Frank Gay, of Idaho, commonly known as "Death on the Trail," has been in the mountains above Crawfordville for a few weeks engaged in his favorite sport—shooting the festive deer. He returned to this place yesterday morning after having succeeded in killing 40 deer and one bear. Most of the meat he secures is dried and made ready for the market. In Idaho he held the championship for hunting and he seems to be making a good start in this neck of the woods.—Brownsville Times.

Are your children subject to croup? If so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this Remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller, druggist.

As the Roseburg local train, going south on Monday neared the Harrisburg bridge, an iron rail was discovered across the track. The rail had been taken from a pile alongside the track. The train was stopped before the point was reached. Sheriff Jackson arrested two men at Harrisburg, who are charged with having committed the crime. The evidence is said to be strong against them, but it is all circumstantial. They were brought to this city on the freight train last night and lodged in jail. They are middle-aged men, and belong to the army of brack-bean "tourists" who are wending their way southward.—Herald.

Council Proceedings.

Council met Tuesday evening, in regular session. All members were present except Councilman Dalgleish. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Ordinance Bill No. 32, amending Ordinance No. 11, changing the number of councilmen from four to six, was read and passed.

A communication from Sodaville, offering $2 each for twelve of the old street lamps, was read, and the Recorder was requested to notify them that $3 was the lowest price that would be accepted, as they cost $6 originally.

The Recorder was ordered to post up notices for the coming city election. The following were appointed: Judges, A. C. Harden, R. C. Miller, J. Wasson; Clerks, W. C. Peterson and C. G. Rawlings.

The Marshal was ordered to request the Electric Light Co. to turn on the street lights earlier.

Councilman Kellenberger was appointed a special committee to raise the light in front of Jos. Elkins' residence.

One small bill was allowed, and the Council then adjourned.

Our Waterloo News.

City election times are approaching, and there is a good deal of excitement among the people and would-be candidates.

A mass-meeting was held at Brown's Hall on Monday night, at which two tickets were placed in nomination. The affair was managed in such a way as to be very quiet and was a surprise to some, at least, of those present.

There are several cases of sickness in town at this writing. Mr. Oakley has nearly recovered. Mr. Fairbanks is still very weak; Miss Gross is recovering; Mr. Geo. Rice is confined to his bed, and Recorder Rice is a victim of a good-sized case of mumps. All others who have been sick have recovered.

Our school is stopped for a short time, owing to some complications regarding the hiring of a teacher, but will be running again in a short time.

This young people gave a very pleasant surprise party to Miss Lillie Shepard on Tuesday evening, in honor of her seventeenth birthday. The fun was kept up for several hours, and was highly enjoyed by all present.

The stockholders of the Ditch and Power Company held a meeting last Saturday evening, and organized by electing a board of directors. They will take steps to have the survey made at once, and will commence preparations for active work at an early date.

EVERED ALT.

Messrs. E. E. Hammack and E. Keebler are in Portland this week, having been subpoenaed as U. S. jurors.

Atty. J. M. Somers left Monday for Grant's Pass. He has been employed to assist in prosecuting Thos. Black for the murder of J. D. Rice, and goes down to work on the case.

Atty. Somers and W. C. Peterson will occupy an office together. S. P. Bach will build a new office for them, between Dr. Lamberson's office and Mrs. Rice's building.

The reading circle met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Miller, last Friday evening, in honor of the eighteenth anniversary of their marriage. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

It is said that an interesting time is looked for Saturday night, at the Populist meeting, at which there will be a debate. C. B. Montague, F. M. Miller and S. M. Garland are said to be the principal speakers.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by M. A. Miller, druggist.

THE BEST PLASTER.—Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades, will often prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying a flannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. A. Miller, druggist.

If you want to get nice fresh bread go to Peebler's.

A great reduction in prices of goods at Read, Peacock & Co.'s.

M. A. Miller now has a complete line of drugs and stationery.

Cash paid for produce at Peebler's grocery store; highest market price.

Letter From C. C. Hackleman.

(From Albany Herald.)

Mr. C. C. Hackleman, who recently removed from Lebanon to Los Angeles, California, has written a private letter to Mr. T. L. Wallace in this city, from which the Herald is permitted to make some extracts. Mr. Hackleman writes under date of Nov. 16, and his respective advantages after trying both states are too good to remain unpublished. He says:

So far as health, business, and climate is concerned Oregon has many advantages over California. (Candidly Los Angeles is not a healthy place. I am firmly of this conclusion, and am perfectly safe in saying so, as this city has malaria and poor drainage. It is very true that during the day, even at this time—the middle of November—the days are fully as bright and warm as our June days, and of course is very pleasant over head, bright, warm and pretty, but by sundown you are living in another climate altogether. It turns cold, and you are compelled to wear an overcoat, and then the cold; thick fogs roll in from the ocean, and you are almost sure to take cold. The gripe is going the rounds here now, and nearly every one has had it, including myself, with which I was confined to my bed three weeks. How is that, to be sick so long among strangers in this grand, glorious climate of southern California.)

When you hear of Southern California you only hear the bright side; and many add Californians know all about the art of lying; keep that in view if you ever come to California. When speaking of Oregon, why, they will laugh at the very idea of mentioning Oregon the same day with California. Let me say to you right here, don't for one minute lose sight of the fact that Oregon is a grand, good old state. Now I am not homesick when I say this.

Well, now about cities and business. You may think it dull in Oregon and Portland, and no doubt it is, but so far as business is concerned, Portland is far ahead of Los Angeles as the big apples of Oregon are ahead of what they call apples here, except we may say in a retail way; here they do a good business, and so far as getting a place on a salary with a retail house here, you have a young array of hundreds of fellows that come out here from the East for their health, to compete with. So a man with a family has no chance as here people are willing to work for almost anything just to stay here, to avoid the cold winter of the East. Speaking about this being a land of fruit, sure it is, but I tell you that Oregon can beat it to death on everything except grapes and oranges. Portland to-day is the best city on this coast. I frequently run across Oregonians down here, and nearly all of them are disgusted. If it was not for the Eastern money that comes in here during the winter, times would be pretty dull. They figure on the eastern tenderfoot here just as we figure on a good wheat crop in Oregon, and without it hotels, restaurants, dry goods stores, etc., would do a poor business. There are many people with means that just live here during the winter, and you can see them every day riding around with their darkey drivers.

There are absolutely no manufacturing here. Still it seems to be a prosperous city, and you may say country, and as I have said they make lots of money on fruit that is not as good as in Oregon, but when you talk of buying land it is away up in G., and no one can buy it but the rich, and even then your expenses are enormous, with water hire, etc. Their great cock and bull story is, the land of perpetual summer, the land of good health, etc. Some people may think so, but I contend to-day that Oregon is a healthier state taking everything into consideration. You see healthier people in Oregon than you see here, every day. The average Californian has liver complaint or whisky complaint. I am trying to give you just what an Oregonian honestly thinks of Southern California.

I cannot complete this letter without speaking of the women. You are struck with the idea in walking the streets of Los Angeles that nearly every woman you meet is a beauty, which so far as dress and make-up is concerned is a fact, but as to real beauty the California girls do look pretty, but it is all make-up, and they don't compare with our rosy checked Oregon girls.

Perhaps what I have written will give you some idea of what I think of Southern California. There is money here, to be sure, but how a poor cuss is going to get hold of it, is the next question. The worst fault I have with the whole business is the changeable climate, as you have winter and summer here every day. Blooming flowers are all nice enough but you get tired of them, and they don't make business. You can't live on climate. Don't be in a hurry to rush off down here. I am compelled to say, give me the climate of Oregon in the place of this much-boasted land of milk and honey.

WORLD'S FAIR JURY

Grants Highest Award to Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—On the analysis and recommendation of Dr. Wiley, Chief United States Government Chemist at Washington, and greatest living authority on food products, the World's Fair jury to-day gave the highest award to Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder for strength, purity and excellence. This conclusively settles the question of superiority. Dr. Wiley rejected the alum powders, stating to the World's Fair jury that he considered them unwholesome.

Elder Wayback's Reply.

"I am for peace; but when I speak they are for war." The Salvationist must have had an encounter with a salvationist, when he gave expression to the above sentiment.

Like him I am for peace, but "Salvationist" clearly is not; hence he girds on his armor of self-righteousness and proceeds to heat the dictionary at my unoffending head. The tone of his communication was so Christ-like, so filled "with blessings for them that despitefully use you," that I knew at once he was a Christian (?). Verily, he must be a sanctified Christian, who can consign his fellow man "to the devil and be damned." No, Salvationist, I won't go to the devil and be damned at your request. I never did like evil associations; so I don't want your company.

You accuse me of duplicity, and say I was not interested in the sermon. Certainly not! I did not hear a sermon; but what I did hear was this, a bombastic, ruminant, concerning the wonderful things of a salesman for a "Brisco" wholesale grocery firm. This and reminiscences of the slums of our large cities constituted the chief topics of the discourse. We may be old-fashioned down at Camas Flat, very likely we are; but then you know we are not accustomed to seeing the airs of the mountebank and fakir exhibited in the pulpit. Paul says: "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers." If this be so, no man has a right to parade in chronological order the misdeeds of his past life, even though it be for the conversion of sinners; nor has the right to insinuate in any manner of the sin and shame of the dens of iniquity of our large cities. There is always against the circulation of indecent literature, and there should be one against the oral dissemination of profane thoughts; whether it be from the platform or the pulpit. There is entirely too much washing of "dirty linen" in public, to suit old-fashioned ideas; and I was glad to hear one minister testify, that all his life he had been a decent man.

It is not my intention to attack any one; we have too many sensational newspapers, and I am sorry to say so, too many sensational ministers. Give us more preachers of the Pauline spirit, more of truth and righteousness, and we will have less infidelity in the world.

Now, Salvationist, a word to you. You should emulate the example of your "recent convert" and refrain from the use of blasphemous language. It is not consistent with your Christian character to consign me to the "demolition how-rows." No doubt you think you have slaughtered me in your reply. Well, maybe you have. If so, I have only one regret. I don't like being slaughtered with the same kind of a weapon that Samson slew the Philistines with. So in the words of the bard of Avon, "Lay on, MacDuff, and damned be he who first cries, 'hold, enough!'"

Compliments of ELDER WAYBACK.

The Mercury is Probably Doomed.

PORTLAND, Nov. 18.—B. P. Watson and O. P. Mason, publishers of the Sunday Mercury, were arrested tonight on a charge of selling obscene matter to minors. The police confiscated all the copies of the papers in the hands of the newsboys, together with the forms of the paper. Watson and Mason are already under conviction of criminal libel and are under bonds pending a decision of their appeal to the supreme court.

Work on The Side.

Having an extremely findustrious disposition, and desirous of being kept busy all the time, I will use my spare moments from the watch bench in repairing sewing machines, and I assure you I can repair any make of machine as well as can be done anywhere in the state, and at reasonable prices. I am an expert operator and can tell when a machine is in good order.
