CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.—DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICITY AND PROMOTION.

[Weekly Circular Letter—No. 8.]

The semi-official opening of the California Midwinter International Exposition took place on the 1st of January, according to the original announcement. Owing to the delay caused in shipping foreign exhibits from Chicago, it was understood, of course, that everything would not be in readiness on that date, but the buildings were completed, a great many of the concessional features were in full operation, and the Exposition was practically started on the road to success.

The day could not have been more beautiful if it had been made to order. Eastern people visiting California for the first time went into ecstasies over a New Year's Day so much like the grandest April day in other parts of the world. There were flowers blooming on every hand, and the deep green foliage formed a striking background for the gala day costumes of the thousands of ladies who thronged Golden Gate Park until the sun went down. Early on this beautiful midwinter morning flags were hoisted on each and every flagstaff on the buildings and in and about the Exposition grounds; there were concerts during the day by the great Midwinter Fair band, and thousands of people availed themselves of the opportunity to view the buildings and to witness the special attractions which were offered.

Among the concessions which opened up on New Year's Day were the Santa Barbara sea lion exhibit, Boone's wild animal arena, the Ostrich farm, Heidelberg castle, the Vienna Prater, the Colorado gold mine, the Japanese Garden, the Scenic Railway, and a great many others. The Santa Barbara sea lions will evidently prove to be one of the great drawing cards of the Exposition. This is one of the entirely new features—one that was not seen at Chicago. Those who witnessed the performance in the wild animal arena, and who had seen the similar performance on the Midway Plaisance in Chicago, say that Boone's show rivals Hagenbeck's in every particular, and surpasses it in many. The scenic railway did a remarkable business; the crowds in fact being greater than could be easily accommodated. The Ostrich farm was also well patronized, while Heidelberg and Vienna were full of visitors all day long. These concessional features, as well as others not specified in this connection, are very well satisfied with their start, and feel confident that when the Exposition gets in running order, their dearest hopes in the line of money making will be realized.

Notwithstanding the fact that there were no special attractions of a general nature provided for this semi-official opening day, there were about 10,000 people who paid for admission to the grounds. The price of admission is only 25 cents as yet, the 50 cent rate will not be established until the official ceremonial opening. The date when the opening ceremonies will take place has not yet been definitely fixed. It will probably be about the 15th or 20th of this month. It will depend largely upon the rapidity with which exhibits arrive and are installed. All the buildings are ready, and a great many exhibits are now being arranged, but it will be fully the middle of the month before everything will be in readiness.

When the grand day of ceremonial opening comes, there will be an elaborate program of exercises, in which all the state, municipal and federal officials of the Pacific Coast will participate. The merchants and residents of San Francisco are making extensive preparations to decorate their stores and residences and the Exposition will have the grandest "send off" ever accorded to any enterprise in this part of the world.

There have been received by the chief of the Department of Publicity and Promotion a great many queries in regard to editorial courtesies which are to be extended during the Exposition. Some of the queries seem to fancy that the Exposition will, in some way, arrange for railway transportation for visiting editors. This, however, is not the case. The Exposition management has nothing to do with transportation, but every editorial visitor to San Francisco, upon presentation of credentials to the Department of Publicity and Promotion, will be provided with a pass to the Exposition during the term of his stay in San Francisco. Visiting editors may rest assured, therefore, that they will be taken care of in this regard, and that any other courtesies which it is possible for the Exposition management to extend will be gladly accorded. The 15th of June, is the day apart as "Hawaiian day" will be taken advantage of for the making of a special effort in the way of a general entertainment in which the Hawaiian concessionaires will play the part of hosts. A part of the program will consist of a parade by the entire foreign contingent, headed by the Hawaiian national band of forty pieces, which was formerly the Royal band of Honolulu. Among other features of the day will be a horse race with female riders, sitting astride, as is the native custom. There will also be native field sports, including fencing, spear throwing and hoola dancing. On Waikiki lagoon, within the Hawaiian village enclosure, there will be a comprehensive exhibition of aquatic sports. The event of the day, however, will be a luau, or native feast, to which the officials of the fair, the municipal officers, the press, and others will be invited. Guests will sit on mats and eat from a table a foot and a half from the ground. Roast pig and baked dog, cooked in ti leaves, broiled devil fish, and a large number of other Indian fish also cooked in leaves, native fruits and, of course, "poi" with every course, will be some of the items of the menu. It will require about a week of preparation to properly get up a luau, and cooks and provisioners are to be specially imported from the Hawaiian Islands for this event.

A Mighty Impulse.

He—I should think it would be very hard work to write a modern society novel.

She—What can there be so hard about it?

He—To restrain the impulse to kill off all the leading characters.—New York Herald.

Works Both Ways.

Goodman—Do you ever think of the good old saying that it's more blessed to give than to receive?

Pugsley—Yes; when I've got the boxing gloves on I do.—Vogue.

Scholl's Ferry.

Holidays over. Roads muddy. Messrs. LaRue and Frank were in Portland Tuesday.

Considerable sickness in and about town. The roads between this place and Portland are almost impassable.

Our town will be well represented at the Midwinter fair next month. W. J. Grimes left Wednesday for Lebanon, where he intends to spend the remainder of the winter. Miss York, of Reidville, will fill the vacancy during his absence.

A Christmas tree at Unity chapel, where everybody was remembered with dolls and candy, a dance at the club hall the 29th, a watch party at the residence of Mr. Flint and a party at the residence of L. E. LaRue, were the order of the holidays.

Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Lebanon and vicinity is called to meet on Saturday, Jan. 13th, at 8 o'clock P. M., in the Montague building, for the purpose of taking an expression of the people as to the truth or falsehood of the statements made by Governor Penoyer to President Cleveland concerning the condition of the country.

All citizens are earnestly requested to be present, especially laboring men. Speeches will be made by C. B. Montague and others on the condition of the country and its remedy.

MANY CITIZENS.

Notice.

I will commence a revival meeting at Rock Hill schoolhouse on Tuesday, Jan. 22, (following the third Sunday) at the hour of 8:30 P. M. All are kindly invited to attend.

C. N. PLOWMAN, Pastor. Hodaville, Ore., Jan. 8, 1894.

To Whom It May Concern.

Persons who subscribed to the M. E. parsonage are respectfully asked to call at Baker's store at their earliest convenience and settle the same, as it is now past due and we wish to settle the business up. Those that are living at a distance will please send their subscriptions by mail.

TRUSTEES.

A Card of Thanks.

To those who kindly assisted during the long and painful illness of the husband and father, both by words of loving sympathy and deeds of generous charity, we tender our sincere thanks, and especially to those who, at the last, did so much to add to his comfort. And when the hour of sorrow and affliction comes to them, may they meet with the same kindness and aid.

ANNIE WEST.
