WEDDING BELLS.

COURTNEY—MONTAGUE—Married, at the residence of Mr. C. B. Montague, April 30, 1889, by Rev. Geo. W. Giboney, Dr. J. S. Courtney and Miss Ida Montague.

At 7:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning a few relatives and invited guests were gathered at Mr. C. B. Montague's to witness the nuptials of Dr. Courtney and Miss Ida Montague. During the ceremony the bridal couple stood in the midst of elaborate floral decorations. Over their heads hung a large horse-shoe elegantly made of the choicest spring roses. On either side were ivy vines and bouquets of rare beauty. After the ceremony the company were invited out to a bountiful repast prepared under the direction of Mrs. C. B. Montague, where all gave due attention to that which was before them. At 8:30 o'clock the bride and groom started for Albany in company with a few of their intimate friends. At Albany they took the train for Portland; from there they go to Astoria and after a short stay there will return to Lebanon, where they expect to make their future home. The bride and groom are both well known by the citizens of Lebanon and community. The former is one of Lebanon's most charming and accomplished daughters, and we congratulate the doctor on securing such a gem for his household. The groom is one of our rising young men and is most highly esteemed by all who know him. May they live long and happily together and adore the marriage relation which they have so lately assumed.

An Expression of Delight.

"About a week ago," says a Los Angeles, Cal., druggist, "a Chinaman came in with a lame shoulder. I sold him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and guaranteed that it would cure him. He came in again last night, and as soon as he got inside the door, began swinging his arms over his head like an Indian club swinger. I thought the blamed fool had a fit, but he finally stopped long enough to say: 'Medicine velly fine, velly fine; alle same make me feel plenty good.' Chamberlain's Pain Balm is without an equal for sprains, rheumatism, aches, pains or lame back. For sale by M. A. Miller."

Sympathy the Sweetest.

Of all the pleasures of life sympathy would seem to be one of the sweetest and purest. It unites brethren and friends in the closest bonds; it lifts burdens, soothes sorrow, multiplies joy, and promotes humane brotherhood. Flowing naturally from warm loving hearts into grateful ones, it blesses both giver and receiver. It is the living spark which kindles all sorts of benevolent enterprise, builds hospitals, schools and churches, promotes reform, draws men away from vice, and guides them into paths of virtue and self-respect.

The Grand Army Entertainment.

The entertainment given by the G. A. R. and W. R. C. last Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable success. F. M. Miller was commander-in-chief for the evening. The exercises consisted of reading, recitations, music and speeches from old soldiers, of which all was good, after which supper, which was the best part of the entertainment, so it seemed to the poor printers from devil down to editor, was served. After supper the voting on the album at five cents a vote and selling the cake, which contained a beautiful gold ring, was in order, which lasted about an hour, which was very interesting. When the polls were closed it was found that Miss Ollie Armstrong, having received the most votes, 334, was the most popular YOUNG LADY present. The album brought $36 15. Mr. Albert Small drew the ring. The cake sold for $3 65. About $15 50 were taken in at the door.

The Whole Truth.

Hackleman is the closest crankiest old fool that lives by labor to offer goods for the sake of cheating a poor man. His prices beat all others in town for extravagant expense. He gives no man a chance to save something for the rainy day when there's need of the money to put into the doctor bills. He is the most miserly, stingy and mean to the last. Don't trade with Hackleman for bargains; if you want to be cheated out of your reckoning, go to Hackleman's, you'll regret it as long as you live you'll go anywhere rather than buy the shoddy things on sale at Hackleman's.

He can suit the ever expected a man who at prices less than cost just himself and becoming at last are so low that they he does not encourage gets a just profit and he grumble that he can not future. It will be a bad and to go from him with none old stocking. He helps pay generous of merchants, not but a good citizen, liberal any other man than but if you want poor goods or of your teeth count him out some other store; but come to that you did not come sooner to no other store, but travel the inferior goods like by those who try to compete with us.

WE GET THERE ALL THE SAME.

C. C. HACKLEMAN.

CELEBRATION IN LEBANON.

The patriotic citizens of Lebanon held a union service in the Presbyterian church, as per the proclamation of the president of the United States, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of this great republic. The opening services of prayer and reading of scripture was conducted by Rev. Walter Skipworth, followed by excellent music by the choir. The opening speech was made by Rev. J. R. Kirkpatrick, setting forth the principle upon which the government was founded as the real object to celebrate. F. M. Miller, Esq., made a very timely speech, linking the names of all American statesmen and patriots together, without partiality to any, as the real cause of America's greatness and glory. Mr. C. B. Montague delivered a fine eulogy on the life and character of Washington, claiming him as the heritage of the world in its struggle for republican liberty. Mr. J. J. Swan drew some fine lessons from the early life of Washington for the children, and made some fine impressions on the old as well. Mr. J. M. Marks paid a fine tribute to Christianity, as the rock basis upon which the government was built, and without which she must fall. Rev. I. Carlton then reviewed, briefly, the grand progress of this nation in all that pertains to her real glory, and showed what immense possibilities lay out before us. The exercises were closed by a few well timed remarks by Revs. Skipworth and Giboney. Rev. G. W. Giboney deserves great credit for the arrangement and carrying out of the programme, with which all seem delighted. These patriotic gatherings keep the fires of liberty burning on our country's altar, and impress the old and young of what it cost to purchase this nation's liberty and how that priceless boon should be religiously and sacredly guarded.

HOW TO PACK BUTTER.

EDITOR EXPRESS: As butter is abundant and price low, and having been asked by some parties how to pack it for keeping, we send this to your excellent paper for the benefit of its readers. Butter barrels of Portland manufacture can be had of Mr. G. T. Cotton of this place. Unhead the barrel and fill with clean water, or weak brine, and let stand for 24 hours, and if the staves are scorched on the inside, scrape and wash until it is removed. Make a brine of the best Liverpool salt, as strong as possible by boiling, when cool strain through a cloth thick enough to thoroughly cleanse from all sediment. The butter should be in two pound rolls, wrapped in good butter cloth and placed on end in the barrel. When full, slack 30 hoops, put in the head carefully just as it came out, and fill with the brine by a 1/2 inch auger hole in the head, and cork tight. The barrel should be kept in a cellar, sawdust room, or some other cool place, and if some leakage occur, fill with brine so that it will be full all the time, and you can have good butter. We have tried this for three years past with good success, and the same plan is recommended by correspondents to "Hoards Dairyman," which is standard authority on dairy matters, and they warrant it to keep long enough to ship to any part of the United States. Respectfully yours, J. M. MARKS.

Clear Headedness of Youth.

While the merits of the various blood purifiers are being shown up to the best advantage possible by their several manufacturers, we would suggest to persons feeling the need of such a medicine, that they try a dose of St. Patrick's Pills, and assure them that they would not only be surprised but delighted with the result. Those who wish to feel the animation, buoyancy and clear headedness of youth should take St. Patrick's Pills. For sale by M. A. Miller.
