Kelly, Dunne & Co's, prize prepared house paint for sale by N. W. Smit h.

The Astoria Budgett says what it thinks as follows: When a business man wants to retrench on account of the stringency of money, and general hard times, he begins by begins by stopping his advertisement in the local papers and virtually withdrawing his support from them. And yet the newspaperman is expected to keep up appearances make a lively and valuable paper, boom the town, invite capital, stimulate enterprise, and do a thousand other good and necessary things for the welfare of the community and at his own expense and on a thinner diet than a faith-cure fast.

Lightening played a peculiar freak last Sunday evening on the "old Brown place," near Milton says the Pendleton East-Oregonian. The telephone line passes through the premises and just as the header and threshing crews were coming to supper a bolt of lightning struck the telephone wire in front of the house and about a dozen men who happened to be near were knocked flat on the ground, and two horses standing in the barn were also thrown down. The lightning, when it struck the wire, appeared to disintegrate and fly all over the place. Strange to say, no one was seriously injured, although all complained of having a headache and several were left almost blind for a short time.

How is This?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers. It is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months—one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month, for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publisher can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors of the coming series are, Wilkie Colling, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. order, registered letter or express. Address
