Irwin Smith, a young farmer, of Benton county, advertised in an eastern paper for a wife. It resulted in an engagement with Mollie E. Little, of Kansas. Yesterday the young lady arrived in Corvallis and was met at the depot by the young man. They immediately secured a license and were married. While such marriages are hazardous affairs, though perhaps little more than marriages generally. —Democrat.

Last fall I was taken with a kind of summer complaint, accompanied with a wonderful diarrhoea. Soon after my wife's sister, who lives with us, was taken just the same. We used almost everything without benefit. Then I said let us try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which we did, and that cured us right away. I think much of it, as it did for me what it was recommended to do. John Hertzler, Bethel, Becks Co., Pa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller, druggist.

Portland Dispatch. Monday last week R. J. McWilliams, a merchant of Elgin Union county, was sprinkling the street in front of his place. Another citizen passed by and McWilliams playfully turned the hose on him. This led to a scuffle and fight. The city marshal interfered and forced McWilliams into the house, but the latter returned with a pistol and shot at the officer, sending the ball into the latter's right arm, tearing the flesh away from the wrist to the elbow. McWilliams was held in $750 bonds. This conduct was a surprise to the people of the little town.

A prominent clergyman in Boston needed an errand boy, so he advertised in the want column. One reply read this way: "I seen you advertised for a boy. I am one. I can do things as you want 'em, and can hustle. Most folks ain't got no use for a boy—betwix how hard times is. I want the job, Joe White." This rather shocked the minister, but it made an impression. Of many letters this one held his attention, it pulled on both his curiosity and sympathy, and he took the boy's frank and original way of putting it. "Joe" got the job.—Ex-

There was weighed at Dufur last week by Mr. Haines, Sr., of Nansen, a span of colts that are not beat in any country. One a Belfounder filly 2 years old, weighing 1190, and the other a three-fourths bred English Draft colt, 15 months old sired by "Sprossero Dandy," owned by R. Sigman, weighing 1130, measuring 6 feet 5 inches around the heart and is nearly 16 hands high. The latter will this year take its chances against all of Oregon's fine horses, and will certainly raise the 1200-pound balance before October 1.

"My little boy was very bad off for two months with diarrhoea. We used various medicines, also called in two doctors, but nothing done him any good until we used Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. A boy in Polk county found a nest of the most beautiful of domesticated of American birds, the golden-winged woodpecker, or "flicker," in an old apple tree. He has taken out an egg every day for 25 days, the bird faithfully laying another every time the nest is robbed. Ordinarily the flicker four to seven young. All writers consider them a harmless bird, destroying large quantities of worms, leaves, borers and insects.

John Aborn, of Oswego, set fire to some old rubbish in which there happened to be a number of cartridges, filled with fine bird shot. He soon was made aware of the fact and received in all parts of his body over 120 grains of shot. A doctor succeeded in finding about 30 of the shot, but the remaining 100 are buried too deeply in various parts of his anatomy. The Oswego Iron-Worker, which chronicles this occurrence, states that Mr. Aborn is slightly disfigured, but still in the ring.

There is a movement on foot to secure the entry of Canadian cattle into the United States, which is now prohibited by the quarantine regulations, so that cattle exporters in Canada may ship their cattle by New York, Boston and Portland, where the freight rates, they say, are from $6 to $8 lower than in Montreal. It is thought an arrangement can be made to send cattle through in bond. The exports of cattle from the Dominion have run up to about 100,000 annually.

The newspaper business in Astoria is full of interest. The Budget says: It is getting to be fashionable to go up Salt river. It is said that the poor old Astorian is preparing for the journey. She has been on the ragged edge for a long time, and mortgages has undermined her constitution and hungry creditors have gnawed at her vitals that she is frail and almost ready to tatter over into the boneyard where lie bleaching the bones of the Advocate, the Independent, the Gateway Herald, Pioneer, Transcript, the halo sheet, Bulletin, Shipping List and the fresh and odious carcass of the defunct Examiner, which died of starvation and an overdose of gall on the river.

A little child of Mr. and Mrs. Hedges, from Albany, who are the guests of Mrs. Hedges' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Howard, met with a painful accident while attending the celebration at Smithfield. The child walked up to a horse hitched near by and caught him by the tail. This frightened the animal and he kicked striking the little child one side of the head, knocking it senseless. It is developed that the child was not much hurt, the kick proving a glancing blow.—Junction City Times.

The following from the West nearly duplicates Goldsmith's deserted village: Four people were left in Florence on the 11th to watch each other: Mesdames Materson and Morgan, and Messrs. Kyle and Wilson. They celebrated by congregating and bemoaning their sad fate. But to do something patriotic, Mr. Kyle read the ten commandments which he mistook for the declaration of Independence and Mr. Wilson, in his dazed condition, played the Dead March in Saul on the cornet, thinking it was Hail Columbia.

The tramp who beats his way over the railroad ties on brakebeams is not so successful. If there is a collision, or the track is dished, the tramp is generally a victim. He either loses his life or else is badly injured. A few days ago a tramp who was doubtless stealing a ride was killed near Seapooose by a northern Pacific train. He was not only killed, but was literally cut to pieces and fragments of the body strewn along the track for a long distance. The coroner's jury held an inquest over as much of the remains as could be collected, but was unable to arrive at any very satisfactory conclusion. Nobody witnessed the shocking accident and nothing could be found by which it was possible to identify the person. No blame was attached to the railroad company, as the deceased was evidently a tramp. So the coroner buried the fragments at the expense of the county.

Statesman: John Downing, who claims to be a stone cutter by profession and who has been a resident of Portland of late, attempted to get off the 11:17 train yesterday morning at this city while it was in motion. He alighted quick enough but in such a manner as to nearly cost him his life. He boarded the blind baggage at Portland and upon his arrival at the depot platform in this city got down on the lower step. As the front end of the baggage car got opposite the electric car he jumped off and was thrown headlong onto the platform, knocking him senseless. He was carried into the gentlemen's waiting room and the company's physician was summoned but did not arrive until after Mr. Downing had recovered consciousness. His face on the right side was considerably bruised but otherwise he escaped injury.

Salem Statesman: Chief of Police H. P. Minto arrested Ed Cusick, a ticket seller for Sanger & Lent's circus, last Wednesday night. Cusick was charged with beating a party named Townsend out of $15. It seems that Townsend in buying a ticket gave the seller a $20 gold piece and in return received three $1 bills and the rest in silver. The discovery was made a short time after and the ticket seller was arrested and was brought up before Justice Edes. Cusick refunded the money claimed by Townsend and the case against him was dismissed upon his paying the costs.

The Salem Statesman says that at the Salem Building and Loan Association meeting $2000 was loaned at 12% monthly, $400 at seventy-six. The one at 2% monthly interest in advance was the high water mark for the Association since its organization four years ago the first of next November. There is some demand for a fifth series of stock, and this will probably be issued before long.

An Oregon City dispatch says: Township 10 south, range 5 east, in the Santiam district of Linn county, on the Oregon Pacific railroad, was opened yesterday for settlement. The office was besieged early this morning by nearly one hundred applicants. This township is reported to be very heavily timbered and of a soil which will prove very productive if cultivated.

Saturday night two hand cars of employes, of the Oregon Pacific, were running from Albany to Corvallis. On the way Thomas Smith, who was punping on the front of the first car, lost his balance and fell off under the wheels. Both cars ran over him and he was picked up dying. His body was taken to Corvallis, where it was embalmed, and will be sent to Iowa. The deceased was a young man who only recently came from the East, and had only been working for the O. P. a short time.—Democrat.

News was received at The Dalles Saturday from a settlement near that place, called Ten Mile, of the killing of a man named E. W. Wilhelm, by his 22-year son, William. Wilhelm was a man 55 years old, who has not been living with his family for some time. Yesterday he returned home and quarreled with his wife and reached for a gun to shoot her. The boy, seeing their lives in danger, struck his father on the head with a club, killing him instantly. He went to The Dalles Saturday morning and gave himself up to the sheriff, who, with the coroner, has repaired to the scene of the tragedy.
