

We Need Our Money.

The editor of the EXPRESS wishes to impress the fact upon the minds of those who are behind on subscription and otherwise, that he needs every cent due him. We have borrowed money from year to year in order to continue our business, before we would insist upon it from those who owe us, but pay day is now near at hand, and we shall be compelled to either collect, or sacrifice what we have worked for these many years. The amounts due us are small, taking them severally, and you would not miss the money, but put these amounts together and they make several thousand dollars. Will or will not our friends help us out by paying up?

 William Lamberson, the youngest brother of Dr. J. A. Lamberson of this place, died at Spokane, Wash., Oct. 9, of typhoid fever, aged 21 years. William was a young man of promise, strong and healthy, but the ravages of the fever cut him down in the prime of life. This will be a severe blow to his aged parents, who live at Condon, Or., as they knew nothing of his illness until his death was announced to them by their son here. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved relatives, and especially to the aged parents.

 Two men went into Grant's Pass the other day with 50 ounces or $50 of gold dust which they pounded out in a hand mortar from quartz taken out of a new claim located by them in the Williams creek district. This came out of a twelve foot shaft on an extension of the bone of Contention ledge, and besides this they have three or four tons from the shaft that will mill $200 or $300 per ton.—Ashland Tidings.
 Senator Jeff Myers has bought of Mrs. L. M. Hutchinson 200 acres of land on Pudding river about one and a half miles easterly from Aurora and Hubbard. It is among the choicest of hop lands in the state. Half of the tract is now under cultivation and a large portion of the remainder will be cleared during the winter and put into hops. The design is to rent the land in small tracts. The price paid was $7,880.—Statesman.
 Tramps are becoming more numerous and lawless every day. It is now estimated that there are 500 scattered along the road from Roseburg to Sacramento, Calif. Friday night's freight brought in thirty-five in one car and they were tough ones. They came up on the overland from Portland to Albany Thursday night, and defied Conductor Houston and his brakemen with drawn revolvers. At Albany they were taken off with the assistance of the police, and the next day started south. Some of the gang entered Joe Micelli's house near the bridge Saturday, and were caught in the act of carrying off a sack of flour and other articles, and made to disgorge. They afterwards eluded the city marshal and escaped arrest.—Roseburg Review.
 Within the last two weeks hops have been running at the average price of 17 cts., and buyers have been buying largely, and all of the first or early orders have been filled. This forces buyers to be somewhat independent, and the most of those in the state have withdrawn their bids. A number of growers think the market will rule higher in the near future, but indications point toward a decline instead of a rise. As high as 18 cts. was offered this week by Lamberson & Wilkes for Geo. Pope & Co., but the trade was off on account of the pool not being full. Eighteen cents for hops is a good price, and we think that Lebanon people should have sold, as the Scio people tried this same plan last year and failed after holding their hops until July and then selling at 15 1/2 cts., thereby losing 4 1/2 cts. per lb.

"Out of Work" in 'Frisco.
 San Francisco Examiner.
 Twenty-two men lie in the cells at the city prison for the crime of being without homes or money, aggravated by being caught asleep in the box cars by the oil works at the proterero. There was no money among them. Their worldly goods consisted of seven knives and five razors.
 Nineteen of them say they have trades, and all of them assert that they have diligently searched for employment, but in vain.
 Their features, language, acquaintance with the country and general manners for the most part indicate that they are men of sturdy mold, accustomed largely to country life and rough work rather than to barroom loafing and the vices incident to being "toughs" in cities.
 They say they have passed many sleepless nights and hungry days in searching for employment.
 A man of good countenance who declined to give his name, said: "I am a miller from Maryland, and I left home many months ago in quest of work. I had about $50 with me when I left home, but that went long ago. I have hunted everywhere for work in my trade, but the mills are overcrowded and turning men away. The way I've lived has been to catch any odd job I could that came along, but here I find nothing."
 A steamship fireman said: "I came here on the Mincola some time ago, and have looked everywhere for any kind of work, but everything in labor is overdone. I went to sleep in a box car because I saw it empty and I knew of nowhere else to sleep. I can't see how I hurt the car or the people of this city. I am willing to do any honest work, but I have not found a job open. Many a day I missed a meal or two. If a man wants to know how long he can live without eating, let him strike the road for a job."
 The fireman said he had tried to find work in every state between Massachusetts and California, and had never been able to secure anything further than an occasional temporary job.
 The miner in cell No. 3 smoked his pipe contentedly, and said the jail was better than the street. "All I fear," he said, is that the jails here are not numerous enough for all, and they may turn us out in the rain to give others a turn."
 "I offered to work at anything I could get at twenty different places," said another, "but I failed. I agreed to work for $5 a month in many places, and I'd be glad to do it now, but I have found nothing at all to do. I can't hire a lawyer or give any bond, so I guess I'll have to remain in jail. This is the first time I was ever arrested in my life."
 As burglars are getting to be plentiful around us, it would be well for all of our citizens to keep their doors locked and a shot-gun handy.
 Now is the time to select your winter millinery. Call at the Ladies Bazaar in Albany, where you can have the choice of the largest new stock and best styles ever shown in the valley. Prices to suit the times.

 Andy Vall died last Friday evening at about 3 o'clock, from the gun wound he had received, of which we gave an account in our last issue. His remains were buried in the Masonic cemetery on Saturday, and were followed to their last resting place by a good many friends and relatives.
 The County Board of Equalization has assessed the Southern Pacific at $4000 per mile on the road and $557 on rolling stock, on the main line. The Oregonian and Lebanon branch were placed at $3000 on the road bed, and the Oregon Pacific will be about $4300 on the road bed and rolling stock, though the matter has not yet been settled on account of a statement of rolling stock not having been received.
 A Journal representative, who is also Colonel of Oregon Division Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., spent the day at Lebanon and addressed the associated patriotic orders in the evening. Lebanon has the reputation of being the liveliest little town in the valley, and what we saw Saturday confirmed that opinion not a little. It was crowded with people from the farming region of the rich prairie about the forks of the Santiam, and the writer has promised to visit that city soon again and write up its industries.—Salem Journal.

A Beautiful Monument.
 E. W. Achison, of the firm of E. W. Achison & Co., of Albany, came over from that city Wednesday. He brought over and set up at the graves of H. O. and Ellen V. Serling, in the Franklin Butte cemetery, an elegant monument carved from Southernland Falls, Mourning Vein marble. The workmanship is most excellent, and is complimentary to the mechanical skill of this well known and reliable house. They have a large stock on hand, and are bound to sell it out at prices that will suit the times. They want the money invested in the stock and will give you the benefit of their profits. If you want to profit from their low prices, buy now.—Sci Press.

 H. J. BOYD, The Photographer.
 "During my term of service in the army I contracted chronic diarrhoea," says A. E. Bending, of Halsey, Oregon. Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow. For sale by M. A. Miller, Druggist.
 This city got rid of about twenty tramps Monday afternoon. When the south bound freight train came in they were around the depot and showed a determination to go out on that train if it took trouble to get out. Officers Eastland and Matthews were there and induced the conductor to take on an empty box car and haul them away. He concluded that would be the best way, and did so. Tramps then commenced to rain in from all sides, and soon a pretty fair car load was stowed away.—Eugene Register.
 Monday was Chicago day at the fair, but the tens of thousands who visited the northwest curtain in the horticultural hall thought it was Oregon day. Oregon was doing herself proud. And it all happened this way. Several weeks ago Arkansas raised her banner with an apple 14 1/2 inches in circumference. Then British Columbia saw Arkansas and went to 15 1/2. Later little Idaho came in with an apple, a perfect beauty, measuring 15 1/2. This made Oregon's smile grow dim, until she received four apples any, one of which exceeded 16 inches and one which measured nearly 18 inches. Oregon said nothing but sawed wood. Her superintendents had a fine rooster made (life size) and mounted him on a silver plate which stood on a pedestal of apples, the smallest of which was 13 inches. Suspended from the rooster's bill was the 18 inch Gloria Mundi. In black and white gilt letters the crowd read: "Come down, Arkansas! Come down, British Columbia! Come down, World! Oregon's rooster is up to stay. We show the biggest apples and fruit of all kinds."
 Tuesday evening the A. O. U. W. of this place gave a public lecture at Union Hall. The house was called to order by Dr. Courtney, and after a song had been rendered, he gave a short address at the close of which he introduced Mr. Frank Davey, Grand Organizer of this jurisdiction, who gave a good lecture on the benefits, advantages and working of the order. Dr. Mackey, of Albany, Grand Master Workman, was then introduced, and gave an address full of good thoughts on the order. The meeting then closed after a song. The audience then marched to the A. O. U. W. hall, where were found two long tables, fairly groaning beneath their burden of good things which had been prepared for the occasion by the wives of the Workmen. The guests were then invited to be seated and help themselves, which they did to their entire satisfaction. The evening was passed very pleasantly as well as profitably. The United Workmen is a fine order, and the lodge at this place is in fine condition.
