HOME AND FARM.

Horse Radish as a Poulitice—Successive Crops—Plowing Sod—How to Make Soap—Corn Fritters.

Tepid water acts promptly as an emetic. Horse-radish as a poulitice, is recommended for rheumatism.

Trim up the shade trees and have them in good shape and attractive.

Finely sifted coal ashes are excellent for providing dust baths for poultry.

Fresh boiled milk with cut sugar will soothe a cough when other things fail.

Sprinkle cayenne pepper in the resort of rats and they will leave the premises.

Better feed the inferior fruits and vegetables to the hogs than to send them to market.

Many a vigorous, fruitful tree owes its existence to a mulch, at this season, when it was young.

How to Make Soap.—Three and a half pounds of grease, four gallons of salt water, if possible; one box of concentrated lye. After the lye is dissolved boil three hours.

Horses should have at least two hours rest at noon. On very warm days horses suffer severely. They should be watered often, and at night should be swabbed and wiped dry.

Filthy quarters cause lice on all classes of stock, and at this season the vermin multiply very rapidly. An animal that is infested with vermin cannot be kept in good condition, even with the best of feeding.

The hens will now begin to moult. Keep the hens that moult early, as they will lay in winter. Late pullets will seldom lay before spring, but pullets hatched not later than April should lay in November.

Corn Fritters.—One coffee-cup of canned corn or grated corn, one of sweet milk, two eggs well beaten, salt and flour to make quite a stiff batter. Drop with a spoon into boiling lard. These fritters taste like fried oysters.

Cucumbers are sometimes served as an entree when prepared thus: Take good sized ones and peel them and slice them lengthwise; dip each slice into cornmeal seasoned with pepper and salt; fry them in hot lard until they are a delicate brown.

Beef Croquets.—Take cold roast beef, mince it fine, put in an onion chopped fine, sweet marjoram, a little powdered cloves, moisten with the beef gravy; make it into balls, dip in the beaten yolk of an egg, roll in flour and fry them in lard.

The City Council of Spokane Falls, after an investigation into the inefficient working of the water facilities at the beginning of the recent fire, are satisfied Superintendent Jones was negligent in leaving an incompetent person in charge of the water works, and will make him vacate.

Sweet potato plants should now be spreading, and unless they are cultivated the task will be more difficult after the vines cover the ground. They should be hilled up in order to avoid heavy rains. It is not too late to replant the missing places if a handful of fertilizer be scattered around the plants that may be set out.

Green tomatoes fried are preferred by some people to the egg plant, and may well take its place; cut the outer slices off, and then cut the inner part in slices about half an inch thick, roll them in flour and fry in butter; sprinkle pepper and salt on them. This may be used as an entree or a garnish with meat of any kind.

A pretty Chair.—A friend of ours with more taste than money is constantly surprising her acquaintances with little exhibitions of ingenuity. One of the latest of her achievements is this: Somewhere about the house was an old-fashioned, rush bottomed rocker, a relic of the days of our grandparents, a comfortable chair enough to sit in, but wearing a correspondingly time-worn appearance. Out of its hiding place my friend brought this uncomely affair and applied a couple of coats of vermilion to it, which quite metamorphosed its appearance. A square of homespun linen, old but good and strong and mellowed by time into a soft cream color, made a capital cover for a cushion to the same. A spray of flowers mingled with wheat heads, worked in crewels, serves as ornamentation for this cushion, and there isn't a prettier chair in town for the amount of time and trouble expended upon it.

Plowing Sod.—It is a question rarely decided among farmers at what time it is best to plow sod for a corn crop. This question is best settled by considering what is expected of this operation. The great point is that the corn crop shall procure a large portion of its nutriment from it; another is that the corn may be planted on fresh clean ground so that it may get ahead of the weeds by rapid and vigorous germination. How, then, can these important points be best secured? Clearly by permitting the herbage to grow as long as possible, and by deferring the plowing until the last moment. Then a large quantity of the most acceptable food for the young corn is plowed under; the soil is mellow, moist and fresh; planting is done under the best conditions. The seeds of weeds will sprout quickly and a light harrowing before the corn is up will destroy the germs and clean the ground of myriads of them, lightening the after-labor of cultivating the crop. A top-dressing of manure on the sod before the plowing will be a great assistance.

PORTLAND MARKET.

ACTIVITY CONTINUES IN THE MERCHANDISE MARKET.

Sugars Remain Firm at Last Quotations—Provisions are Active—Wool Weak and Lower—Butter and Cheese Firm.

In the local merchandise markets the general activity continues, and has been considerably increased during the past few days by the unexpected demands from Spokane. The draw-back of unfairly discriminating rates is not considered when people are homeless and hungry. Time is the main object, and time at least is saved by getting supplies here. City retailers report a seasonably quiet week's trade. The decline of  $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ on all grades of sugar noted last week has not varied since. The provision market is active, but one or two changes being noted. Butter and cheese are firm and advancing, both here and in California, the result of the dry weather. The wool market is still weak and lower. The grain market has not moved much, and shippers continue their quotations.

Warning to Chinese Dudes.

The acting Governor of Kiangsu, Hwang, has issued a proclamation calling attention to the sumptuary laws of the collected statutes of the Ta-ts'ing Dynasty, which he says will be vigorously enforced as regards wearing apparel. The people of this province (which includes Soochow and Shanghai), are, he observes, notoriously extravagant in their way of living, striving to surpass each other in the richness of their apparel, and their want of propriety is shown in the crowded state of flower boats and restaurants where men and women assemble together. The bright-colored jackets and waistcoats of the young men, embroidered at neck and sleeves with flowers and other ornaments, are shocking to the view of sober, respectable citizens, who know that money should not be squandered by men on such things. It is a Governor's duty to watch over the behavior of the people committed to his charge, and he warns them, therefore, that young men dressed in a foolish, extravagant way will be arrested and punished, and the responsibility of their fathers, elder brothers and tutors will not be overlooked.—Pekin Gazette.

—Seaside hotel proprietor (anxiously)—"Hasn't the sea serpent been reported to-day yet?" Office boy—"No, sir; no one has seen it." "Look! There comes a sailing party in now. Rush down to the beach and ask them if they saw—" "No use, sir; that's a temperance crowd."—Philadelphia Record.

—"I can't understand, Bobby," said his father, "why you should quarrel so much with Tommy White. Your mother tells me you quarrel with him most of the time." "I can't help it, pa," replied Bobby, thoughtfully. "I guess I must get my disposition from you and ma."
