

BROWNSVILLE.

Brownsville "falls in line" with the prevailing boom.

And although slightly demoralized in the first round comes to time fresh and smiling.

We have no electric light plant nor street railway franchise, but we "glitter" all the same.

$50,000 voted for a new school house. Assessments being made; building will soon commence.

$24,000 raised inside of twenty-four hours for stock in the newly incorporated wooden mill company.

$17,000 subscribed in one hour for stock in the Eagle Woolen Mills.

$50,000 can be raised in the same length of time, should that amount be necessary to keep Brownsville as it has always been, one of the best business points in the Willamette valley.

$45,000 placed to the credit of our new wool industry, by subscription, to stock; time, three days.

New onions and radishes on the market for the past week.

J. P. Galbraith returned from Albany on Wednesday.

Mrs. G. W. Wright, of Heppner, is visiting her father's family, G. C. Cooley.

The hillsides are covered with wild strawberries which are, in many places, ripe.

Jay. A. Bishop, of East Portland, paid Brownsville friends a visit during the past week.

Wild blackberries are in full bloom. Should no late frost occur the fruit will be very plentiful.

Died, April 16, 1889, Ava May, aged 1 year, 7 months, daughter of Emma S. and S. Perciful.

Rev. G. V. McGhee, of Cottage Grove, was in town last week. Wonder what he came for?

The Eagle Woolen Mills Company is the name of the new Brownsville woolen mills. B. E. W. M. Co.

A. Gentry during the past week purchased from A. J. Bishop his residence and surrounding property, located on Depot street.

Dr. F. F. Tucker, wife and family, left for McMinnville on Wednesday, but will shortly remove from that place to The Dalles.

Miss Kittie Cooley, one of Brownsville's most accomplished young ladies, returned home last week from a visit to her sister at Heppner.

Within the past week a woven wire mattress factory has been started and will shortly be running on time, turning out first-grade "wire road spring mattresses."

The subject of a fruit cannery has been under consideration, and should it be deemed advisable the necessary funds will be subscribed to equip and operate this industry.

O. P. Coshaw, Jr., who for some time past has been attending to business at Butte City and also visiting friends at Joseph and Lostine, Wallowa valley, on Wednesday returned home.

R. A. Sanders has the agency for the sale of Coblentz and Levy's Sarsaparilla and Iron, a sparkling effervescent drink from the springs of Oswego, Oregon, celebrated for its blood purifying qualities and also is considered a great cure for skin diseases.

S. P. Bargar has, during the past week received the necessary machinery for operating a woven wire mattress factory. The upper portion of Hume's building has been leased and is being fitted up preparatory to an early start. Mattresses will be made for regular trade custom or to order, as may be desired.

The first meeting of the newly incorporated Eagle Woolen Mill Co. took place on Friday, at which time the stockholders elected the following officers: W. R. Kirk, president; P. Hume, secretary and treasurer; Hugh Fields, John Brown, W. R. Kirk, P. Hume, C. H. Cable, directors; J. M. Jaeger, superintendent.

At the North Brownsville city hall on the evening of Monday, Rev. A. LeRoy delivered to a good attendance, for the benefit of the Baptist church funds, a very interesting and eloquent lecture on the subject of the Holy Land which was illustrated by a series of artistically executed oil paintings vividly depicting scenes and localities visited by the reverend gentleman during his travels through that section of the world.

When it was reported and the report became a settled fact that the B. W. M. Co. were to remove to Albany, many predicted a gloomy outlook for our town, prophesying that with our industries gone business would be "bust" and our streets turned into pastures green with succulent grass, but it will not require the big lens of the Lick Observatory telescope to help the public to see that our industries were never on a firmer financial basis than at the present time, that our capitalists and business men, well known for their energy, do not propose to "be left" or "distanced" when it comes to home industries that require "rustle" and capital. We have raised $24,000 in one day and without any great exertion, boom or excitement; we have plenty of suburban property which is not offered for sale at boom prices, as "choice business lots," but will be sold to those desiring the same at reasonable figures and easy terms, offering, as we always have, good and pleasant home sites at moderate prices. If you doubt these statements, come and see for yourself.

CRAWFORDSVILLE.

April 22.

Rain.

Rev. J. R. Kirkpatrick paid our town a flying visit last week. His "Bucephalus" justifies the expression "flying visit," for he was "on the go" lively.

Rev. R. Robe preached here yesterday, filling his regular appointment.

The church directory is as follows: Rev. R. Robe, 1st and 3d Sundays, Presbyterian; Rev. P. A. Moses, M. E. Church, south, 2d Sunday; Rev. Elworthy, M. E. Church, north, 4th Sunday. Sunday-school every Sunday at 9:30, so if we go wrong it is not for want of Bible training, but on account of the "Old Adam" dwelling in us.

Miss Gussie Moses is absent visiting friends at Halsey, Tangent and Albany.

The district school is progressing finely with between forty and fifty students.

Mrs. Mann, whose husband was formerly pastor on this circuit, with her grand-daughter, is visiting her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Colbert, at this place.

R. W. Moses received several loads of merchandise last week.

Colds prevail at this time and cough medicines are in demand.

WATERLOO.

April 20.

Health good.

Born, to the wife of Bud Miller, April 18, 1889, a son.

The river has somewhat risen so as not to afford any soda, but is falling some now.

We have the pontoon bridge fixed up ready for use, but during the rain several have had some difficulty in getting across; some have gotten across and are left there. Do you see the need of a bridge?

Mr. Whitcomb's partner went down on the stage yesterday where he will be gone about a week. He says he is well pleased and more than pleased in Big Bend about 30 miles above here.

There has been as much as a half pint of ripe strawberries found this week.

School is progressing fine.

Mr. David Wynan again made us a call. Mr. Wynan is one of Albany's most enterprising men.

MISTLETOE.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

Mr. C. J. Smith, traveling salesman for Belford, Clark & Co., Chicago, had the misfortune to sprain his wrist most severely. "I was suffering great pain," he says, "and my wrist was badly swollen; a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved the pain and reduced the swelling in one night, and in consequence my work and business was not interrupted, for which I am very grateful. I can recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm from personal experience." Sold by M. A. Miller.

It would be well for parties intending to make proof on homesteads, pre-emption or other claims to bear in mind the fact that the testimony of relatives of the plaintiff can not be accepted. You can save trouble and money by naming four of your neighbors who are in no way related to you.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

MONTAGUE'S COLUMN.

Montague has the pleasure of announcing that his mammoth stock is now being replenished with new goods weekly—his large and increasing sales requiring a constant supply of new goods. His prices will be so low that for self preservation close buyers who pay on the spot for their purchases will necessarily do their buying of him.

It is to the interest of every person to patronize their home merchants. The fact is, a town without merchants would be a very singular one in any country, and yet every town is blessed (?) with a few people who always work against their own and their neighbors' interests by advocating some other place as a better one than their own to do their trading in. Lebanon is not entirely exempt from those who ought to be loyal to and work for the upbuilding of their city, but who are unfortunately quite the reverse. Much capital has already been driven away from Lebanon by this course, and many contemplated enterprises that would have enhanced values in this vicinity have been abandoned through the malign influence of chronic cranks. Let us all work together for our own homes and our own people, and the day is not distant when we will have as prosperous an inland town as there is in this State. Merchants here in every line will sell you goods as low as they can be sold anywhere. They are always with you to help to assist in every public enterprise. Montague voices the sentiment of the mercantile community of Lebanon when he says that he will sell you anything that you want from his mammoth stock at the lowest living rates. His stock is a very large one, and the goods must be sold. Drop in and be convinced. There is no good logic in building up other cities at our own expense.

The farming community understand their own interests well, and they know that to make their land valuable and sought after by buyers a good prosperous town in their vicinity is just the thing to attract newcomers, and they almost universally patronize their home towns. Our interests are identical. Let our motto be, "Home against the world."

CLOTHING.

We make men's, boys' and children's clothing a specialty. Our spring stock is now arriving; call in and examine them. The low price of wool last year has so reduced the price of clothing that a good suit is now within the reach of every one.

BOOTS & SHOES.

Montague keeps the best line of boots and shoes, as well as a very large assortment. Our styles are unsurpassed, and no chromos or portraits of gimlet-eyed shoemakers are necessary to make our poems in leather go like hot cakes. When you need anything in that line which will do you good service or fit comfortably your wife, your son, your daughter or the baby, go into the mammoth store of C. B. Montague, buy your goods at his well known low prices and go home happy.
