Under these amendments all promotions hereafter made in the classified service will be upon strictly competitive examination conducted under the direct authority of the Civil-Service Commission. Promotions, like appointments, will be made upon merit only. In examinations for promotion much weight will be given office records of clerks as to punctuality, diligence and efficiency.

Commissioner Baum of the Pension Bureau in an interview with a United Press reporter emphatically denied the published statements that no original pension certificates had been issued during the month of July and the eleven working days of the present month. He submitted figures showing what the pension office was accomplishing. The work for the fiscal year just ended shows that there were 144,597 more certificates issued than for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888. During the past month 2,852 original certificates were issued under the law, while 25,494 original certificates were issued under the act of June 27, 1890. The issue of original certificates in July, 1888, was 3,444. The Commissioner said: "There is no understanding nor agreement between Secretary Foster and myself that no more certificates shall be presented for payment until after September 1. On the contrary, all the agents are provided with funds to make daily payments of all pension certificates entitled to payment during the month of August. The work of auditing the pension claims will go steadily forward. It is my expectation that the office will issue 120,000 certificates from August 1 to December 1, or 148,000 for the first five months of the present financial year."
