THE WRITTEN WORD.

Any survey of that portion of society which is comprised within the limits of civilization, which refuses the practical power of the written word, is partial and unjust. Its effects upon young life and upon the springs of civilization is written in living characters which are at once plain and imperishable. If a question of comparison between this book and any other were started, Christ's own standard of judgment would best meet the case; looking forward to the false prophets who should seek to undo his works, he said: "By their fruits ye shall know them." Modern civilization should be the field of research on both sides. Which book has done most for liberty, justice, progress? Which book has most persistently branded, defied and threatened every form of tyranny? Which book has spoken with the trust pathos to the wounded and sorrowing heart? Which book has done most for the poor man? These inquiries may be put in no declaratory spirit, but simply with a view to the discovery of facts. The test is fair. It is marked by a high sense of honesty on the part of Christ. He adopts no method of overriding human judgment, but, on the contrary, elevates the discriminative faculty of man, and in a manner throws the responsibility of the conclusion upon men's own common sense. This is not the plan of necromancers, soothsayers and self-declared prophets; Christ appeals to his own works and the works of others, asking the verdict of the world upon their respective claims to truth and veneration. There is no cunning legend, no rebuke of human severity in the examination, no indulgence bespoken on behalf of the worker; the words and works are before you—judge them, said Christ, and believe me for the very works' sake."

In 1850 the farmers owned 70 per cent. of the wealth of the country and paid 85 per cent. of the taxes. In 1860 they owned 50 per cent. of the wealth of the country and paid 87 per cent. of the taxes. In 1880 they owned only 25 per cent. of the wealth and yet paid 80 per cent. of the taxes. We were glad to see the farmers in the late elections reaffirming the old principle of representation along with taxation. Three or four generations of scheming demagogues have put inquiry into the statute books which will continue to afflict the nation until a better class of men come into power, undo a part at least of our present iniquitous system and enact in its stead good, wholesome laws.

LACOMB.

Religious services are held among us most each and every Sabbath, which are well attended, and general order prevails among the brother citizens and members.

So it goes. We are to have a new neighbor in the near future, in the person of a Kansas household, for whom we bespeak a cordial welcome into our midst, and trust others may follow his example.

With sympathy and a sad heart we are compelled to announce the very dangerous illness of one of the sons of our most estimable friend and neighbor, David Myers. The little fellow is quite low with typhoid fever.

We are informed that two prominent merchants of the city of Lebanon are to erect a superbly magnificent establishment at Lacombe, for which we will gladly hail, and our support is with you, boys; come on, ye early.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard passed over the dark river from which there is no return, a few days since. The parents are lately from Tennessee and are very estimable people. They have our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

G. W. Bradley, one of Sweet Home's leading business and society young men, paid Lacombe a flying visit a few days since. It isn't sheep-shearing season yet, but George is enabled to get his advance practice from the above city's population wool. Queer, isn't it?

Lacombe may justly glory in the possession of one of the most expert horse drivers in Oregon. While driving his old pony Billy last week, Arthur Lacombe decided it was time to resort to the club hazel switch when it was of no effect, so he drew his revolver and went in to win or bust, resulting in that he came within inches of shooting her fly prosector from his preconceived place. Pop it to her, Art, that's the way to put on style.

Hon. Edward Downing, one of the Capital City's most popular lawyers is visiting Lacombe, the guest of his brother Herby Downing. Cousin Ed is just as jolly and yet sober and is known to having a broad grin between your sound discs, with his merry yams, of which he has an end less stock in his valise. If you need a sample, call on Ed. Consultation free. But don't forget your Barnum Black. Ed's one of us boys anyhow and any way, ain't you, Ed.

The boys who assembled at the Police Sunday, gave the EXPRESS the idea of a funeral procession after whose investigation we were in the fact that the corpse was suffering from a severe case of all-goneness, occurred that but five or six now left to carry on the funeral. We are so used to seeing the boys that "fire" don't believe at once that she only building a residence which he will occupy as soon as she comes along; Doug Holman is smoking the best of home-made twist and all-mashed-up-your-hand tobacco; Uncle William Tucker is taking it easy; Jim Layton is driving twelve yoke of mares with a goal stick, and Jesse South is punching the fire up with his hazel cane; Billie Turnidge is selling tobacco by the dozen's worth, and Lewis South has gone fiddlin' to kill time.

First of December. Well, well, Oregon isn't a God-forsaken land after all, and we'll wager a marked postage stamp on that; neither is Lacombe a forsaken city from the tone of enterprise, and the merry events that take place daily. Among others, J. M. South & Sons are still running their thrashing machine. Likewise their steam mills keep up the music of their merry buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz and enterprise. One more new forty-horse-power engine coming up from the metropolis this week for C. Clark & Sons, who are removing and remodeling their old buzz-buzz and converting it into a really first-class mill, "saw mill, you bet. But yet we will soon get back to the days of barbarism, by the erecting of bark wigwags for the comfortable housing of our newly married people, for it is amply evident that the mills will be unable to furnish the required supply of material for such an immense amount of building, and Lo the poor furniture man that said he eats his three meals of crust bread and punched beef, and wends his way to his daily toil to find awaiting him those happy-faced folks whose from car-to-car and playfully say, "Bye, boys, we're just got married and we want a spring bedstead, two rocking chairs and a cradle from your store, for we'll pay the cash for 'em," and such is the program of seasons in Lacombe and throughout Canada generally. Sweet Home may boast of her two weddings, but we'll leave her to her fate, for 'tis said Canada is somewhere on top any how. "DEMOCRAT."

OPPOSED TO IT.

The Linn County Council P. H. held Saturday, Dec. 6, 1890, adopted the following resolutions and authorized Hon. R. A. Irvine to secure their publication in the press of the State:

WHEREAS, There was a special committee appointed in 1880 in the Senate of the State of Oregon, on assessment and taxation, with instructions to report their conclusions in the form of a bill at the next session of the Legislature for its consideration, and whereas, said committee has made its report, and whereas, if the principles and recommendations in regard to taxation by said committee should be adopted by the Legislature, the burdens of taxation would fall upon the laboring classes and farmers of the State than under the present laws in regard to assessment and taxation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the Linn County Council hereby request the members of the Legislature to use all honorable means to defeat the adoption of said report and enactment of its recommendations into the forms of law.

"The Jersey Lily."

ANGELICA COTTAGE, L. B., July 2. Gentlemen: Altho' it is very unusual for me to use any laudatory words, still, in answer to your request, I have tried Wisdom's Violet Cream and Robeline. The former I consider especially efficacious in cases of roughness of the skin, and I have been using it every day for the past fortnight. I have found the former an excellent preparation in cases of tan, sunburn, etc., caused by exposure to March winds and a July sun. Yours faithfully, LILLIE LANGTRY

A Sure Cure for Piles.

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration causing intense itching when warm. This form, as well as blood, bleeding and protruding, yield at once to Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays all itching and effects a permanent cure. Dr. Bosanko, 329 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by M. A. Miller.

Excitement.

Runs high in Lebanon at Beard & Holt's drug store over System Builder, as everybody is using it for Catarrh of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, Consumption and Impure Blood. Try it and tell your friends about it, as it must possess wonderful merits when all speak well of it.

ACADEMY NOTES.

Chas. Walton entered school Monday.

Misses Mary and Caroline Taylor visited the Academy, Friday.

At a recent meeting of the Elite Literary Society, Gen. L. Alexander, G. W. Ray and Bert Wright were elected honorary members of that body.

The question for discussion, on next Friday evening, at the Elite Literary Society, is, "Resolved, that the works of nature are more pleasing to the eye than the works of art." Speakers on the affirmative, W. C. Peterson, J. M. Rutledge and R. A. Rutledge; negative, J. B. Marks, Randall Barrett and L. A. Wiley.

Quite a distinguished visitor called on us Thursday in the person of Prof. J. F. Stubblefield, of the Walla Walla Business College. Prof. Stubblefield formerly was a student at the Santiam Academy, and so it seems quite natural to see his smiling face in the school-room.

"Lives at best men all spend us. We may make one live a while. And, departing, leave behind us. Foot-prints on the sands of time."

"ACADEMICAL."

SWEET HOME.

Moran & Morris have sold a half interest in their feed stable and camp sheds to Geo. Miller.

On the 2d of Dec., 1890, Mr. B. F. Burnett and Miss Dora A. Weddle, both of Sweet Home, were united in matrimony by Thos. A. Yost of the Evangelical church.

P. J. Foster, of Wylie creek mill, left today for Salem. He expects to combine business with pleasure; visiting his sister, who resides in the city, and looking for a suitable place to engage in the fruit business.

James McKelvie is installed miller at the Foster flouring mill. His courteous and genial manner and his skill in his profession have won quite a custom, and it is the verdict of many of the ladies of this section (especially the young) that James makes good flour.

The Road to Wealth

Cannot be successfully traveled without good health. To reach wealth and coveted position in life requires the full possession and operation of all the faculties kind nature has endowed us with. These conditions cannot exist unless the physical being is in perfect working order, and this is impossible when the liver and spleen are torpid, thus obstructing the secretions, causing indigestion and dyspepsia, with all of its accompanying horrors.

DR. HENLEY'S

English Dandelion Tonic exerts a specific influence over the liver, excites it to healthy action, resolves its chronic engorgements, and promotes the secretions; cures indigestion and constipation, sharpens the appetite, tones up the entire system, and makes life worth living.

APPEARS.

"Look on this picture and then on that." The above faces are exact reproductions of photographs taken from life of Mrs. Morton D. Harlan, who resides at No. 28 West 10th Street, New York City. The first one was taken in November, 1897, while she was in the last stages of consumption, abandoned by physicians and nursed by friends. The other was taken in December, 1898, when completely recovered, and entirely through the use of Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption. The above pictures are wood cuts, but they are as true to life and the original photographs, taken from life, can be seen at all the drug stores. Mrs. Harlan's consumption, which as a consumption usually does, with a cough in the morning, raising of phlegm, tired and depressed feeling, a lack of appetite, the loss of flesh and pain throughout the body. She did not realize her extreme danger until it became almost too late, but she is in perfect health to-day. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption is sold by all reputable druggists. You can't afford to be without it.
