Dr. Sponogle Again at Liberty.

A telegram from Fresno, Cal., to which place Dr. Sponogle, the Brownsville ravisher, had fled, contains a story of how the stupid authorities of Fresno allowed the wily doctor to escape after the sheriff of Linn county was on the way after him with a requisition from the governor for his arrest. The dispatch says: Dr. J. D. Sponogle, of Brownsville, Oregon, was arrested on a telegram received from Sheriff Jackson, of Linn county, Oregon, charging the doctor with rape. Sponogle has been here about a week, and says it was his intention to locate here, having sent his effects to Fresno in advance. The prisoner appeared before Judge Holmes this afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus. It was asked that defendant be discharged on the grounds of illegal arrest, as no officer has a right to arrest a man from another state merely on a telegram from an officer in that state. The judge dismissed the prisoner, and he walked out of court a free man. The sheriff arrived from Oregon this evening, but so far all search for Sponogle has been fruitless. He is accused of committing criminal violence upon Mrs. Wyatt, of Brownsville. She was his patient, and he committed the crime while visiting her professionally. Sponogle left town immediately thereafter. Sponogle's story is that the charge is a scheme of Mrs. Wyatt's husband, to whom he owes $190 and who wants to get him back to Oregon on that account.

Executrix Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern that I have been duly appointed Executrix of the last will of T. E. Streithoff, late of Linn County, Oregon, deceased, by the Hon. County Court of said county, and that I have filed my bonds as such executrix, and that the same have been duly approved by said court; therefore all persons having claims against the estate of said decedent are hereby notified and required to present the same to me with the proper vouchers at my residence in the city of Seio, Oregon, within six months from the date hereof. SARAH JANE ABBOTT, Executrix.

Dated this 13th day of October, 1893.

THEY FEAR ANARCHISTS.

New Yorkers Who Hire Watchmen to Protect Their Lives and Millions.

There are now four times as many watchmen and detectives along Fifth avenue in the vicinity of the residences of the money kings as there were a few months ago and before the anarchistic element became noisy. So said one of the watchmen I found guarding the new million dollar palace of Cornelius Vanderbilt. He told me that the owners of palaces along Fifth avenue have not been taking any chances in letting anarchists place bombs under their front stoops. He estimated that at least 500 new watchmen have secured employment since the anarchists began their recent noisy meetings on the east side. It was his fond hope that the reds would continue their harangue, as it gave employment to a good many "daycent fellows who needed a job powerfully bad."

"Since this recent anarchistic talk and racket on the east side we have done a land office business," said the manager of a detective bureau. "We have supplied over 100 men to wealthy but timid New Yorkers within the past few months. One of the odd things about the rich men of Gotham is that they pretend to never fear trouble from the poor classes. I know one of the wealthiest men in the city whom I have provided with watchmen and special detectives for different purposes."

"The day after the arrest of this Emma Goldman, the anarchist, he called at the office and employed five men to guard his million dollar home up in Fifth avenue. I asked him if he feared the anarchists."

"Oh, no, not at all," said he. "I am afraid of burglars, and I have recently imported a lot of valuable plate."

"Well, after I furnished him the men one of them came to me and said he called up the entire force of watchmen and said he had reason to believe that the anarchists intended blowing up a number of mansions along Fifth avenue, and that his residence was among the number. He ordered the men to not wait to arrest any one whom they thought a suspicious character, but to shoot them down and he would stand the consequences, besides rewarding the watchman."

"He was so nervous about anarchists that he used to get up in the middle of the night and saunter out himself to see whether the men were all on post or not. Yes, he belongs to one of the families of the largest millionaires in New York, but I am not at liberty to divulge his name. I merely mention him to show you how nervous our millionaires get when there is talk of mob violence or a bomb plot."

"I have no doubt but that they have some very good reasons for anticipating trouble at the present time from the anarchistic element in the city. There is generally some crank willing to be made a martyr for any cause. I have no hesitancy in saying that I believe some one of these anarchists who have been made so much of in the newspapers will use the deadly bomb on some capitalist's home in the near future. He will expect and be prepared for arrest, and death itself will have no terror for the crank if his fellows will only proclaim him a martyr for the cause."—New York Herald.

Lynchers and Lynching.

The report of the killing of many lynchings by the military force called out in Virginia shows that there is one region in the south alive to the importance of this, and with the resolution to teach the bloody lesson that we fear alone can be effective. Unfortunately, however, even in this case the display of resolution was only transitory, and the lynchings claimed their victim within 24 hours. But while all this is said it would be wrong to omit a word as to the imbruted character of the portion of the population of the south with whom these lynchings undertake to deal. Nothing can excuse their act, and it is a fearful mistake in every point of view. But the disregard of life on the part of many of the colored men of the south and the savage passion they evince in other respects are social evils that call also for serious attention. In addition to the crimes against women there, it is a terrible fact that there are negroes who murder constantly for money, even in small sums, and appear entirely destitute of moral sense. One has to be in the south to know the extent to which this prevails; few at the north realize it. There is a call for missionary work among this class that is louder than that which comes from any other heathen on the globe, and the more intelligent colored people themselves may well turn their attention to it.—Boston Herald.

Dublin's Mayor and City Politics.

The lord mayor is fine looking, about 50 years old, rather stout, has curly hair just turning gray, mutton chop whiskers and mustache, a ruddy face, and wore a dark suit. He is here as the guest of Chicago and the fair commissioners. Said he: "I have visited your city two or three times heretofore and admire it greatly. I had hoped to call upon your mayor today, but we got in too late. No, I have never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Gilroy, though he came from County Donegal, so I am informed, while I was born in an adjacent county. I presume politics do not figure to any great extent in your municipal government" queried the lord mayor innocently.—New York Times.

VICTIMS OF COCAINE.

Bound More Securely Than by Morphine or Alcohol.

"Is the cocaine habit growing?"
 "I should say it was. Why, about six years ago cocaine was 85 cents a grain. There was none of this widespread habit then. It has all grown up in recent years. Now the drug can be purchased at retail at 8 cents a grain, and three or four drug stores in this city sell it to its victims in quantities to suit. Most of the reputable drug stores will not do this, notwithstanding the fact that the trade is very profitable. They don't care to have such a class of customers about them. But the habit grows and grows and grows."

"Is it very degrading?"
 "Dreadfully so. Now, here is a hypodermic syringe I recently took from a West Point graduate, the son of an old general of the army. When he was brought here, I added it to the collection there in the case. Look at that syringe! The point of the needle has been broken and filed down, because the victim couldn't get money enough to buy a new one. Why, it's enough to poison a man's entire system to inject that dirt into his blood. But this West Pointer told me the last time he used the syringe he took a penknife and gashed his arm and then stuck the syringe into the wound. That's the condition they get into."

"What is the effect of cocaine?"
 "It has a local effect of numbing or paralyzing the tissues immediately around the place where the injection is made, so you can cut those tissues without the patient's experiencing the slightest pain. So it is used in small surgical operations. But in addition to the local effect it has a general effect of exhilaration. People under its influence can do a great deal of work and go without sleep. But the effect wears off in about a quarter of an hour, requiring additional injections to maintain it. Morphine, on the other hand, has an effect lasting from six to eight hours."—Interview With a Physician in San Francisco Examiner.

GIGANTIC COMPLICATIONS.

The Lombard Investment Company's Troubles Only Just Begun.

Now that the Lombard Investment company has passed into the hands of receivers, its methods and the way in which it was excluded from doing business in Massachusetts will be interesting to many people who have had dealings with the former concern. Besides investors in New England many mortgages also were taken in England and Holland, and the counsel general of Holland in New York has been in repeated communication with Mr. J. Russell Reed, the state commissioner of foreign mortgage corporations (foreign meaning merely outside of Massachusetts) regarding the interests of Dutch mortgage holders in this much advertised company.

All summer there has been an effort to find trustworthy men among those interested who would take hold of the corporation and make the best of its assets for the benefit of the holders of the mortgages. About $22,000,000 in guaranteed mortgages are now in the hands of purchasers from the company on which the company had a contingent liability. It is the belief of Mr. Reed that up to the day the company was put into the hands of receivers it might have been continued if the right men could have been found to go into it.

Mr. M. B. Whitney of Westfield, who has held the presidency of the company since the forced retirement of the Lombards, regarded himself as an ad interim incumbent, put there because he was acceptable to both sides, and he did not wish to hold the place permanently. But as the necessary men were not forthcoming the receivership was brought about, and now it is likely that the business of closing up these complicated relations, where so many persons and subordinate companies are concerned, will not be ended for several years.—Boston Transcript.

Dullness in the Theatrical Business.

In theatrical affairs at present the extremes of adversity do not meet; but, on the contrary, they lie a whole continent apart. California and the New England states are the hoodoo vicinities this year. In the small towns of New England the situation is deplorable. Thirty dollars were the gross receipts which several good combinations have earned in towns of from 15,000 to 25,000 inhabitants. In fact, many of the local managers are canceling their dates in sheer despair. After all, it is the local manager who is the biggest loser in a frost of this sort. The manager of the combination usually gets as his share 85 per cent of the gross receipts. Out of the remainder the proprietor of the theater has to pay the expenses for light, fuel, ushers, etc. The theatrical manager cuts down the salaries of his company, but the lessee of the theater can't adopt such methods with his coal and gas bill.

What Chauncey M. Depew Reads.

The sum of the whole matter is that the railroad man as a rule takes all the newspapers, reads about everything there is in each of them, acquires a faculty for doing it very rapidly, and then peruses the leading editorial in the paper of opposite political faith to tone him up and the one in the journal of his own faith to tone him down. No practical journalist knows more of what is in a newspaper than a practical railroad man.—New York World.

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the causes of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. "Skookum" contains neither minerals nor oils. It is not a dye, but a delightfully cooling and refreshing tonic. By stimulating the follicles, it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum Hair Soap. It destroys parasitic insects, which feed on and destroy the hair.

If your druggist cannot supply you send direct to us, and we will forward prepaid, on receipt of price. Grower, $1.00 per bottle; 6 for $5.00. Soap, 50c per jar; 6 for $2.00.
