be well for him to stick a pin right here for future reference. It is a good pointer, and shows that a well-con-ducted saloon is not so objectionable as

Several years ago one of Browns-ville's quiet, steady-going citizens sud-denly became imbued with the idea that Brownsville needed a railroad. At that time the only means of com-inunication with the outside world was At that time the only means of communication with the outside world was a wretched, washed-out, portable bottom county road between Brownsville and Halsey, the navigation of which in winter required about as skillful a pilot as the Columbia river bar in a bad storm. Brownsville at that time had not got its eyes opened on the railroad question, and the quiet, steady-going citizen was laughed at when he persistently urged the people to give a bonus to the Scotch company. At last his efforts were crowned with success, the tles were laid, the rails were spiked alown and the little engine puffed up its our station. Of course the road has never been what we desired, but when we remember that the little engine brought the big one, and that in a few years from now Brownsville will be situated on one of the trunk lines of the great Northwest, the gratitude of the people of Brownsville is due to George A. Dyson, the man who so persistently, in the face of all opposition, aurged the people to bring the iron Biorse to this town. From a quiet corporate in the freight house, Sunday, we watched the expression of satisfaction and his face as he rend the words, "Union Pacific," on a big box car on the side track, which came to Brownsville as the re ult of his tircless efforts.

The people of South Brownsville will hold a meeting this week for the purpose of resurceting their long-slumlering corporate authority, and also for the purpose of procuring a new charter. This step has become a necessity for the reason that South Brownsville numbers among its citizens some of the most enterprising and intelligent young men that Lian county can boast of, whose wounded pride has borne the taunts of their neighbors. has borne the taunts of their neighbors as long as human nature could stand. The homes of these men had to be approached over the ruins of a once-leautiful town, where the diligence of 2St. Paul was exemplified from the pulpit and where the parable of the unfruit ful tree was expounded every Sabbath clay. Many times during the last seven years have we sat in the churches of Every Description, in South Brownsville and listened to the story of the foolish virgins who rllowed the oil to burn out of their lamps, and then went out into the darkness and tore a hole in our best Sunday-school pants while trying to get out of a big rupture in the side-walk; and yet the citizens of South Brownsville expect to walk the gold-fined streets of the New Jerusalem in their beautiful diamond slippers, and leave poor Nemo (angled up amongs) the totten skeleton of an ancient sidewalk to work out his salvation the best way that he can. Gentlemen of the moss-back breed, if this is your interpretation of the golden rule—namely, do unto others as you wish to be done by—we wish to say right here that you are away off your base, and if you ever wear "them golden slippers" in the New Jerusalem, it will be against the stern protest of your humble servant for whose feet you have so often set a snare that he fears to visit one of your churches after dark. Of course you have saved a few dollars thereby, and if you think that you have gained the right to turn up your nose when we walk to work out his salvation the best right to turn up your nose when we pass you on the street, we will fergive you and prayerful y ask the Onin scient Creator to shed a new light a-ro s your pathway. With feelings of prefound sorrow have we witnessed the decay and neglect by which you are surrounded, and many times have we said to surselves, "Here are the foolish virgins, with that a dog-gasted drep of oil in their lamps, and with the wicks sputtering in an uncertain way as they try to lead the sinners to repentance over a measily, rotten sidewalk." It was a clear case of the blind leading the blind, with the certainty of all falling into the ditch together. In conclusion, we most respectfully ask you to let your lower lights be fourning, send a group across the ways some send a gleam across the wave, some poor, straggling-homeward sinner's poor, straggling-nome was. Sunday breeches you may save. NEMO.

NO MORE WAR.

It is an honorable characteristic of the spirit of this age that projects of violence and warfare are regarded among civilized nations with gradually increasing aversion. The Universal Peace Society certainly does not, and probably never will, enroll the majority of statesmen among its members; but even those who look upon the appeal of battle as occasionally maavoidable in international controversics, concur in thinking it a deplorable necessity only to be resorted to when all peaceful modes of argument have been vainly tried, and when the law of self-defense justifies a state, like an individual, in using force to protect itself from immigent and serious injury. Instruments of destruction have so multiplied within recent years as to satisfy the most inordinate thirst! for blood, and that too in a way that calls for little military genius. The inventive genins of this age promises the wholesale destruction of armies by means of explosives. and in these latest triumphs of genius we discover the strongest argument in favor of arbitration. The humane sentiment that forbids | the extirpation of an armed foe by means of poisoning will just as certainly revolt at the death-dealing instruments of latter days con which contemplate nothing short of the annihilation of whole armies. The time is coming when national ensigns will fade to paleness, and the Enion to the century. shall fleat one flag over all nations, and that flag will be white—cmblem of universal peace!

Our city election will be held on the first Monday in January. Let every A. JACK ADAMS, GEO. L. No notion is self-contained; all actions are influential, and the good or the evil influences which your ballot will help to inaugurate on that day will continue to bless or afflict mankind through magnetics and a self-contained the s BROWNSVILLE BREEZES.

The city election is over and a majority of the people have declared by their votes that they are willing to grant a license to a saloon for the purpose of selling spiritous liquors for the ensuing year. The election was conducted so quietly that a stranger visiting our town would not know that it was election day unless be was told of the fact. The result was a surprise to many, but they need not look far for the exuse. The fact is that the proprietor of the saloon, by conducting his business in a quiet, orderly manner in the past, has contributed more to the success of the conservative ticket than all other causes combined, and it would be well for him to stick a pin right here for future reference.
