Look out for the red cross. It indicates that THE EXPRESS is needing a little change and that you are in arrears—please give attention—if my account is small matter to you, but the aggregate is large to the poor printer.
Samuel Claypool, an old and highly respected citizen, has returned to Lebanon after an absence in Eastern Oregon with his family for some eight months. We gladly welcome them back, and are sorry to learn that one or more members of the family are not enjoying good health.
A party was given by the Misses Swan on last Friday evening. A goodly number of our young people were present and participated in the play of the evening; also in a beautiful lunch which was served them. The crowd, after much enjoyment, dispersed about midnight.
The farmers in the vicinity of Harrisburg, Linn county, are complaining of the depredation of cattle thieves and of evil disposed persons who mutilate stock by cutting off their ears and otherwise disgusting them. One man named Meredith was found in possession of three heads belonging to a man at Phedd, and skipped across the mountains to avoid the consequences.
Mrs. M. Beckenstow, an old pioneer who settled in the forks of the Santiam in 1853, but has recently resided in Albany, died in that city on Sunday, the 20th inst. She was a member and helped to organize the first Cumberland Presbyterian church in this county in the year 1854. Truly one of the noble of earth has fallen, but she fell at her post with trust in her God.
Rev. G. W. Gibony, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lebanon, has gone to Newport this week to assist the pastor of that place in a series of meetings. It is understood that the Rev. Gibony will return with Rev. Gillespie, of Newport, to this city on Monday, and together they will hold a meeting here, beginning Monday evening the 28th. Everybody invited.
John Roberts on last Friday sustained while splitting rails, a small injury which caused him not a little pain and suffering. In striking the wedge which he was using a small piece of metal was split off and sent with such force as to find lodgment in the center of his left leg between the knee and ankle. Dr. Courtney, of place, assisted by Dr. Maston, of Lebanon, cut down on the steel and re-

Something New.
Yes, Lebanon has another brand new store.
C. B. MONTAGUE
Has opened in the Odd Fellow's building a General Merchandise Store, which will be known as "The One Price Cash Store." The name will indicate to every one the principle upon which the business will be conducted—one price to all and cash on the spot will absolutely be the rule. "But," says some one, "just let a good responsible man go there without the money, and see if he doesn't get the goods rather than lose the sale." Don't fool yourself, Cash is the fellow I deal with and not a fling article can leave the store unless the cash is first deposited in coin. "Well," says another, "Mr. Montague will have to sell goods most awful cheap if he expects to get cash every time." Certainly he will have to sell goods cheap, and the object will not be to see how much profit he can realize on his goods, but at how small a profit he can sell them for cash, because the "nimble dime" will earn more money than the slow dollar."
Every article in the new store will be marked in plain figures at the lowest living cash price and it will not be necessary to ask "Is that the lowest price?" or "I can do better somewhere else" or "Now see here Mr. Montague, I want a large bill of goods to-day and I want you to come down in your prices." All such speeches will be of no avail and will be regarded as a waste of time and words. One Price! One Price Absolutely! One price will be the rule and no exception and it matters not how few or how many goods you buy the price will be the same—one price to all and that the lowest for cash in hand. So please bear in mind that if you want to save money by buying your goods at the One Price Cash Store it will be necessary to bring the money along because "I will send the money up this afternoon or to-morrow" will not do, for the simple reason that goods will be sold so cheap that the least risk will not be taken. Here are a few reasons why it is better to deal at a One Price Cash Store:
1st. There is no time wasted in haggling or useless time spent in keeping books.
2d. You are not compelled to help to pay somebody's bad debts.
3d. You don't have to be a judge of goods to get value.
4th. You can send a little child to the store and get goods at the same price as if you came yourself.
5th. You will get more goods for your money.
6th. The poor and the rich buy at the same price.
7th. You will get no duns.
It will be useless to quote prices of other stores as this store will be an independent one price cash store governed by its own rule and will be conducted on a plan that will be a direct benefit to the people.
Every effort will be made to treat the people courteously and every transaction will be done in a fair and square manner. Very Respectfully,
C. B. MONTAGUE.
ACADEMY NOTES.
School is progressing as usual.
The names of Edith McKinsey and Dollie Saltmarsh are added to the list of new scholars this week.
Those who visited the school this week are Mrs. Edwards and Misses Ada Smith and Callie Claypool.

The meeting of the E. L. S. Monday night was very interesting, and a debate on the following question, "Resolved, that Prohibition will succeed by having a distinct platform and not uniting with other parties," which was decided in favor of the affirmative.
Next Monday evening is public night at the E. L. S. The debate for that time is, "Resolved, that the United States have been too liberal in land grants to railroads." The Literary Star, edited by Miss Lizzie Reed, will also be an interesting feature. Everybody invited.

HE BOUGHT A PRETTY MAIDEN.
In a wooded dale, some distance from Oregon City, lived a simple-minded bachelor of say 50 years. Near by was the ranch of a neighbor, a man of family, who had a comely daughter budding into womanhood. The bachelor adored the maiden. Her parents wot of the affection and informed him that, in accordance with the custom of old in Canada, he might have the maiden for a wife in exchange for fifty acres of land. The warranty deed making the transfer was duly recorded in Oregon City—for $5 and "other valuable considerations." But the valuable considerations, the pretty daughter, scoffed at the bargain, and married a young and handsome fellow. The old bachelor has learned that his neighbors are energetic business people.—Courier.

WHY WOMEN FADE.
Women lose their beauty because colds undermine their life. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption is an absolute cure for colds. Sold by J. A. Beard.
Croup is a terror to young mothers, especially during the winter months, as it is then most prevalent. It can always be prevented, if properly treated as soon as the first symptoms appear. Hoarseness is the first symptom; this is soon followed by a peculiar, rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given as soon as these symptoms appear, it will invariably prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving the remedy, as it contains no injurious substance. For sale by M. A. Miller.
Persons troubled with chronic diarrhoea or subject to bowel complaint in any form, should try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Many chronic cases that had resisted all other treatment have been cured by it. For sale by M. A. Miller.

A Fatal Accident.
Last Monday some young men were on a deer stand, about three miles above Sodaville, when Joseph Klum in handling his gun accidentally discharged it, shooting and instantly killing John Huddleson, one shot taking effect in the back of the head and one in the neck. They were occupying a stand together, when, about ten o'clock, their dogs drove up a deer. Just as it came in sight Klum raised his gun to fire, but, being wet, it slipped sideways and was discharged just as it came in range with the head of Huddleson, who was standing near him. He was taken to his parents, a spectacle to shock anyone, much less parents and brothers and sisters. The deceased was about twenty years of age, and was a young man highly respected by those who knew him. The funeral took place at Lebanon last Tuesday evening, and there being no minister present, appropriate and well timed remarks were made by Mr. C. B. Montague. "In the midst of life, we are in the midst of death."
A Peculiar Case.
Mrs. Catterlin, of Salem, was sick. It was thought she had an abscess in her breast, and was being treated for one; but it was not an abscess. It was a pin. A few days ago in coughing violently she threw up a brass pin, almost worn to a thread. She remembered having swallowed it just thirteen years previously. Mrs. Catterlin is now a well woman.
Trouble With Italians.
Mr. Searle, a contractor on the O. P. R. R., came near having serious trouble with about 200 Italian laborers at Albany last Tuesday. They demanded their pay and threatened violence if it was not forthcoming immediately. The matter was finally settled by Corran & Monteth taking all their scrip at 90 cents. Laborers should have their pay and our laws should be so arranged that all laborers have a lien on the subject matter of their work, but Italians and all others should know that they cannot take the law into their own hands.
Found Guilty.
The jury in the Janeway trial at Portland last Friday night brought in a verdict of guilty after being out only fifteen minutes. The indictment contained two counts, one charging him with breaking into the postoffice building, and the other with having taken the registered package. The jury had been thoroughly instructed as to the kind and amount of evidence required to convict him. Janeway got 18 months in the penitentiary.
A Woman Succeeds.
A lamentable tragedy was enacted at Cottage Grove Saturday morning. Mrs. Mary Ann Martin, wife of W. P. Hartin, an old and highly respected pioneer of Lane county, committed suicide by taking strychnine. The deceased and her husband were keeping hotel at the depot at that place.

"THIS is the time, if there ever was a time," for the Oregon Press Association to force to a passage at the legislature a bill authorizing the publication of all new laws in two papers of different politics (where two exist) in every county in the State, and to introduce a bill compelling the publication of county court proceedings in at least one paper in each county, at its regular advertising rates. Let the President of the organization take the initiative immediately.—Welcome.
Don't forget the editor when you have a good item. If your wife drives you out of the house with a bronchitis let us know of it and we will set it right before the public. If you have visitors, tell us if you are not ashamed of them. If a youngster arrives at your house, buy a quarter's worth of candy and call on us for an appropriate name. If you have a social gathering of friends, bring around a big cake, a lot of pies, a ham, etc. Not necessary to eat but as a guarantee of good faith, and we will supply any deficiency in the eyes of the public.—Ex.
The present territory of Dakota is nearly square. It is as large as all New England with Indiana, South Carolina, New Jersey and Delaware thrown in. It has a population of 600,000. There are 4500 miles of railroad, 1300 postoffices, 4000 school houses, 1200 churches. In 1887 its wheat crop exceeded that of any other state or territory. It is a land full of resources, with the Northern Pacific railroad crossing it to carry them to their proper markets. The territory now surpasses a number of states in population, in productions, and in the promises of a future increase of both.
Pluck is the best word in our language; the best capital in business; the best armour in battle; the best friend in health; the best cure for ills. Pluck boosts a man over many a rough spot. Pluck is an American virtue, and should be cultivated and encouraged. The best illustration of it is given in a pair of chronos of that name—the more serious to complain of than absence of cold weather she is to be congratulated, and it is bedditing that Oregon should shake hands with her.
Having bought out Mr. Andrews' interest in the firm of Andrews & Hackleman, I desire to collect all outstanding accounts now due. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the late firm will please settle as soon as possible. I desire to close up all last year's accounts.
