THE GREAT EXODUS.

Reports from the Middle States indicate a large exodus of farmers to other States, where they hope to better their condition and avoid the cold winters, the droughts and floods, the blizzards and hurricanes, the plagues of grasshoppers and chinch bugs, which seem to be their only lot at home. Where these people will go depends upon the amount and character of literature placed before them by the hundreds of advertising agents from the West and South. The Portland News says every State and Territory west of the Mississippi river has its agents throughout the East disseminating knowledge of its particular locality, while hundreds of real estate firms, corporations or colonies have their private immigration boards for their particular schemes.

No country under the sun offers inducements in the way of never-failing crops, equable climate, varied and developed resources, wealth of agricultural land, and of forest and mine, than Oregon. This State possesses in itself the diversified resources of a nation, and with development is capable of supporting millions of people. That population will come in time there is no doubt, but in the meantime other localities with their highly-colored literature are endeavoring to attract the dissatisfied farmer of the East. Without prompt advertising they are left in ignorance of the characteristics of this State.

The amount of money spent in advertising by the citizens of Portland will soon bear its fruit, and there will be a large immigration next year. But the work of scattering information throughout the East should not stop here. A permanent immigration agent should be retained to receive descriptive matter where it will do the most good. The indirect benefits accruing to the State by a proper advertisement of its resources cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, but a rapid growth of population will bring untold wealth in its train, and our citizens will be benefited by the outlay.

The tariff business is a peculiar question. Some people who are supposed to be quite smart in a general way don't seem to know anything about the vexed question or have any idea as to how it might be solved, and yet there are hundreds and thousands of people who don't know enough to go in out of the way who can talk tariff from morning till night, and if it were left to them they could fix it out in a short time so there would be no more trouble and everybody would be satisfied. As Bill Nye says: "Go where you will in this country to-day and you will find men talking about the tariff and the tax on raw material who haven't had a mouthful of raw material or any other kind in the house for weeks, except as their wives earned it and brought it home to them. This country is full of men who have thought so hard for the week that the seats of their trousers shine like the dome of the Massachusetts state house."

According to the Astoria Transcript, China and Japan will get a fine taste of Oregon fruit next month. The Danube carried away a fine shipment wrapped in paper. There will be a large market for apples in China and Japan these days. In China they raise no apples worth mentioning and in Japan only a very few poor ones. Europeans and the better class of natives in both countries are willing to pay good prices for apples, but it is a long way to send this fruit to market, and unless good apples are selected and they are carefully packed the fruit cannot make the journey in good condition.

Adolescents from Bonny River, Africa, give a revolting story of savage atrocities and cannibalism. The Okrikan tribe, in revenge for some injury, invited a party of Ogonis to a friendly galaver, and then entrapped and massacred them. A cannibal festival of the most horrible and indescribable character followed. Then an attack was made upon the undefended villages, and the most barbarous outrages were committed. Over 150 persons, including women and children, were killed and eaten.

A Newport News reporter recently interviewed the chief engineer of the projected narrow gauge railroad from Newport to Astoria, and was assured that most favorable news had lately been received in regard to the same. In fact that gentleman stated it to be his opinion that the line would be located during the present winter, and work upon construction would be commenced next season. It is understood that California parties will furnish the capital for the enterprise.

A man walked into Mayor Hewitt's office recently, in New York, deposited an envelope containing $12,000 for the Jacksonville yellow fever sufferers, and walked out again, after refusing to give his name. "Just say that it came from an American," was all that he would say. The money was in three gold certificates, one of the denomination of $10,000 and two of $1000 each.

Considerable Eastern coin is being invested in Clatsop county timber land. The ruling rate is $10 per acre. Ten years from now it will be worth $100 an acre. But at $10 an acre the cash value of Clatsop county's 448,000 acres of timber land is worth $4,480,000.

The Boston Herald has discovered that of the candidates for president this year Cleveland is the biggest, Harrison the shortest, Fisk the handsomest, Strotter the whitest and Belva Lockwood the sweetest. "Tah for Belva."

Pendleton has received a proposition from a Berlin capitalist to erect a wool-securer establishment, costing $80,000 if the people there offer encouragement.

ENGLISH VERBS AND PREPOSITIONS.

"I begin to understand your language better," said my French friend, Mr. Dubois, to me, "but your verbs trouble me still; you mix them up so with prepositions."

"I saw your friend, Mrs. Murkison, just now," he continued. "She says she intends to break down housekeeping. Am I right there?"

"Break up housekeeping, she must have said."

"Oh, yes, I remember, break up housekeeping."

"Why does she do that?" I asked.

"Broken down," he said. "She says she intends to break down housekeeping."

"Broken into," he said. "She thinks she will leave it for a few weeks."

"Will she leave her home alone?"

"No, she is afraid it will be broken—broken—how do I say that?"

"Broken into," he said. "Certainly; it is what I meant to say."

"Is her son to be married soon?"

"No, that engagement is broken—broken—how do I say that?"

"Broken off," he said. "Ah, I had not heard that."

"She is very sorry about it. Her son only broke off the news to her last week. Am I right? I am anxious to speak English well."

"He merely broke the news; no preposition this time."

"It is hard to understand. That young man, her son, is a fine young fellow, a breaker I think."

"A breaker, and a fine young fellow. Good day."

So much for the verb "to break."—Educational Journal.

A Punctuated Fable.

The following article forcibly illustrates the necessity of proper punctuation. It can be read in two ways, describing a very bad man, or a very good man, the result depending upon the manner in which it is punctuated. It is well worth the study of all:

He is an old man and experienced in vice and wickedness he is never found in opposing the works of iniquity he takes delight in the downfall of his neighbors he never rejoices in the prosperity of his fellow-creatures he is always ready to assist in destroying the peace of society he takes no pleasure in serving the Lord he is uncommonly diligent in sowing discord among his friends and acquaintances he takes no pride in laboring to promote the cause of Christianity he has not been negligent in endeavoring to stigmatize all public teachers he makes no effort to subvert his passions he strives hard to build up Satan's kingdom he lends no aid to the support of the gospel among the heathen he contributes largely to the devil he will never go to heaven he must go where he will receive the just recompense of reward.—Ex.

Answer to Skeptic.

The questions of Skeptic last week are both presumptions, and are both false conclusions from false premises. The children of Israel were never heathens as a people or a nation, and there are no Jews even to this day who deny the living God or fail to recognize the God of their fathers.

The brethren of Joseph did not "send him"; they sold him in their envy and cruelty to traders, neither knowing or caring what became of him. God overruled their wickedness and brought good out of evil. Joseph was indebted to God for his goodness and prosperity; he was only indebted to his brethren for being sold into slavery.

Braden and Underwood.

Some time ago arrangements were made for a discussion at Silverton between Clark Braden, a religious enthusiast, who, it will be remembered appeared in this city last spring, and B. F. Underwood, of Boston. By some misunderstanding, however, the discussion fell through; but on last Thursday evening the committee from the Silverton Union and the agents of the religious controversy arranged the matter, and the wrangle between the two champions will begin on November 21st and continue for a number of days, or until the question is forever settled one way or another.—Corvallis Times.

Marrying for Beauty.

There are many who marry for beauty in the person of the one chosen. A graceful form or handsome bearing or ruddy countenance has charmed the heart. Much as beauty is to be prized, pity for the one who forgets character, merit, and temper of mind and qualities of heart under the daze of a glowing beauty. The beauty soon fades and leaves nothing in its place. True worth and nobleness of nature and disposition are so paramount to all else that beauty is of comparative little worth. It is remarkable how few real handsome men or pretty women, so styled by the ordinary standards, there are who are worth the clothes they wear.—Telegraph.

The raising of cranberries is being made an industry in some parts of W. T. An exchange says that the California company that owns the large cranberry marshes near Long Beach, W. T., will ship 800 bushels of fine berries to San Francisco this season. About sixty hands are now employed in picking and boxing the berries, which will yield $4 per bushel at the market. The owner's say that the next year's crop will exceed 5000 bushels. The company has now out eighty acres of vines, which have cost over $50,000.

A traveling man, stopping at the Lee House, Campbellburg, Ind., on learning that a lady in the village was suffering terribly with cramp colic, gave the landlady a bottle of medicine which he had with him and requested her to take it to the sick woman. The medicine relieved her promptly and she believed saved her life. It was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, the promptest and most reliable medicine in use for Bowel Complaints. Sold by M. A. Miller.

A Baker City woman has just been sued for $8 on subscription to a paper and had to pay the full amount and costs.

"THERE IS NO DEATH."

There is no death! the stars go down To rise upon some fairer shore; And bright in heaven's jeweled crown They shine forever more.

There is no death! the dust we tread Shall change beneath the summer showers To golden grain, or mellow fruit, Or rainbow-tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disengage To feed the hungry mosses they bear; The forest trees drink daily life From out the vernal air.

There is no death! the leaves may fall, The flowers may fade and pass away; They only wait, through wintry hours, The coming of the May.

There is no death! an angel form Walks o'er the earth with silent tread; He bears our best loved ones away— And then we call them "dead!"

He leaves our hearts all desolate; He plucks our faintest, sweetest flowers; Transplanted into bliss, they now Adorn immortal bowers.

For where He sees a smile too bright, Or heart too pure for transient vice, He bears it to that world of light, To dwell in Paradise.

The bird like voice whose joyous tones Make glad the scenes of sin and strife, Sings now the everlasting song Amid the Tree of Life.

Though passed beyond our tear-dimmed sight, 'Tis but a larger life to gain; We feel their presence oft—the same, Except to sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen, The dear immortal spirits tread; For all the boundless universe Is life—there is no death!

—Lord Lytton.

It is said that the uncle of Secretary of State Bayard is a hermit, living thirty miles from San Antonio, Texas. He lives in a single room built of wood and stone and gazes out the window at his grave, which is dug into solid limestone. It cost him four years of toil to complete his last resting place.

Judge no one by his relations, whatever criticisms you pass upon his companions. Relations, like features, are thrust upon us; companions, like clothes, are more or less our own selection.

It is in vain for us to expect, and impudent for us to ask, God's forgiveness of ourselves, if we refuse to exercise a forgiving temper toward others.

Ague cannot be permanently cured until the system has been thoroughly cleansed of all morbid matter. Quinine and other febrifuges will quell temporarily, but it is sure to return unless the system has been cleansed. For this purpose there is nothing better than St. Patrick's Pills. They not only purge, but thoroughly cleanse the entire system and will, in most cases, prevent ague and like malarial diseases if used as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by M. A. Miller.

A Cure for Diarrhoea. Mr. J. A. Burnison, of Colburg, Montgomery Co., Ia., has found out how he can cure any case of Diarrhoea. Two of his children had the disease; for about six weeks he tried four different patent medicines without benefit, but he finally got hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which he says completely cured them, and is confident it will cure any case when the plainly printed directions are followed. Sold by M. A. Miller.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely cured.

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever. —Mrs. Williams, near Portland, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers. —C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until with a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes, have used for those complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier. —Mrs. G. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

By Taking three bottles of this medicine I have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye. —Kendall T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years of age, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored. Her cure is complete. —W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.
