A COMMUNICATION.
 MEDFORD, Or., April 25, 1894.
 TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXPRESS:
 Thinking that a few, at least, of the many readers of the EXPRESS will take interest in any information concerning this town, I take this opportunity to write a few items.

Of course, times are dull here as everywhere else, but strangers are coming in every day—some locating permanently while others only stay a day or two. Present indications are that this town will have quite a little boom this summer, but whether or not it will be a "healthy growth" remains to be seen.

The citizens here evidently "love darkness rather than light," as the street is not lighted. Of course, this seems quite a drawback to a stranger, but then it is a comfort to reflect that no "Electric Light & Water Co." has a "dead mortal clench" on the town.

The people here do not lack for amusement. For instance, the Evans & Sonta; play were "on deck" last night, and that kind of cranks, (I do not refer to the Waterloo cranks, but a much more dangerous crank) Governor Pennoyer, is billed to address the people here the 28th of this month.—N. B. The readers may consider Pennoyer referred to as being dangerous to the old parties or to the general public, as they please and the writer will do the same.

This is the best field for another newspaper that I know of in Oregon, although there is a good paper here. As a former printer I should know whereof I speak, and it seems to me there is a good opening for another good local paper, especially with a good job office in connection.

We have received information from Lebanon that the "pops" have converted Dr. Lamberson. While we did not learn whether the new convert had been simply sprinkled or thoroughly immersed, we do not doubt that the Dr. will be a shining light in the populist ranks. Consider the Dr.'s influence, too. Captain Pope, of Portland, may be induced by him to become a populist, if he is not already "in the middle of the road." Who knows? It may be that the Dr. will receive a telegram in the near future from Lombard St., London, sent by Captain Pope, stating that he has induced the great capitalists there to loosen their iron grip on the finances of this country—and that the price of hops has gone up 10 cents a pound. Thus this country may be saved from impending ruin by a little systematic doctoring.

But I have digressed from the subject of this town, and have wandered so far from the track that I will not try to get back.
 D. L. FRY.

CAL JEWPEPPER GETS ROASTED.

"The wild missionary schemes plowed out by the populists, will cause widespread disaster and will cause many of our people to come to actual want for the necessities of life," says I at the breakfast table after Lucindy and Tubs had been shoving more of that trashy non-administration democratic and populist doctrine under my nose.

"Why do you call it wild and missionary?" asked Cindy, "you never read any of the literature."

"Well," says I, "I read something better. I read the Oregonian, Courier, Journal, St. Louis Republic, and many other papers which are in a position to know and they all say that for a dollar to be worth a dollar we must have a single standard. That being the case, if the vague ideas of the free silver democrats, republicans and silver leagues, and the ideas of flexible money advanced by the populists and prohis, could result in nothing but fluctuation—"

"Well, let 'er 'fluct,'" said Tubs. "I would get me a decent suit of clothes, a lot of good books, a good watch and chain, a bicycle, a good shotgun, a bird dog and many other things. And I would get for mauma a new cooking stove, a decent heater, a parlor set, new brussels carpets, and I would replace that one-legged bed in the corner with a nice chamber set, and I would dress her up as nice as the wife of J. L. Cowan and I would lift the mortgage from our only home while it was flucting."

"That would be nice, my son, but—"

"Well, why don't you change and vote for a free silver democrat, or a populist one?"

"I can't desert our great leader."

"But you did once, so mamma tells me. Soon after the war you was elected on the republican ticket in South Carolina for county clerk. In this you went from one extreme to another."

"Well," I explained, "that was two years ago, and it was a matter of principle augmented by a deep set sympathy for the down-trodden race who had just received their freedom."

"But, didn't you get big pay for your services and didn't the money have to come by the labor of the negro?"

"Well, no—yes, I accepted pay of course as a compensation for the slaves I lost."

"Well now pa," said Tubs in tones that brought tears to the beautiful brown eyes of his mother, "you seem to have had great sympathy for the black slave, can you not have some sympathy for the white slaves, for the son who has tried to be dutiful and obedient to you? For my poor mother to whom you pledged your sacred honor to love, cherish and protect? For our kindred, friends and neighbors who are being reduced to a rank in slavery far below the former conditions of the black slaves of the South?"

To this I could make no reply. I am now going over to Mr. Reddell's, who is a republican, and an admirer of Cleveland, and if he will agree, I'll just be dogged if I don't meet him half way.

While I am not stuck on any one in particular, except Cleveland, Sherman and Carlisle, in behalf of Elder Wayback, Ezra Clodhopper, O. P. Crank, Liberty and other noted writers, that they have never indulged in grumbling and bursting their spleen in the abuse of their neighbors, though I can't say so much of C. Rank.

I am going to vote for Dr. Prill for coroner, not because he is a near neighbor, but because he will be convenient to sit upon the body of C. Rank, whose disease is now reaching an acute stage and he will soon pass away or commit suicide. I will then stuff the hide and turn it over to the Oregonian who will exhibit it as the only man in the world who never spoke a good word for his neighbor. The proceeds derived from this exhibit to go to the benefit of the Portland Soup House, and to increase the salary of the president of the board of charities CAL JEWPEPPER.

WATERLOO GARBAGE.

Winter.
 Easter whitecaps.
 Sunshine.
 Church scandal.
 Political.

The winter weather is cheerfully received by all, as any excuse is good to keep us from making garden.

Miss "Sunshine" in the "Advance" is aping a writer who corresponded for that sheet several years ago. Give us some original verses when next you scribble.

Our worthy townsman, W. E. Crawford has resigned as school clerk, and Mr. J. C. Hutton has been duly appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Crawford goes to Iowa, his former home.

For some reason which we failed to learn, Miss Skeels was laid off the school force Monday morning. J. B. Wirt still holds the fort. (Excuse us we were thinking of Fort Sumpter as there nothing here but war).

"Agony" had better write up his or her own little balloon town for the benefit of future generations and prospectus investors. Sodaville is a place that is noted and has a reputation that cannot be hurt by a tramp or trampet.

All is anxiety in regard to Coxe's army and one would think to see the avidity with which the dailies are seized that we had relatives or very dear friends in that motley mob. If that venture is a success, let Lebanon look out for we are coming.

The "big guns" of the W. D. Co. are daily expected and longed for by at least one man in our town. When they come he is going to have the charter of the town knocked higher than Guildero's kite, all old flies remitted and the town swiped out of existence (in his mind).

Politics are scarcely thought of here at present unless by those who may be called to the front in June. It is said by some that Senator Hutton is preparing a few bills to present to the senate, and that Assessor Glibberd has a few old property tax blanks on which he is trying his quill.

LATER.—As we had thought, the row is still rowing, but has taken a new departure. Now one prays personally, loud and long, for his dear brother who has fallen, but don't tell of card playing in barns and smoking cigarettes. The pharisee stands afar off and with his winter overcoat tightly buttoned says: "Praise be to Allah I am not as those men."

Friday evening was a time of prayer in our law-abiding burg. Two prominent members of the Evangelical persuasion took this opportunity of holding forth in true Roman style. One did not desire the kind of religion enjoyed by his brother, and the worthy brother would shout "Amen" much to the amusement of the small boy and the scandal of those who do enjoy, profess, and we believe, are true christians, if any can be found in America. After an invitation to get out on the streets or let up on their music they quieted down—and here you make a note on the sweatband of your hat, that we will listen eagerly for news of a church trial with closed doors, and widows, too. "Brethren In Unity We Dwell" don't exactly strike us as the proper hymn to sing for some time to come.

Last Friday was a day long to be remembered in Waterloo. The "Battle of Waterloo" was fought again. This engagement occurred between 8 and 9 p. m., and this time Emerson was the routed and badly disfigured combatant. The enemy was strongly reinforced by relays of ancient hen fruit which was fired from the sinewy hand of some party or parties unknown. Some 20 rounds were fired, after which the unknown withdrew their forces, but left all the fruits of victory upon the field (and Mr. Crawford's person.) The why and wherefore of all this is rather complicated. The aforesaid Mr. C—, who is a shining light in church circles, took exceptions to the way in which one Sill Wirt, a brother in his church, paid attention to his sister-in-law, and on one occasion did maliciously, wantonly and with malice afore thought, or words to that effect, strike said sister-in-law upon the auricles (in English, slapped her ears) for accompanying said Sill Wirt from Soda, or for some other reason best known to himself. The supposition is that forbearance ceased to be a virtue with the citizens and the whitecaps took this manner of showing him their approval of his actions. Mob-law is wrong but when a man makes

THE MOTOR LINE.

It is learned that the Albany Street Railway Company is considering the project of building their motor line to Sodaville and Waterloo. There was talk of building it a year or so ago, but it was dropped for the time, but it is learned that the question is now being considered in earnest. During the present depressed times the road could be built much more cheaply than at any other time, and some such feeder is needed to make the motor line pay.

An engineer was consulted about the project a few days ago. The company is considering two routes, one from Albany to Tangent, thence southeast to Waterloo, and another from Albany to the Springs via Lebanon. A motor line to these famous summer resorts would result in a large traffic, especially during the summer season, and would also do a good business from the rich farming community through which it would pass. It is said that a number of farmers have offered to give the right-of-way and to contribute liberally toward the building of the line, as it would enhance the value of their land and give a rapid transit to market.

It is to be hoped the project will result in the building of the line this summer.—Herald.

COXEY'S ARMY.

It is Rapidly Nearing Washington—Protection of the Capital.

Coxey's army is marching toward the National Capital and are rapidly nearing their destination. Had the rank and file of the "Commonweal" done their trading with Read, Pencock & Co., there would have been no need for such a movement, for they would have saved enough on their purchases to tide them over the hard times.
