An Editor's Farewell.

The following is the way Editor W. Knox, of the Malvern, O., Doings, bids adieu to a constituency which has failed to support his paper: "In bidding adieu to Malvern as the scene of our struggles in the field of journalism, our readers will pardon a brief outline of the causes which have compelled our departure. Our lack of judgement and failure to comprehend the essential littleness of the place, our expectations that we could dispel the prejudice and burst the rust-eaten shackles of rural conventionalities, have recoiled with stupendous force upon our pocket book. We have cried, 'bread, bread,' where there was no bread. We have wasted our energies and dulled the edge of our wit in trying to make blood gush from a turnip. "We have laughed where there is no mirth. We have wept where tears are unknown. We have danced and the daughters of music are dumb. We have stung you into madness. We have tickled you under the chin. We have created and disbanded the large and lonesome eye. We have nursed and coddled the lean and meagre truth. The fruits of our efforts have been apples of Sodom and our belly is filled with wind. Were poverty a sin, this were a hamlet in hell; were selfishness a virtue this were a place of paradise. To our friends—to those who succored us in hours of distress—our memory will ever be green, and may the gods of fortune be ever kind to them. To our enemies—to those who withheld their supporting arm and word of cheer—may they reap as they sowed. Farewell."

Junction Times: Mrs. Queener is a woman about 50; odd in her ways and likes flashy colors in her dress and good jewelry. She lives alone, and while she is well supplied with goods of the world, she lives the life of a miser, denying herself of every comfort and even the necessities of life. Sunday morning the attention of the marshal was called to the fact that she had not been seen since Thursday, and fearing that she might be sick, an entrance was made through a rear window, but not until an answer was received from her, as she keeps a revolver and knows how to use it. She was found lying on the floor with no covering or protection save a short undergarment and one stocking without a foot. She was in a semi-conscious condition. The odor of the room surroundings was so foul and putrid that the officers had to rush out for fresh air. Assistance was procured and the suffering woman was placed in bed and a lady nurse employed. Her side is paralyzed and her condition is very critical. Her sister at Grand Rapids was telegraphed for and arrived Tuesday. The revolting features of the condition in which the woman was found by the marshal and her squalid surroundings we omit. The facts given must suffice. She is reported to be worth $25,000 to $30,000. Some gold and silver, a fine gold watch and lots of jewelry were found in a satchel by her side. As she was possessed with means the sad plight in which she was found was brought about by her insatiable greed for gold.

The Oregon City papers failed to mention that Emile Bier is in the county jail awaiting to answer the charge of an attempt to commit rape upon the person of Emma Hall, who is only five years of age. The little girl's father is a respected farmer near Milwaukie and Bier was a laborer in the vicinity. A warrant was recently sworn out and Bier was arrested by Constable E. C. Lakin and taken to Oregon City before the people of Milwaukie became aware of the fact. The Wilson-Walsh outrage is still fresh in the memory of Milwaukie citizens, by whom Bier might have been roughly handled had he not been quickly and quietly taken to the county seat.—Oswego Iron Works.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine for the past thirty-five years. On the 26th of May, while in Des Moines, en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of diarrhoea. Having sold Cham'erlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a twenty-five cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water incident to traveling often produces a diarrhoea. Every one should procure a bottle of this Remedy before leaving home. For sale by M. A. Miller, druggist.

News comes from Harriaburg of a serious cutting affray. Robert White, who had been carrying his sheep for the night, and came home by D. Wasson's house, meeting Wasson there, the two had a fuss, with the result that White was seriously cut about the body by Wasson. He was placed under $12,000 to await the action of the grand jury.

Died, near Sodaville, June 5, Mrs. W. H. Ingram. The deceased maiden name was Mary Jane Miller. She was born near Adell, Iowa, March 6, 1832. She was left motherless at 11 years of age. She kept house for her father and three young children until she was married. She crossed the plains, driving one of her father's teams, in 1853, and settled near Sodaville where she was married to W. H. Ingram June 4, 1871, and has always lived near that place. She leaves a husband and eleven children, and a host of friends to mourn her loss. She was an earnest Christian and a thorough worker for Christ and endeavored to set a Christian example before her children. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole community.
