I spoke under a low shed and rather adverse circumstances. In talking with the committee afterwar I, as I wrapped up my gestures and put them back in the shawl strap, I said that I felt almost ashamed to receive such a price for the sentiments of others, but they said that was all right. No one expected to hear an agricultural address. They claimed that it was most generally purely spectacular, and so they regarded my speech as a great success. I used the same gestures after ward in speaking of "The Great Falling Off Among Bare Back Riders in the Circuses of the Present Day."

Mr. Church writes that the club has taken up, discussed and settled all points of importance bearing upon agriculture, from the tariff up to the question of whether or not turpentine poured in a cow's ear ameliorates the pangs of hollow horn. He desires suggestions and questions for discussion. That ashows the club to be thoroughly active. It will soon be spring, and we cannot then discuss these matters. New responsibilities will be added day by day in the way of stock, and we will have to think of names for them. Would it not be well before the time comes for active farm work to think ont a long list of names before the little strangers arriver carrying a roll of gaudy calieo in her sufficient of the post-trader's store. In a few minutes she emerged from the store carrying a roll of gaudy calieo in her sufficient and the sum of the pangs of hollow hord.

Would it not be well before the time comes for active farm work to think out a long list of names before the little strangers arrived. Nothing serves to lower us in the estimation of our fellow farmers or the world more than the frequent altercations between owners and their hired help over what name they shall give to a weary, wobbly calf who has just entered the great arena of life, full of hopes and aspirations perhaps, but otherwise absolutely empty. Let us consider this before spring fairly opens, so that we may be prepared for anything of this kind.

One more point may properly come before the club at its next meeting, and I mention it when the post-trader's store. In a few minutes she emerged from the store carrying a roll of gaudy calleo in her hand. Seating herself upon the steps, she produced from some region about her person, a needle, thread and a pair of rusty scissors. With these she proceeded to manufacture a dress, and in an amazingly short time it was finished. Then with a dexterous firt, in full view of the disregarded spectators, she slipped it over her head, and after some mysterious sleight of hand inside of it, she arose, dropping and leaving the old THE YAQUINA ROUTE.

I first noticed the change in the summer of 172, I think. I purchased a small package of early Scotch plaid curied kale with a beautiful picture on the outside. It was as good a matching the pattern of the goods and picture of Scotch kale as I ever saw. I could laying the patch the proper way of the picture of Scotch kale as I ever saw. I could imagine how gay and lighthearted it was the day it went up to the studio and had its picture taken for this purpose. A short editorial paragraph under the picture stated that I should plant in quick, rich soil, in rows four inches apart, to a depth of one inch, cover lightly and then roll. I did so. No farmer of my years enjoys rolling any better than I do.
