We may expect a good immigration from the middle western states within the next year, or as soon as business revives again.

There are said to be nineteen nurseries at Woodburn. This has been a profitable business of late, and this is one reason why Woodburn is a prosperous little city.

Some people estimate their importance by the amount of noise and fuss they make. The same can be said by the donkey. There is generally a close alliance between these two characters.

Representative Herman retains his place on the committee of rivers and harbors, and Mr. Ellis has a place on the committee on public lands. Both are pleased with the appointments.

Hop growers are watching the markets very carefully. They should not allow themselves to be deceived by mirages of fabulous prices, but when they are sure of a good thing they should do the best they can and nail it.

Oregon farmers have this year been made to realize more keenly than ever before the importance of putting their crops in the fall of the year. Fall grain will average better than by considerable.

Congress will vote on the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, on the 28th inst. The debate until then will be impatiently endured by 60,000,000 people.

Every once and awhile you hear of a man who gives notice to certain classes of violators of the law that they must do thus and so "or the law will be enforced." The laws should be enforced, or they should not be enforced—one or the other. If the are "bad laws" repeal them. If they are good laws, obey them.

In the mountains near Astoria a few days ago a man was shot for a bear. This was a little better than being killed for a jaybird, but not much. There is a new law covering this point, and it should be enforced. Any man who will shoot another for anything from a bear to a chipmunk is unfit to be at large. The place for him is in the penitentiary or the asylum.—Statesman.

Mr. Thomas Bate, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller Druggist.

A prominent sheep raiser of this county was in The Dalles a few days ago endeavoring to place his crop of wool on the market, and being unable to find a wool buyer in the city amused and consoled himself by engaging a seedy tramp in conversation. The knight of the road, mistaking his interlocutor for one of his profession, became quite confidential, and unbosomed his whole life to his new-found acquaintance. He related how he had tramped for twenty years, always being to pick up enough clothing to protect his car-cas from the inclement elements and to beg, borrow or steal enough food on which to subsist, but the present was the hardest times he had ever seen during his long experience, and he could see nothing in the future for him but to go to work or starve. Of course the latter fate was most of his liking, and probably has been adopted. But our Crook county friend concluded that if times were so dull that a tramp of twenty years' experience couldn't make it, he had better move towards his flocks on the desert, and pulled out immediately for home.—Ochoeco Review.

Prof. Harry J. Gay, has done considerable work at this place, Sodaville and Waterloo this week. In his genial way he makes many friends where ever he goes. He will go from here to Independence.
