MEMBRIAL DAY. (Written for the Expuse.)

Far away in the sunny south land.
Where the sounds of rebellion first full
they are skeping in graves immumbered
Our loved ones who fought so well.

On the rocky slopes of the mountain, And the harning sands of the plain, Blanch the bones of those martyr heroes, For the cause they died to gain.

How many there are on the battle fichts, Where victory dearly was bought. The price, Unit life for their country. And they sleep there where they fought, On the banks of winding rivers, Where the silvery waters flow, Where widest storms of winter beat, And sweet wild flowers of summer grow,

They rest there with slumbers unbroken, firave brothers, tender and trac: Their knapacks and blankets their pillow. Their winding sheet, red, white and blue. For those loyal sons of freedom, A nation's pulses beat, And to day in common brotherhood The grateful millions meet. To bring kind words and songs of praise,
And fragrant flowers to grace
The spot where our hopes lie buried
In our boy's last resting place.

Let them rest in peace forever, And in Edon's gardens gay, May they gather aweelest flowers, In one long Memorial Pay.

They have this way: Mr. Kendall and his brother recited their little pieces, and as the spirit moved them, poured forth eloquent appeals for party and principle, or otherwise augered a weary but kindly-disposed and forgiving public, with "what I will do for my constituents," springing upon them this and and other well-roasted and lime-worn "chestnuts," to which the people have become accustomed, ditto the measles, as time and circumstances may bring as time and circumstances may bring that it tore away a portion of his head forth. But yet the Brownsville public should not compain, they have been treated to "variety, the spice of life," and have enjoyed an almost interrupted flow of, in many cases, most emphatic harangue from the confident, massive-framed, two hundred pounder, who, with chest expanded, elevationally and arms that cut the air. Why did you cross the plains? Why did you take your life and that of others in your kands to come to this Coast? What pen can write the history? You have conquered this land, made the growth of great cities imperative, and the amassing of great fortunes, almost in a day, possible. Now, by the investment of a few thousands, or hundreds, you may reap the harvest that belongs to you. Will you do it? The greatest corporations, the ablest financiers of Europe and America, are investing thousands—nay, millions. In Seattle. Will you not invest? Your chance is NOW. Seize have a 60-acre tract, an 80 and two 40-acre tracts. Only a few cheap; ripe for platting, any one of which will make you your factore in a short time. Buy quick, I can't duplicate them.
