What a blessing it would be if these malcontents could all be translated to heaven before they inoculate the masses with their spirit of discontent. But as this is not practicable, the next best expedient would be to muzzle them as you would a dog with the rabies. You may choose to make yourself miserable if you like; but you have no right to unload your pangs, your wees, your calamities and your fancied grievances on beings who are wees, your calamities and your fancied grievances on beings who are differently constituted. Whenever me maeet with one of these morbid, mal-formed, semi-rabid creatures (you cannot call them men) we feel like asking the prayers of christendom for their immediate translation to a purer atmosphere and a society more congenies.
