WHAT WOMAN CAN DO.

She can say "no" in such a low voice that it means "yes."

She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour, and do it better.

She can throw a stone with a curve that would be a fortune to a baseball pitcher.

Six of them can talk at one time and get along first-rate, and no two men can do that.

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumb nail.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the ceremony is performed.

She can come to a conclusion without the slightest trouble of reasoning on it, and no sane man can do that.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her, and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant!

She is cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will sweat and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk as sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's heads before they had exchanged ten words.

She can go to church and afterward tell you what every woman in the congregation had on, and in some rare instance can give you some faint idea of what the text was.

She can drive a man crazy for twenty-four hours, and then bring him to paradise by tickling him under the chin, and there does not live that mortal son of Adam's misery who can do it.—Ex.

ELECTRIC POWER.

Electric power now sends the railroad train at the rate of two miles a minute, says the Press, but the electrician claims that it can and soon will be run at the average speed of two hundred miles per hour. Whew! Just think of it, three and one-half miles a minute! That is, take your seat in the cars and in a fraction less than six minutes you are in Albany or Salem; twenty-five minutes and you are in the city of Portland. Leaving this city at four o'clock, eat your breakfast in San Francisco and supper in New York.

Well, bring on your electricity, annihilate space and bring together the uttermost parts of the earth. At this rate of speed the journey around the globe would require, actual traveling time, but five days and five hours; allowing twenty minutes stoppage for each meal and three meals per day, would only add five more hours to the time. With this speed attained a man could live two or three hundred miles distant from his place of business in the city and still be an hour or an hour and a half from his counting room. Lightning is to be the universal motor. Not only will it light up our banks, business houses, private residences, streets, etc., but it will furnish the power, to propel all kinds of machinery, doing away with steam, because it will be cheaper and safer. By the electric light you can form a better idea of the character, texture and quality of goods than by sunlight. The world moves and the United States leads the van.

The Adventists in several states are split up on the date of the judgment day, some having predicted it for this month and some for next. If they can't come to an agreement on it the world will be apt to run on.

We call the attention of the farmers to the fact that we are running our chopper on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. Our prices are reasonable and work guaranteed.
CROSS & HYDE

The greater a man is in power above others the more he ought to excel them in virtue. None ought to govern who are not better than the governed.

THE MACHINE AGENT.

The machine agent is one of the luxuries of the 19th century. He inhabits civilized countries in large numbers and belongs to the human race. He commonly drives about in a buggy drawn a horse that is lame on three legs and can't walk on the other.

He sells harvesters, sewing machines, fanning mills and other miscellaneous contrivances. He drives up to a farmer, kicks a fan mill out of the wagon and in less than four seconds goes to fanning wheat and talking all the time. His jaw makes 97 consecutive muscular movements to one revolution of the mill, and he never fails to talk the arm off an able bodied man in two minutes, and has been known to do it in less time than that.

He is as full of business as the chairman of a women's rights convention, and has a tongue that is loose at both ends with ball and socket joint in the middle, consequently he can make it "talk."

The machine agent sometimes has a stay in his proceedings, particularly when the bosom of his pants becomes entangled in the teeth of somebody's dog.

A scientist has made the calculation that if a machine agent had lungs as large in proportion as a grasshopper, he could sell a farmer a machine at a distance of three miles—Ahem!

He also calculated that if a farmer could kick as hard in proportion as a grasshopper, he could kick that machine agent into "kingdom come."

When he sells sewing machines, he will bet his last suspender button he can sew anything!—except winter rye.

His tongue operates as fast as the double-duplex, back action treadle of his sewing machine.

While he talks he stops occasionally to get a breath of fresh air and tell the truth.

We once knew a sewing machine agent who wanted to sell his machine so bad that he sold it for nothing; we also heard of one who sold one much cheaper.

The machine agent is a matter of destiny. The march of the machine agent is as sure as the march of time.
P. S.—Let him march!—Ex.

If you want to adorn your home, make your wife happy and feel real good yourself, just go to Fortmiller & Irving, of Albany, and make a selection from their immense stock of furniture. All classes, styles and variety of suites, or separate pieces. No trouble to show goods—come and see.

The cutlery business is pushed to that extent in Germany that a fair pocket knife can be manufactured for eleven cents. This is cutting it down to a thin edge.
