

The Lebanon Express.

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1887.

J. H. STINE, Editor.

A fire in Dayton, W. T., one night last week, destroyed $115,000 worth of property.

Kit Carson Post G. A. R. in resolving to ask the governor of Oregon to use his influence in having the flag order revoked, mistook their man.

With the Portland News, we enter a most emphatic protest against Mr. St. John, of Kansas, coming to Oregon to lecture for Prohibition. As the people have no confidence in him, he will do us more harm than good. Keep him away.

James G. Blaine says prohibition has been a grand success in Maine, that it has greatly lessened or practically abolished the liquor traffic in that state. Neal Dow says the same; about every official of that state who has made a statement on the subject of late years has given the same testimony to the efficiency of prohibition in Maine.

A severe warning to Chinese miners comes from an Idaho mining region. A whole camp of Chinese miners were slain in a night. Opinion is divided as to the authorship of the bloody deed but the whites, the reds, and the yellows, are suspected. More than likely it was the whites who look with an evil eye upon Chinese intrusions on American mines. The American miner kicks hard at the Chinese miner.

Prohibition leaders claim that they will be able to poll 50,000 votes in New York in November. This is a large claim, and though the increase in their vote in recent years has been steady, it has not been large enough each year to make so great a gain as this probable. It was nearly 19,000 in 1883, nearly 25,000 in 1884, nearly 31,000 in 1885 and over 36,000 in 1886. There is a regular advance of from 5,000 to 6,000 votes a year, but the present claims is for 14,000 advance. They may make it, however.

Better times are upon us. Everything indicates that the year 1887 is to be one of the best Oregon has ever seen. If people will only use the lessons of thrift and economy that a few hard years just past have taught them, the next few years may indeed be a grand era of prosperity. Economy is not inconsistent with the highest degree of enterprise; it only makes the results of intelligent enterprise more substantial and enduring. Industry, economy and enterprise are the elements of success in building up either private fortune or developing a state—are now, have been in the past and will continue to be in the future.

B. S. Worsley, resident of the Astoria, so-called State Board of Directors of the Firemen's Association, writes Capt. C. C. Hackleman of this city, a long letter attempting to smooth over the action of said Board in getting away with the $100 the Lebanon team won at Vancouver. He says now that it was the third coupling that was not broken by hand. Mr. Worsley knows very well there was nothing said about the third coupling when the contest was decided in favor of Lebanon. Too thin, Mr. W., too thin. You have got our boys' money. Keep it, and don't make matters worse in trying to white-wash your Astoria Board of Directors for giving your Astoria firemen a prize they did not merit.

FARM NOTES.

It always pays to plant trees. Use a sharp hoe, the dull hoe wastes strength.

Peas will do the work of reclaiming poor land where clover will not stand. The Short-horn bull, "Duke of Connaught," recently sold in England for $22,500.

In Australia many wool-growers shear their sheep by machinery driven by steam.

Make only good butter. It is just as easy to make as bad butter, and will always find ready sale.

Muncie, Ind., has the largest gas well in the world. It is flowing at the rate of 12,000,000 feet per day.

Sunflower seed, which can be easily grown without trouble, forms a food of which fowls are extremely fond.

Don't feed little chicks until they are thirty-six hours old. If fed before that time their digestive organs are impaired.

Feed plenty of carrots and plenty of grain, keep the cows warm and you may have fairly yellow butter in winter.

Bees are the only farm stock that give a valuable product, and yet cost nothing beyond being provided with shelter.

To cure a horse of the bots, drench with one quart of strong tea, made from our common wild sage. It will bring relief in one hour.

To have the best success with small fruits, manure highly and give thorough cultivation. Better raise 300 bushels on one acre than on three.

Massachusetts experiments show that planting medium-sized whole potatoes gives better returns than when half potatoes of the same size are planted.

The freshest eggs are the heaviest, and when placed in a pan of water will sink to the bottom at once. Older eggs will sink partly, while stale eggs will float on top.

Dairy schools have proved beneficial in Europe. The agricultural college of Mississippi is the only one in this country where special attention is given to practical butter and cheese making.

Several men have sold to farmers, at $3 per dozen, eggs which they said would hatch valuable chickens. They promised to pay $3 apiece for all chickens raised. The eggs were boiled.

The Illinois house of representatives has just made it a punishable offense to obtain certificates of registry of cattle and other animals by false pretense, and also to give false pedigrees of animals.

Provide an ash bath for fowls by filling an old dish pan or some vessel that is wide and shallow, with dry, fresh wood ashes. This is better than the dust bath, keeps fowls free from lice, and they like it.

Dry, dusty hay makes a very unpalatable meal for horses that have to work hard. The best of hay is liable to be a little dusty at this time of the year, and is not injured at all by being dampened a little before fed.

Calves should be kept growing from the start. A month-old calf should be fed an ounce or so of oat meal or fine bran every day. Young calves should be carefully guarded against overfeeding and vermin.

If you expect your grain to come up evenly, do not plow a whole field before you sow, when you have a few acres plowed, then sow while the surface is moist, before it has time to dry out. This is especially necessary in the inland Empire, where the surface dries rapidly.

The Good Times Have Reached Lebanon.

Montague's sales for cash during the past week were unprecedentedly large—nearly double what they were on the same date in June any time during the past fifteen years. Good goods at low prices, printer's ink and lots of free advertising may account for it. I am stocking up constantly with fresh goods, notably in summer dress goods, ladies', misses and children's shoes, hosiery in endless variety, while for gentlemen, boys and children, I am getting an elegant line of clothing, hats, caps, the "Boss Book," warranted, plow shoes and dress shoes, cheap stylish and durable. These goods were bought for cash, at very low rates, and will be sold without regard to the large prices usually charged by other houses for inferior goods.

"The friends that hasten and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel."

Montague has just hours of friends, and the way they rally around his establishment buying their supplies of him, rejoices the heart of the old gentleman, who feels that his labors among the good people of Lebanon and vicinity for the past fifteen years, is most kindly appreciated. As Montague is here to stay, it will be to his interest, as well as yours, to give you full value for your money every time. Always go to Montague's for your supplies.

Montague has no desire to control the entire business of Lebanon, and will make no frantic efforts towards that end. He proposes to let his competitors manage their business in their own way. He will buy his goods at the very lowest rates when he has the cash to pay for them, and if he does sell them lower than others, remember, that he sells exclusively for cash, and those who buy from him will not have to pay their spots to cover bad debts, which, unfortunately, credit gives him hopes to often make. Look over his stock and get his prices.

"Hear out our banner on the outer wall, The cry is, still they come!"

New customers are being added daily to Montague's already large list of patrons. They buy their supplies at his mammoth Cash store and go away satisfied, as his goods are first-class in every respect, while his prices are much lower than his competitors.

Montague intended to say a few words this week about attempted conspiracies and chronic kickers, but he will desist for the present.

There is a certain old family who, for many, many centuries has used for its motto the words—"CAVE, ADJURE!" Construct them as you like.

With the kindest wishes for his friends, and a stern rebuke to his foes, Montague will continue at the old stand dispensing his goods at the lowest living rates, knowing well that buyers will go where they can do the best, and where they are sure of getting 100 cents' worth for a dollar, every time. Drop in and see him.

I have no patent on my style of advertising; neither do I advertise myself as a "Leader." Remember this: "The great heart of the world is just." I am satisfied, and profoundly thankful for the people's verdict.

C. B. MONTAGUE.

The World Type-Writer

WHAT IS IT? The Machine Answers for Itself.

A Machine to do the Work of the Pen.

If you write much or little, you need a Type-Writer, costing you but $10 that will do your work much better than a machine for which you will pay $100.00.

Pen writing is slow and tiresome. It wastes time, and time is money, no matter what your occupation. The continued use of the pen exhausts body and mind.

The pen cannot keep pace with thoughts. Often the best are lost. The mind becomes clogged, the power of rapid composition remains undeveloped, and your written productions lack the brilliancy of extemporaneous speech. Time, health and the highest capabilities are too valuable to be wasted. Hence the demand for a rapid and easy writing machine. After many attempts success has been attained in

The World Type-Writer, which embodies the fundamental principles of writing machines, and embraces patented devices which are believed to be essential to the construction of a successful and practical type-writer. It is the result of costly experimenting, and is the nearest approach to perfection for the money it costs, which has yet been produced. It successfully meets the demand, and is ready to supply that demand and prove to the people that the World Type-Writer is mightier than the pen, as the "pen is mightier than the sword." You can buy one from me for Ten Dollars, ($10.00) and make yourself and family happy. Call and see them work, if you do not wish to buy one. They are on exhibition at my Jewelry store,

WALT C. PETERSON, The Jeweler,

LEBANON, OREGON.
