The lay of the time-serving politician is de-lay.

Quay's name furnishes the "Q" to Pennsylvania's peculiar politics.

Lebanon is none of your completed towns—and it will be many generations before it is.

Pretty freckled girls are called trout in the Cascade mountain country, because they are speckled beauties, don't you know.

The difference between the society girl and the political haraugar is that the one talks little nothings, and the other big nothings.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, who was vice-president during Lincoln's first term, died at Bangor, Maine, on July 4, at the age of 82 years.

There is a man in New York who says that he is not afraid of a woman taking his job away from him, although they are ousting lawyers, preachers and doctors. He cleans telegraph poles for a living.

President Stephens speaking of the North-west, in address before the National Editorial Association, at St. Paul, said: "It illustrates the possibilities of our people when divested of sectionalism. The population which wrought marvelous progress in this section in the last twenty years has been drawn from all sections of the world, and is typical of that spirit which ignoring differences of every kind, seeks the material and intellectual advancement of all."

It is not many years since the democrats of Iowa met in state convention as a matter of form and to keep up the party organization; recently they assembled as the party in power, with at least an equal chance of electing their candidates next fall. Iowa used to be good for 60 000 to 75 000 republican majority or plurality in presidential elections, and it gave 31 000 plurality to Harrison in 1888, yet it is now in the balance so far as state elections are concerned, and may get into the doubtful column in 1892.—Philadelphia Ledger.

No 1, Vol. 1, of the Weekly Advance, published at Eugene, by Mess Adams & Alexander, has reached us, and will, we trust, be a regular visitor to our sanctum. Its mission, we judge, shall be to do good to the laboring and down-trodden masses; becoming probably an organ of the Alliance; opposing monopoly; favoring prohibition of the liquor traffic; with a decided leaning towards the third- or peoples' party. The young creature is cunning, bold and lively. We wish our brethren and friends at the helm every access they in fancy foresee or hope to attain to.

Ex-Senator Ingalls recently does not expect a change in the distribution of wealth. Said he in his address to the Chautauquians at Glen Echo: If all the money in the United States was divided equally so that every person got $75.00, it would not be six months before there would be existing the same state of things that exists now. Some men would be riding in palace cars, some in buggies, some would be on foot and some would be sitting on the fence corners waiting for the procession to go by; some men would be in Congress and some men would be in the penitentiary. Above all would be heard the voice of the irrepressible reclaimer, who carries his livelihood by the preparation of his jaw rather than by the sweat of his brow.—Hosberg Plaindealer.

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

EDITED BY ITS MEMBERS.

Oh, young men, if you would be great and happy, hold the reins, assume and maintain the regal power over your passions and appetites, battle every evil propensity bravely, breast the tide of temptation; then you will appreciate and realize the truth and power of Solomon's declaration, "He that ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city."

Remember this, young men—habit strengthens with age. In proportion to the loss of shame at a vice is the gain of recklessness in pursuing it. Many a man reels through the streets to-day, whose first act of intoxication was a mortification to him. Do you know what the appetite for drink is? God forbid that you ever should know by your own experience.

The great object we have in view is to stir up the people to do something against the fearful curse of intemperance. A great many people say that they see nothing of all the evils others describe. The fact is, they know no more about the evils of drunkenness, than the old lady knew of the scenery through which she passed the first time she ever rode on the cars. Some one said to her, "Well madam what did you see?" "See! nothing at all but a haystack and that passed going the other way." We want to show the people, if we can, the terrible evil we seek to remove. That terrible curse of drunkenness! The mind of man cannot grasp it in its wide extent. God never gave man imagination wonderful enough to conceive, it, or eloquence sufficient to illustrate it so that it could be at all understood. This great curse is caused by one thing, and only by that, and that is the drinking of intoxicating liquor as a beverage.

Petition For Liquor Licenses.

To the Mayor and city council of the city of Lebanon, Linn county Oregon.

GENTLEMEN— We the undersigned, residents and legal voters of the city of Lebanon Linn county Oregon, believing that it is better to have the control of the sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors openly under the restrictions of the law than secretly in violation thereof. And believing further that Wm. J. Guy and Joel Mayer, under the firm name of Guy & Mayer, would be an suitable parties as any in conducting such business. We would therefore respectfully ask and petition, that on the said Guy & Mayer complying with the provisions of the charter and the ordinance in force of the city of Lebanon, as to procuring license for the sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors, that a license be granted and issued to said parties, for the sale of said liquors, in less quantities than one gallon, within the corporate limits of the city of Lebanon Linn county Oregon. For which we will ever pray.
