H. Y. KIRKPATRICK.
Editor - and - Proprietor.

The times are certainly growing good again. Eighteen notaries public turned out in one day at the capitol.

Dallas, the county-seat of Polk county, has voted to issue bonds to the amount of $14,000 and construct a system of water-works.

And now the Union Pacific has passed into the hands of receivers, but this will effect no change in the operation of the road.

Attorney-General Geo. E. Chamberlain is spoken of as a nominee for governor, on the democratic ticket, in the next election.

The special session of Congress, which met nearly three months ago, to give relief to the mass of people, have as yet done nothing but talk, and added much to their own purses.

A woman says that a man can be a senior wrangler and acquire fame as an authority on the most abstruse subjects, but he cannot answer the questions of a 3-year-old child without revealing his ignorance.

We are in receipt of the speech of Senator Mitchell in memory of Leland Stanford, in pamphlet form, from the government printing office. It is an able speech, and the late Senator Stanford was worthy of it.

Never let up in advertising, is the secret of success. Advertising that does let up never pays. To stop and see how it works is like throwing a double eagle in the water to see if it will float; you solve the problem but you lose your gold.

The tramp fraternity is hoping the alleged hard times will continue indefinitely. It gives the genus hobo a splendid excuse for his laziness. He can pose in the role of a laboring man unable to secure work, on account of the stringency in the financial situation. This is the tramp's golden opportunity.

The editor of the Chehalis Valley Times disagreed with a neighbor about a sunflower and whipped the fellow. Being short of funds, the newspaper man will edit his paper from the county jail for twenty days. The justice who pronounced the sentence will hear from his nibs in a future issue. He is promised a royal roast.—Ex.

The editor of a paper in Alaska, which was published once a year, was killed by the natives, for opposing the sale of liquor. The natives there must be fast becoming civilized, as they emulate the example set by some of the worthy(?) citizens in different parts of the United States.—Or is it possible that the said worthy citizens are no better than savages?

Protective tariff, carefully built up by the only representatives of the people during the past twenty years, is to be hastily, recklessly and wantonly destroyed by a body of men who, be they better or worse, came into power by accident. Is free trade tolerable? If it is, why have we always suffered when it was in force? Free trade does not reflect the sentiments of the people in an informal way. There is no part of the United States that will tolerate this free trade caprice of the aristocratic antiquarian congress, and it is a proposition too monstrous to be seriously put forward by sane men.—The West.

The editor of the West must have coined a definition of his own for the word "accident." We can see very little of an accident in such a walk-over as the democrats had. He also says, "Free trade does not reflect the sentiments of the people in an informal way." When such a large majority voted for the party who intended to abolish the high tariff, doesn't it look as if the vote showed the sentiment of the voters? Use a little more logic, Brother West, and your opinions will be more apt to be believed correct, than the above editorial of yours can possibly be.

People who must travel over the roads about here now appreciate all the gravel hauled on them the past season, and the fact is there is room for a vast amount more.

The red letter day of the Philadelphia Centennial saw an attendance of 217,526; of the Paris Exposition 397,150—but Chicago day at the World's fair witnessed a crowd of over 750,000. Think of it!

The McCreary bill, to extend the provisions of the Geary act, passed the House Monday. This bill gives the Chinamen six months in which to register, and also provides that they shall be photographed and defines Chinese merchants.

The Record's Washington special says: "Carlisle informed Brice that the president had put his foot down, and will send in no more appointments, except possibly in a few cases of extreme urgency, till after the senate acts on the silver bill."

Our Waterloo News.

Sunshine, rain, clouds and fog, strive in vain for the supremacy now-a-days.

The city fathers are now engaged in improving the streets and clearing up the rubbish about the city.

Frank Jennings is having a neat residence built, which will be ready for occupancy before many weeks.

The oldest inhabitant never saw such weather in October. Evidently something has gone wrong somewhere.

Rev. Kelley, of the M. E. Church, preached here on Sunday evening last. He is a young man, but an earnest and interesting speaker.

Messrs. Orcut and Bailey leave this week for Grants Pass, to spend the winter. They may engage in mining in Josephine county.

Mr. A. Gross, of Brownsville, has been spending several days in our town, the guest of his brother, Mr. George Gross, our genial postmaster.

There was a small fire in town Sunday morning, which burned a small hole in the roof of the barber shop. It was extinguished with very little damage.

There is still a good deal of talk about a flouring mill at this place, but as yet there does not seem to be any likelihood of one being built this winter.

Mr. Stiers has his new shop up, and will have it ready to occupy in a short time. It is a two-story building, and the upper rooms will be used by Mr. Stiers as a dwelling.

For all the dull times and scarcity of money there certainly are not many places in old Linn where the people have more fun all the time, or find more knotty legal questions to argue and settle, than at Waterloo.

A citizens' meeting was held here on Saturday evening, to consider some way in which it was hoped the people could have profitable employment furnished them through the winter, and a petition has been forwarded to the W. D. Co.

Most of the hunters from this place have returned from the mountains. They do not report any extra amount of sport, and we have not seen much venison, but then it is not the kind of meat for poor people to have an over supply of, anyhow.

A meeting of the citizens of this place was held on Monday evening to consider the available chances of incorporating a stock company for the purpose of handling water power in various ways; also to handle electric light and power, build and operate mills, ditches, railroads, and supply various other wants of the human family. Quite an amount of the $100,000 capital stock has already been subscribed, and the man or company who desire to obtain a controlling interest will have to get their names on the books without delay.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." J. J. LaGrange, druggist, Avoca, Neb. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller, Druggist.
