HEMORRHAGE FROM NOSE.

New Invention for the Purpose of Remediating Projecting Ears in a Child.

Buttermilk will take out mildew stains. Water tanks or coolers in which drinking water is kept should be lined with porcelain, and should be emptied and thoroughly cleaned every morning before the fresh water and ice are put in. For a cut take powdered resin, pound it very fine and spread or silt it over the cut; wrap a piece of soft linen around it and wet it in cold water quite often. This will prevent inflammation and soreness.

For severe hemorrhage from the nose try holding the arms of the patient up over the head for five minutes at the time. A small piece of ice wrapped in muslin and laid directly over the top of the nose will usually give relief.

If the eyes are tired and inflamed from loss of sleep by sitting up late or long travel, apply in the morning soft white linen dripping with hot water—as hot as you can bear it—laying the cloth upon the lids. You will feel the eyes strong and free from pain or distress in half an hour.

A delicious dainty for hot-weather lunches is asparagus salad. After the stalks are boiled they should be plunged at once into iced water, which prevents them from losing their natural color and also keeps them straight. Make a dressing of oil, salt and pepper, substituting for vinegar a generous amount of lemon juice. This succulent vegetable is never eaten under more delicate and appetizing auspices than these.

A new invention for the purpose of remedying projecting ears in a child has recently appeared. It is an open cap made in the form of a light skeleton of elastic tapes, which converge over the ears. It is worn at night, and presses the ears gently down. Being tied under the chin, it is said also to prevent the habit of sleeping with the mouth open, which produces that notorious breathing inelegantly termed snoring.

It is not natural for young chicks to eat soft food. Their gizzards are adapted to breaking up and digesting hard substances, and unless given something to do this the power is lost. After the chick is a week old whole wheat is as good a food as can be given, and before that cracked wheat should form at least part of their ration. Whole corn should not be fed to growing chicks at any time. Corn is not very good feed for chickens, anyway; but, if given, it is better to be cracked than fed whole or ground into fine meal.

Making Butter in Winter.

The following address was delivered at the Oregon (N. Y.) Farmers' Institute: "Perfect neatness must accompany the whole routine in making butter—from the surroundings, food and drink of the cows down to the packing of the butter in a clean box ready for market. Then the market—not one's particular taste—must determine the quality of butter made. If you contemplate winter dairying, you should never be satisfied to furnish a poor article of butter, but should make it a point to furnish something far above the present average quality. In changing from summer to winter dairying we should choose our cows from a better stock or breed. We want the breed which will change the most food into butter fat instead of beef or milk fat.

"To make winter dairying profitable we must have warm stables—have them so warm that the windows may be filled with plants. Do not have the old-fashioned stanchions. There is less butter in them than in a more comfortable fastening. The stables must be kept clean. Behind the cows we should have slats two inches wide and two inches thick and one and half inches apart. These slats will let the greater part of the excrement through into the drop below and so keep the cows clean. I do not leave the milk standing in the stable to become filled with odors, but have it set for creaming as soon as possible.

"I prefer having cows come in in October and November. When they do this and are well cared for, at least 50 per cent. more milk and butter can be made from them than when they come in in the spring. The flow of milk should be kept up all winter, and when they go to grass they will go right on without shrinking. The first part of the summer is the best, as then the flies and heat do not deplete the cows. The cows keep in good flesh in this way. The "spring-poor" period is done away with, and more money is had for the butter. I prefer to rear my calves in the winter; I have more time then, and the milk is worth more. The best calves I ever reared were those born in the autumn. There are some disadvantages, such as the extra work of keeping the cream at the right temperature. A warm room is essential. The higher price will help, and does make up for this. We can make more manure, and this is a large item.

"My experience with enilage as a milk and butter food has been very satisfactory. Our cows the past year averaged 245 pounds of butter per cow, which was sold at 30 cents per pound. There is profit in the dairy, but we must make the butter good and make it the year round."

PORTLAND MARKET.

A Resume of the Condition of Its Different Departments.

Fruit dealers have their stocks pretty well cleaned up. Receipts are light. A few watermelons have arrived. Very few peaches have been received. Pears, apples and plums were quite plentiful and met with good sale. Tomatoes are about the only fruit that can be called in good supply. The stock is of fair quality, but is not in good demand. The market for country produce is weaker. Receipts of poultry were large. Butter is coming in freely, both Oregon and Eastern, and dealers do not expect to maintain present prices any length of time. The egg market is by no means overstocked. In other lines a good trace was experienced.

WHEAT.

Cables report cargoes very strong, owing to wet weather in England and on the continent, and quotations have advanced from 6d to 1s per quarter. Walla Walla prompt shipment being quoted at 44s 9d/45s. There is a firm tone to the Liverpool market and considerable activity on a basis of 9s 3d per cental for No. 1 California. Trading in futures was fairly brisk, and closing prices showed a gain over the previous day, ranging from 1/4d to 1 1/4d.

A number of Russian Polish immigrants at Berlin in the poorhouse, held to be returned to their country, refused to work and attacked with knives the officers who endeavored to make them work. A fire engine and reinforcements quelled the riot.

M. Janssen, who last year proposed to build an observatory on the top of Mount Blanc, announces that his appeal has been responded to by Bischoffheim, the banker; Prince Roland Bonaparte, Baron Alphonse de Rothschild and M. Eiffel. Its building is still problematical.

The German government has decided to form a marine station and torpedo harbor at Cuxhaven at a cost of 25,000,000 marks. A bill will be introduced in the Reichstag in November making the necessary appropriation for the work. The location of this important improvement at Cuxhaven is a recognition of Hamburg as the leading port of the Empire.

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?

Should any one ask your opinion about the Histogenetic system of medicine, just answer boldly that it is no good. Should he ask you the reason why it is no good, tell him—just because. If this answer does not confound him by its profundity and he still persists, tell him that it is a new-fangled idea. This will probably prove effective, as it bankrupted the first iron plow establishment. Should you fail in that, too, don't give up, but insist with the powerful argument that your grandmother never heard of it; that you can't see how mercury, arsenic, strychnine, etc., can be improved upon, and that the old schools of medicine must necessarily have exhausted all the stock of wisdom, and that there cannot possibly be anything left to learn. And if all your powerful arguments have failed to convince him of the reasonableness of your position—you have still one Parthian shot—tell him that you are simply astonished; and that you thought him an intelligent man!

And still there are men—and women, too—upon whom such arguments have no effect, but they are thinking people who are willing to investigate before they form an opinion.

MOJAVE, Kern County, Cal.
Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, Seattle, Wash.—DEAR SIR: I am glad to tell you that my wife still continues to improve. Looks like a different person. Skin clearing up; eyes look brighter, and is feeling better generally; no pain in stomach, and has good appetite. We feel glad that we have found some one who can do her good, and you will have other patients from this section. Very respectfully,
