

Lebanon Bath House.

L. BORUM, PROPRIETOR. Smooth shaves and latest style hair cuts. Shampooing—Spanish Luster cures the scalp of dandruff. Lebanon.

EYES AND EARS.

Mr. Al. Frum was in town Wednesday.

Robert Cochran visited Lebanon this week.

Miss Maud Ralston is in Albany, this week visiting friends.

Examine the fine stock of books of all kinds at Board and Holt's.

Mr. Tuttle, from the "Sound," has bought several lots in Lebanon.

THE EXPRESS is adding to its subscription list at a satisfactory rate.

The several sawmills near town will be kept busy this season if they supply Lebanon's demand for lumber.

The vote for the school house on last Saturday was carried by over two-thirds majority, as THE EXPRESS predicted last week.

Hereafter we shall publish the Lebanon Market report. Examine this report and be convinced that this is your best market for all kinds of produce.

Sometimes in the near future we propose to canvass for subscriptions to THE EXPRESS. Don't be in a hurry to send in your name, but wait till we show you our inducements.

In the absence of better and less laborious sport our people have taken to jumping, and some few experts threaten to beat the traditional "cow that jumped over the moon."

Rev. N. L. New will preach in the C. P. Church next Sunday in the morning on the subject, "The Money Side of the Gospel," and in the evening his subject will be "Home Missions."

One day this week Rev. J. R. Kirkpatrick let out a contract to Mr. Shell, of Albany, to build him a $4000 residence in the Wasson addition to Seattle, work to commence about the 15th of May.

Show us the man who based his predictions of an early spring on the hibernations of the groundhog six weeks ago! Such unwarranted prophecies deserve to be classed with the nightmares of Paganism.

We guarantee that there are more people on our streets daily than there are in any town of two thousand inhabitants you can name. What does this argue? business, of course. Is it any wonder the visitor mistakes our smiling business men for a crop of office seekers?

Mr. Peter Hume, the Brownsville banker and treasurer of the Eagle Woolen Mill Co., called on us Monday. Mr. Hume is so thoroughly identified with the business interests of Brownsville that a conversation with him is better than a day's study of a business directory.

Elder B. F. Kittinger of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, says he had been suffering with a cold and cough, also his wife, that they took to using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and received great benefit from it. Yet he says, "It was so pleasant to take." For sale by M. A. Miller.

Dr. E. R. Barker brought to our office a Mr. Gunard who has spent some time in the mines of this coast, and who stands high in mining circles. We showed the gentleman a few specimens of quartz. He gave substantially the verdict of every man who professes to be a judge in the matter—rich.

Seldom a day passes that some one does not bring into our office rich specimens of quartz from the great mineral belt in the Cascades. We predict that the extensive work which will be done the coming season will draw a great many men from the valley, thereby giving those who remain a better chance for employment.

The Board of Trade have ordered the printing of five thousand circulars similar to the four thousand which were printed two weeks ago. Some old "Rip Van Winkle" will say this is money thrown away, but is it? Go read of the forced marches and pitched battles of an excited people to secure forty acres of land that would support a good sized Kansas grasshopper and you will agree with our Board that what those people need is a little enlightenment, such as these circulars can give. Give them more light.

Many of the town people are making garden.

Mr. J. Wasson went to Albany Monday.

The health of this locality is remarkably good.

Rev. F. H. Calder went to Brownsville Monday.

Mr. William Blakely, of Pendleton, was in town this week.

We acknowledge a pleasant call from our friend L. T. Berry.

Rev. H. B. Elworthy, pastor of the M. E. Church at Brownsville, was the guest of Rev. Calder Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Parrish returned from Stayton Friday night. She reports her mother convalescent.

J. R. Kirkpatrick has let a contract to Mr. Springer to build a barn. Already work has been commenced.

Rev. C. M. Hill, of the Baptist Home Missionary for the northwest coast, preached in Brownsville last Sunday.

It is reported that 100 houses will be erected in Lebanon during the coming year to meet actual needs.—Oregonian.

Mr. Hansard has moved his saloon as far south as the barber shop, to make room for G. T. Cotton's new store.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Grover and their daughter Belle came on Friday's train and were visiting their friends in town.

Our Brownsville correspondence was received too late for publication last week. We trust no such tardiness will occur in the future.

W. C. Peterson made a business trip to Hillsboro last week. He went armed with a bundle of circulars and says he painted the west side red.

Mr. Willis Calder rendered efficient service in THE EXPRESS office on Thursday of last week, enabling us to get out the paper earlier than usual.

Our school board have been offered $1200 for the public school building. In the event that the new school house is built, this sum is not to be despised.

The several additions to Lebanon are selling rapidly, and what is better, in most instances to men who will build residences and become bonafide residents.

F. M. Miller was elected to the office of Junior Vice-Commander at the Grand Encampment of the G. A. R. last week. Honors could not have been more worthily bestowed.

Some people are afraid of their shadow, and, groundhog-like, they keep in their holes just long enough to miss all those rare bargains in real estate offered by our resident agents.

Prof. J. L. Gilbert, for several years at the head of the Santiam Academy, at this place, was shaking hands with old friends on our streets Saturday. He remained in town over Sunday.

The huge boiler and all the appurtenances of a first-class saw mill were unloaded from the cars, Saturday, and drawn upon Main street, where it attracted a large crowd.

The warehouse at this place, which is owned and operated by J. Suttle, was taxed to its utmost capacity (80,000 bu.) last fall to accommodate the farmers of this locality.

We understand that the proprietors of the St. Charles think of building an addition to their already commodious hotel. Should this be done Lebanon will have better hotel accommodations than any town in the valley.

The rain which began to fall last Saturday continued almost without intermission up to Monday night. As a result, the snow has disappeared from the hills in our immediate vicinity, and we may reasonably expect warmer weather.

A series of meetings were commenced at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday. The officiating ministers are Revs. Price and Hanleiter, of the M. E. Church, South. Everybody interested in Christian work are invited to co-operate in these meetings.

When we read of the mad rush of people for the possession of small strips of territory in the western states and territories we feel like inviting to our own broad territory, where they will not be harassed by the military nor jostled out by a greedy horde of land grabbers. Come this way.

Messrs. Hickman, Hyde, Swan, Saltmarsh and Miller, of the John F. Miller Post, Mrs. Saltmarsh, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Hinduan, of the Woman's Relief Corps, went to Eugene last week to attend the Grand Encampment. The warm greetings of old soldiers and the hospitality of Eugene people are remarked by all present.

Several real estate transactions this week.

Mrs. Martin Hickman is somewhat better.

R. C. Miller is spending the week in Albany. He is on the trial jury.

Mr. Jos. Elkins is soliciting money to build a fence around the Academy.

If you want to know who our business men are, consult our advertising columns.

Mr. Hays, of Harrisburg, called on us Tuesday. Walter is showing him about the city.

Wm. K. Temple and H. R. Powell sold their wheat in the warehouse today at 58 cents per bushel.

Bedrock prices, new goods and standard brands at both the Mammoth and One Price Cash Stores of C. B. Mentague.

Lost, on last Sunday night, a white silk muffler. Anyone finding the same will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

We take this occasion to remind certain business men that they agreed to build a brick block, provided a new school house was built.

Both of our schools closed Wednesday at noon for this week to give all the scholars a chance to attend the Teacher's Institute at Albany.

J. C. Bilyeu passed up Main street Tuesday with the longest string of fish we have seen for some time. They were caught in the Santiam.

The Junction City Pilot has changed hands again. Morin & Buck are its new proprietors. We wish them success in the broad field of journalism.

Mrs. C. W. Cobb, her infant daughter, and sister, Eunice Kirkpatrick, took the train Tuesday morning for Seattle. They were accompanied by H. Y. Kirkpatrick as far as Portland.

We are requested to announce that Rev. F. H. Calder will preach on infant baptism next Sunday; also that that ordinance will be administered to as many as may be presented on that occasion.

The Albany Herald has grown like lightning of late. It feeds very largely on electricity since taking the associated press dispatches, which accounts for its present proportions and increasing popularity.

The Lebanon Cornet Band has organized in a business-like manner. An organization effected in a careless, slipshod manner, is necessarily short-lived. Blow away! Our only refuge is in the theory of the "survival of the fittest."

The marshal is making a house-to-house visitation, examining disjointed stove pipes' defective flues and other disorders of this nature that might subject the town to a general conflagration.

Again it has been demonstrated that woman excels man in pure intellectual force. This time it was at the public school, with Prof. Hickman as judge. This is humiliating to the boys, but the girls are willing to accept the decision as final.

This week we were shown through the furniture factory of E. Goan. The furniture manufactured here is all of native timber—fir, ash and maple. Aside from its durability, our native timber is susceptible of a high polish, which makes it very valuable.

With a slight effort on the part of Oregonians and a small expenditure of money in judicious advertising, every town in the valley that is advantageously situated ought to duplicate its population before the first of January, 1891. Come, neighbors, enter for the race and let's see how many will come up to the record which Lebanon is expected to make.

One year from now our citizens will not be scattering circulars broadcast over the country. An eight thousand dollar school house, a twenty thousand dollar ditch, a paper mill costing fifty thousand dollars and a rolling mill worth sixteen thousand dollars, will do more to advertise Lebanon than 8x12 circulars could do if shot into every part of space.

Following are the names of all who attended the Teacher's Institute at Albany, so far as we could learn, from this place: Prof. Hickman, Prof. Wright, Miss Fannie Griggs, Miss May Ross, Frank Marks, Miss Gelia Smith, Melvin Williams, F. E. Ross, J. B. Marks, E. Parrish, Miss Abbie Fry, Ray Jackson, Miss Zoe Marks, Miss Ada Miller, Miss Lizzie Reed, L. A. Wiley, L. Jackson, Misses Bellreole and Beuna Kirkpatrick, Miss Ivy Smith, Jay Bird Gradnate & Co., and about two dozen others.

GEORGE L. WILCOX, Lebanon, Oregon.

There are some indications of a bakery soon.

Rev. Calder went to Brownsville to assist Rev. Elworthy in a protracted meeting.

Mr. Geo. Fry, who was indicted for burning the sawmill of Jennings & Co., on Hamilton creek, was cleared this week.

Mr. Geo. L. Alexander, of Eugene, a special friend, and formerly foreman, of THE EXPRESS, is in town visiting this week.

Mr. J. J. Swan went to Albany today to consult a lawyer in regard to the legality of the proceedings at the school meeting last Saturday.

Several head of beef cattle were driven through town Thursday. Whence came all this tallow? From the country of mild winters—Willamette valley.

The Calapooia Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Brownsville, propose to celebrate the next anniversary at that place, and invite all neighboring lodges to join them. Full particulars will be given.

A good time is expected at the Academy, Friday, April 4, at which time an entertainment will be given. No pains will be spared to make this the most enjoyable occasion of the season.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Santiam Academy, on Tuesday last, the following trustees were elected: J. D. Walton, S. A. Nickerson, C. H. Ralston, J. A. Beard, G. B. Bland and B. Burtenshaw. The board voted to accept the resignation of Prof. R. N. Wright at expiration of school term. J. A. BEARD, Sec'y.

Rev. J. R. Kirkpatrick went to Eugene Tuesday.

Miss Ollie Wasson is recovering slowly.

Rev. Henlieter came in on the train Tuesday.

This has not been a very eventful week in Lebanon for various reasons.

Lebanon is reaching out in every direction—north south, east and west.

Messrs. Walton & Wiley have received the machinery for their new planer.

Mr. Davis, formerly of Brownsville, but who has been in Eastern Ore., for many years was in town this week.

We noticed a large pond of water near the center of town that should be drained before the weather becomes warm.

The Elite Literary Society meets every Friday evening. It is the opinion of some that when its members take their seats congress that body will no longer be characterized as sleepy.

On inquiring yesterday of one of the school directors about where the school house would be located, he said the first thing they intended to do was to have a first-class lawyer examine their resolution and past work, and then, if the work was all legal, they would take steps to decide where to build and to get ready for work.
