Operetta Gyp Junior.

At the opening of the Operetta, Gyp Junior is living with an old Gypsy in the woods, whence she is sent every day to beg. She is frightened at two tramps, who at last prove to be her father and brother, who have been searching for her ever since she was stolen by the Old Gypsy several years before. The Operetta opens with a song and chorus by scholars, from a neighboring Seminary, who are out in the woods at play, some of the children have their fortunes told by the Gypsy. Night comes on. The tramps satisfied that Gyp Junior is their lost Mabel go into the hut to secure clothing to identify her—the child is coaxed away by two girls who have taken a liking to her.

The second act opens at the Seminary where Gyp Junior is a scholar. The tramps find her here, and so does Old Gyp. The child is decoyed from the yard by a rabbit and taken captive to the woods by the Gypsy. She is pursued—the child returned to safety and the Old Gypsy as a prisoner.

Marple Takes an Appeal.

H. Y. Thompson, attorney for R. E. Marple, convicted of the murder of David L. Corcoran, of Lafayette, and under sentence to be hanged on June 2, has filed notice of appeal in the office of the clerk of the circuit court for Yamhill county and the transcript of the clerk of the supreme court, and the papers have been served on Prosecuting Attorney Belt. The case will be argued May 24th. The grounds on which the appeal is taken are as follows: "First—The indictment does not charge the defendant with any crime. Second—There was no verdict of the jury upon which to base said judgment and sentence. Third—Said judgment and sentence were pronounced by the court without legal power or lawful authority. Fourth—that the death warrant does not conform to the laws relating thereto, or to the jurisdiction of the court in said action against the defendant."

A Word to Correspondents.

In this issue of THE EXPRESS it will be noticed that it has a number of friends who are pleased to assist in making it locally interesting by contributing to it the local happenings of their respective places. This is right and we heartily appreciate the kindness of our correspondents in doing so. We would say further that THE EXPRESS is the only paper in Linn county which has openly announced itself in favor of prohibition and to this end desires anything in the way of contributions which will be for the success of the amendment. And also let us hear what your farmers, stockmen, merchants and mechanics are doing. In short, let every industry throughout the county be represented in the columns of THE EXPRESS.

School Report.

The following is a list of pupils whose names deserve to be placed on the roll of honor, for the following reasons: 1st, regular attendance; 2d, good conduct; 3d, diligence and perseverance in study. In the Waterloo school for the month ending May 6, 1887: Matt Carns, Thos. J. Carns, Minnie DeVancey, Laura DeVancey, Jay B. Gross, Annie Gross, Hattie Gross, J. A. Klum, A. J. Klum, Mand Klum, Lillie McBride, Ira McBride, Alice McTimmonds, Stella McTimmonds.

Notice.

All persons going to the County Temperance Alliance at Seio, via the Narrow Gauge road, will be met at West Seio by hacks. Those who go by the O. & C. road must leave the train at Jefferson, from whence there is a daily stage line to Seio.

Local and General.

The liquor traffic must go! The 6th of June will be a legal holiday.

Rev. Mr. Woolley is at Eugene City attending the Presbytery.

Vote for the amendment and thereby help your friends and your country. Frank Ballard had his foot severely bruised on Wednesday evening last, by the horse cart passing over it.

We learn that the Albany firemen are making no preparations to attend the tournament at Vancouver.

An Amendment League of 114 members was organized at Jefferson, on the evening of the 7th of this month.

Under a $1000 license the saloons of Omaha, Nebraska, have increased from 72 to 180. Comments are unnecessary.

Dr. J. A. McAllen will lecture at the Band hall, next Sunday at 11 o'clock A. M., subject, Theology. All are invited.

Messrs Brunk & Wright the contractors, have turned over to the O. P. company, $100,000 to build the road about 35 miles.

Elder Norton, of Waterloo, called to see us Wednesday morning. He held religious services at Sweet Home on Sunday last.

Workmen in the railroad yards at The Dalles, are at work to place every efficient piece of machinery at the prospectively high water.

G. E. Hardy has just received a handsome invoice of jewelry, consisting of the very latest novelties in rings, pins, chains, etc.

Gen. T. G. Reams, of Jacksonville, has resigned his position on account of the falling health of his wife.

F. M. Miller Esq., of this place has been selected to deliver the oration on behalf of the G. A. R. at Albany on Decoration day, May 30th.

Mr. O. J. Jennings, of the firm of Jennings & McPherson, who own and manage the Hamilton creek saw mill, has our thanks for favors this week.

Mrs. Nellie, wife of Henry Backenstodt died at the home of her parents in Eugene city Wednesday, the 11th inst., after an illness of several weeks.

Dr. A. H. Peterson dentist, of this city, is paying Sweet Home a professional visit. His patients will find him, thoroughly efficient in his practices.

James Shelton of the Forks of the Santiam, a few days ago shipped to Col. Hogg, at Albany 90 hams, for which he received $210. This beats raising wheat.

W. C. Peterson, jeweler, has secured the agency for the World type writer for this county. Every one should have one of these dexterous little machines.

F. H. Roscoe & Co. ask all the ladies to call and see the Novelty Washer—a little and complete labor-saving machine for which they are the sole agents for Linn county.

A grand basket picnic will be given under the auspices of the Halsey Ultimatum Brass Band, at Powell's grove near Halkey, on Saturday, May 28. Speeches and games of amusement will be the order of the day.

The sheep owners of Burnt river and Snake river are making ready for the spring clip, and will commence shearing about the 20th of this month. In the neighborhood of 50,000 sheep will yield up their fleeces in that section this year.

The location for the round house, at Albany, for the O. P. company has been selected and work upon its erection will commence soon. As soon as the weather settles work will be commenced upon the eastern extension of the line.

Mr. A. B. Woodin, of Albany has leased the Lebanon flouring mill and will at once put it in order for first-class work. He has secured the services of an efficient miller, and the farmers can rely on the mill doing the best of work hereafter.

W. E. McManan, the popular proprietor of the Canyon Creek house, was in town again this week. Parties who partake of "Maek's" accommodations this year will understand why so much substantial provision is being hauled into the mountains by him.

The shipment of fresh salmon from The Dalles is fairly commencing says an exchange. On an average, forty boxes, ranging from one hundred to one hundred and fifty pounds in weight are sent daily from this point. On some days the shipments reach over fifty boxes.

The many friends of W. W. Smith, Esq., will be glad to know that he is now convalescing from a serious attack of neuritis and rheumatism. The Squire has been a patient sufferer from the complications which afflicted him. In a few days we hope to see him attending to business as usual.

Mr. M. L. Hasbrouck, sends us his compliments in the way of a neat card by which we learn he is agent for Frank Bros', Implement company. Some very acceptable news items concerning the "Bunch Grass" country from his pen appears in another column. Mr. H. is doing business in Pendleton.

Next week the publication day of THE EXPRESS will be changed from Saturday to Friday. We make the change so as to accommodate our patrons who get their mail on the south-bound O. R. train. We understand some do not get this paper until the week following its publication. This will not be the case hereafter.

A minister who had just undertaken a new charge was informed that a wine merchant, who occupied a chief seat in the synagogue, contributed fifty dollars to the stipend, so he was to deal gently with the drink question. "No sir," was the reply; "let's begin fair. Take fifty dollars off my money; I want to get a shot at that pew."

Senator Reagan of Texas says that he can vote for the constitutional prohibition amendment, and yet be a consistent Democrat. We wonder if Senators J. H. Mitchell, and J. N. Dale, an ex-governor of congress and Past Grand Secretary I. O. G. T. of Oregon, M. C. George will say they can vote for the amendment and be consistent Republicans.

If you love us a little say so. Come, good fellow, ante-saloon up, this is a non-partisan fight and prohibition is bound to win. The amendment will be all the go in a few days.—Prohibition Star.

Under date of May 13, our Albany correspondent writes that Wednesday evening Dr. J. W. Watts addressed the prohibition league here. The people were so well pleased that he was invited to remain over Thursday night which he did. The brass band was engaged, the Band of Hope furnished music and the doctor delivered a powerful lecture upon the subject, "Watchman, what of the Night?" And the Watchman answered, "The Morning Cometh." The league is now over 400 strong and will do its share towards carrying the county by 500 majority the amendment.
