

Sunday Column.

Have you met with trouble? Are you discouraged and sad at heart? Do a good deed to some one you can help; speak a word of kindness to some one you can make glad. The cure for your own sorrow is to stop brooding over it and go to work to comfort and help your neighbor, or at least to go to work to cure the trouble you grieve over. Work is the best remedy for heart-ache.

If your church is not filled with interested and earnest worshippers the pews as well as the pulpit is to blame for it. If every heart in the audience is aglow with the love of souls the defects of the preacher will not keep the people away. We should cultivate what the Christian Register calls "the drawing power of the pew."

"The cure of all ills," says George Macdonald, "is neither more nor less than more life." The true elixir of life is the imparting of new life. To have the divine breath inbreathed, to be born into the new spiritual—this is highest blessing. If this divine and vitalizing breath comes to us afresh every day our souls shall never die.

"It is the cause, and not the death, that makes the martyr." A martyr is a witness. The thing we witness for imparts value to our witnessing.

The Evangelical Alliance for the United States will hold a national meeting in Tremont Temple, Boston, the 4th, 5th and 6th of December next. A most attractive programme has been prepared, including the names of many prominent clergymen and laymen. The meeting is expected to equal in interest and influence the great Washington Conference of 1887.

"The question is fairly raised," says the Boston Christian Register, "whether a church that is open an hour or two on Sunday, and closed the rest of the week is doing its duty to either God or man. But, on the other hand, the question may also be raised whether the tendency is not extreme in the other direction—whether a feverish, excitable activity, a religious bustle, a confused whirl of cogs and wheels, the noise of escaping steam, has not taken the place of the old-fashioned solemnity."

The whole world is beginning to understand that the secret of Christian power is the indwelling spirit which Christ sent at his going away into the heavens. Says the Christian World: "Arguments drawn from miracle, prophecy, analogy, and what not, would utterly fail to keep Christianity from being reckoned among the dead faiths of the world were there not men and women whose integrity, purity, beneficence, and self-denial show that Christ is still living in them."

A Good Cough Syrup.

There is nothing parents should be so careful about as selecting a cough syrup. Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup costs no more than the cheap and inferior nostrums thrown upon the market. The best is none too good. Be sure and get Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup. We keep it on hand at all times. M. A. Miller, Druggist.

What a Fortune

Is a good healthy, pearly skin. Few are aware of the short time it takes for a disordered liver to cause blotches on the face, and a dark greasy skin. One bottle of Begg's Blood Purifier and Blood Maker will restore the organ to its natural and healthy state, and cleanse the blood of all impurities. It is meeting with wonderful success. We guarantee every bottle. M. A. Miller, Druggist.

BURGLARS.

A newspaper man, noted for his prowess, was awakened last night by his wife, with the announcement, "Dear, there's somebody in the house." "Oh don't shoot that old chestnut at me! Of course there's someone in the house. I'm here and so are you." Don't try to make yourself a bigger idiot than nature intended. There are strange men down stairs, and I know it. "Poor devils, I don't blame 'em much for getting under cover such a night as this." "You sleepy head, can't you get it through your thick skull?—there are burglars in the house." "Poor fools, what hard work they'd have and what little reward." "For pity's sake go and frighten them away." The weary journalist then crawled to the head of the stairs, and knowing well enough no thieves were about called out over the baluster, "Say, Mr. Burglar, if you take a trick in this house don't forget I'm 'in' on it. Remember if you find anything worth carrying away I'm 'halvers.'" When the brave man returned to his couch his disgusted wife had turned her head to the wall and was snoring like a steam wood saw.—Sunday Welcome.
