

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Miss Addie Smith has the thanks of this office for a large dish of fine pears. The W. C. T. U. will meet at Mrs. Ambler's this evening at the usual hour.

B. M. Miller, of Rowland, is visiting Lebanon this week, the guest of Hon. R. C. Miller.

Get your fat turkey ready for thanksgiving and be sure and invite somebody help to eat it.

13 acres of land, good house, barn and improvements, in Lebanon, for sale cheap on Easy Terms. Inquire of Dr. Ballard.

Dan Sullivan's Mirror of Ireland and Comedy company gave a good exhibition to a fair sized audience at Union hall last evening.

The Methodists are making some improvements on their church and parsonage lots this week, which will enhance and beautify very much.

We return thanks for a large list of new subscribers at Plainview this week. There is no better section of country and no better class of citizens to be found in any country.

One new house in the Wasson addition already completed and now occupied, and another to go up right away. Now is the time to get choice lots at extremely low figures.

Mr. Joseph Riggs, of Brownsville, paid us a pleasant visit this week. He has sold some excellent leather of his own manufacture here this week. His goods are first-class, and give entire satisfaction.

Mr. J. M. Nichols, of Plainview, is making a vigorous effort to establish a good local trade at that point. He is a nice gentleman and deserves to succeed, and it is certainly a fine section to do business in.

G. W. Moore's Minstrel and Specialty company failed to exhibit here on Tuesday evening, as advertised, for lack of an audience. They also failed to settle their bill at the hotel and this office. Pass them along.

Rev. W. W. Beck, of Seattle, was in Lebanon this week on a business trip. Mr. Beck has been very fortunate in Seattle investments, and has feathered his nest nicely. We congratulate him on his financial success and hope now that his talents will be directed in another and more important channel.

A large quantity of excellent pork has been on the market here this week and our streets have more the appearance of a Kansas packing city than a great Oregon town. An old Kentuckian in town this week was captured by Oregon "back-bones and spare-ribs," and has concluded to buy land and stay.

If our hop growers had combined together they could have compelled the contractors to have taken the entire crop. As it was, he picked a flaw in the quality and rejected the most of them as per contract. If hops had gone up they would all have been taken a first-class. That is the way contractors beat working men out of their money.

In a few days our fellow citizens one and all will be called upon to contribute something to the general advancement of our common interest. Let no sordid motive block the way to universal prosperity, but let each put their shoulder to the wheel and let's have a long pull, a strong pull, add a pull all together, and we'll be sure to get there.

THE LEBANON EXPRESS says: We have heard nothing of the graveyard for some time. Is it possible no one will make a move in that direction? It is not probable that the good people of Lebanon are more anxious to move towards the graveyard before their time comes, than other people.—Junction City Pilot. Well, we never thought of that before. Probably that is the reason our old grave yard is in such a bad condition.

An old orchardist, from the east, informs us that if the young trees are rubbed well twice a year for three years with old lye soap, that neither codlin moth or any other insect common to fruit trees will ever bother or molest in any way. The experiment will certainly cost but very little, and it is well worth trying. Good apples are now worth 75c per bushel on the market, and are hard to get at that. We must do something or buy our fruit from the east, so let us try this plan.

NEWS ITEMS.

W. T. Weddle and wife and Mr. A. Fellows have just returned from a trip to California. They report heavy rains there and great damage to crops. They went for their health but concluded that Linn county was a better climate.

Up to the time of going to press we have given "cussings" to two men, an account of which is given in another part of this paper, but have since not fared so well. Four men have sworn to kill us, another caused us to stop at the meat market for beefsteak (to put over our eye). If you wish to settle up with cash, all right; such business as the above we leave until the editor returns. IMP.

We call especial attention to the new ad. of Barrows & Scarles, of Albany. They are both gentlemen of large and varied experience in the mercantile business; having each travelled for years over the greater part of the United States, and now they have located at Albany with goods at rock-bottom prices. Call and see them.

It Won't Do.

We have no disposition to interfere with the legitimate occupation of any man, but we warn our readers against the "Purchaser's Protective Union," of Portland, Oregon. Their agent has been here this week distributing circulars, pamphlets, etc., in and around Lebanon the past week, trying to sell membership rights for a fee of five dollars, which entitles the purchaser to buy through this channel. On diligent inquiry and honest investigation of our current prices here at home and Albany we find that the same goods can be bought equally as low and many of them cheaper. If our readers will consult our advertising columns, they will find square and upright merchants at home, who will deal justly by them, and who will help develop our country.

PLAINVIEW CORRESPONDENCE.

"A nice little farm well tilled, A big house well filled, Wife and children happy and gay, With plenty to eat and wear every day."

Such is farm life these beautiful days in the sunny land of the Willamette valley. We envy not railroad kings, big bosses, or any other man. We have plenty of kraut in the cellar, cabbage in the garden, squashes in the barn, potatoes in the bin, and yellow-legged chickens by the dozen. A big gobble for thanksgiving dinner, and a score of more of turkeys for the market, or to eat, as the price may suit or appetite demand. We shake our fist at Hard Times, and drive him off with hard work and a merry laugh. Go away, grumbler, from this fair land, or shut your mouth and go to work. Quit talking about the merchants, but just pay up and do the square thing, or else don't buy on credit. Oh! what a blessing it is to pay an honest debt, and in return see the cheerful smile of the merchant or banker, and know by that smile he says come again, and let our dealings in the future be as pleasant as in the past. And how pleasant it is to pay taxes to support a good government that defends life, person and property, and furnishes courts of justice, that are all the time in session, to redress all our wrongs, to furnish good schools, good roads and equal rights and liberties to all.

Talk about your poor oppressed farmers and hard times in the country; it ain't so. We are as independent as larks and busy as bees. We don't belong to anybody but our wives and children, with true allegiance to God and good will to all mankind.

REORGANIZED.

EDITOR EXPRESS.

Permit us to say through your paper that the Sabbath school of the First Presbyterian church was reorganized last week, and we now give a cordial invitation to all persons, young or old, not attending other schools, whether in the city or country, to come and join us in the study of the scripture. Instead of the monthly we have adopted the weekly offering plan, so all wishing to contribute can give their contribution to their teachers. No pains will be spared to make the school interesting and instructive to all who may attend.

J. M. MARKS, } Superintendents. J. J. SWAN, }

THANKSGIVING SUPPER.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve a thanksgiving supper from 5 to 8 o'clock on Thanksgiving day in the building formerly occupied by Goan's furniture store. Proceeds to aid the church. All are cordially invited to come and enjoy a social hour, and aid in keeping the interests of the church before the people. Supper, 25 cents. Do not fail to be present.

Ah there! we have the pleasure and honor of announcing once more to the readers of this paper that we are in the field as editor again this week, as the editor-in-chief has skipped out and left the bare-faced troubles, cares and anxieties of this establishment on us, and to save us we do not know where he has gone. Early Monday morning he packed up his grip and started out, and has not showed up since. Since the duties incumbent on this office have fallen upon us we have given two curings to unknown parties, who came at us "red-eyed and roaring," that had come several miles, it seemed, in a half-walk, half-run gait, to whip the editor, but, alas for the poor wretches! we were too much for them! After waltzing them through the different parts of this establishment half a dozen times, by the ear, we then led them to the subscription book and, after collecting all their arrearages and receiving pay for three years' subscription in advance, we let the unhappy wretches depart, sadder but wiser men. But it is the foreman of whom we are afraid; whose sonorous voice, as he asks for copy, raises us from our seat, raises our hair on end, raises a riot and causes us to resurrect an old pair of shears and the latest eastern newspaper, which generally puts a quietus on him for half an hour. Don't forget the great discount for cash on job work of every description, which is done in the latest and best style, and also on back subscriptions. This offer, which, you will remember, we made on a former occasion, is still open, but closes to-morrow evening at four o'clock. Come a running, and oblige THE IMP.

ONE PRICE

HAS WON for us the respect of the community. It has got to be an understood thing that we don't change our price, because we can't go lower—and we won't go higher. We fix our price just on the inside of cost, allowing us the fair profit we need to live, and we don't budge from that. Why should we? If we can't make something we waste time in selling. But the something we make is always something lower than the price made elsewhere.

ONE PRICE HAS WON

Us a large trade. Folks don't like to haggle. It's a relief to know, at the word go, just what you have got to pay. You don't go away kicking yourself at the thought that if you had hung on a little longer you might have got the goods for a dollar less.

One price pleases everybody in the long run and leaves no doubt in the buyer's mind about his own shrewdness or the merchant's honesty.

ONE PRICE HAS WON

Us friends, for every customer is a friend. Buyers appreciate the fact that we could not make a fixed, rock-rooted price unless we made it at figures that would meet any and all competition.

If they make a lower price they lose money, and that makes it only a question of time when they shut up their shop and leave the field to us. We are here to stay, and on the one price plan to all.

Our sales of DRESS GOODS have been unusually large and our stock is complete. We have a line of the celebrated Broadhead goods now in transit.

Our BOOT and SHOE stock is complete, and our unprecedented large sales go to prove that our customers appreciate a good thing when they see it.

CHURCH NOTICE.

In a recent article in the Youth's Companion, on "How to cure a cold," the writer advises a hot lemonade to be taken at bed time. It is a dangerous treatment, especially during the severe cold weather of the winter months, as it opens the pores of the skin and leaves the system in such condition that another and much more severe cold is almost certain to be contracted. Many years constant use and the experience of thousands of persons of all ages, has fully demonstrated that there is nothing better for a severe cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts in perfect harmony with nature, relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough tenacious mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and restores the system to a strong and healthy condition. Fifty cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller.

For a lame back try saturating a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and binding it on to the affected parts. This treatment will cure any ordinary case in one or two days. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and humors. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller.
