THE GLORIOUS 4TH.

10,000 People Celebrated in Lebanon

PROCESSION TWO MILES LONG

Two Hundred Ladies and Gentlemen on Horses—Plug-uglies, Races, Etc., Etc.

Without a cloud in the sky, with all things ready, the Fourth of July came, before the sun had been an hour high, the people began to arrive by passenger coaches and cattle cars, by bright new tuggies and antiquated vehicles, on foot and on horse back. They came, they saw and they had a glorious time. It would take this entire sheet to give even a meager account of the day and do justice to what was done.

Early in the morning, the chief marshal, Hon. C. B. Montague, with his aids, all mounted, began to form the immense procession. It was done with military precision, and in three general divisions, with the public square as the starting point.

The third division, embracing the visitors on horse-back and in vehicles, was over a mile long. After marching along the well chosen route, the procession headed towards the Santiam, along the banks of which were the beautiful grounds. Acres and acres of shaded ground had been set apart for the use of teams, and no space was unoccupied. After the crowd had been seated, as far as the seating capacity would permit, and the remainder had arranged themselves in countless numbers in the rear, the President of the day, Hon. M. A. Miller, eloquently and gracefully congratulated the immense audience upon the many pleasures in store for them and paid a beautiful tribute to our National holiday. The orator of the day, Hon. John Burnett, of Corvallis, delivered an appropriate oration with grace and eloquence which was much enjoyed.

The thanks of the immense audience was tendered the orator for his masterly effort. Hon. D. P. Mason, of Albany, read the Declaration of Independence in an impressive manner, which seemed to fill the hearts of his hearers with even greater patriotism. The Lebanon Glee Club under the beautiful grove echo with sweetest music and won for themselves much praise. The Tugent and Lebanon bands rendered choice selections with great beauty and precision. The dinner hour had then arrived and the multitude was fed with delicious barbecued meats and snowy white bread, under the supervision of Ed Kellenberger, who would make an excellent quartermaster general for the army. His work was done to perfection, as well as his meats and bread. After dinner a pleasant ramble among the trees and the sights to be seen, the audience again assembled and listened to Bert Wright deliver a carefully prepared address appropriate to the day. Later on, the crowd was startled and amused by a collection of the most grotesque human beings and other animals that called themselves Plug Uglies. The Indian, the Negro, the Chinaman, the mule and all the curiosities of Noah's Ark were exhibited to the delighted crowd, who became wild with laughter and cheers for the Plug Uglies. While these things were going on at the ground, the Lebanon and Oak Creek boys were battling for the baseball championship. The Lebanon boys won. In another part of the city, Schultz's fine animal won for Lebanon the first prize on the race track.

At four o'clock the streets of the city were densely packed to view the horse team and other races. The crowd was with difficulty induced to clear the road-bed and the races began. By the decision of Judges Stewart, of Albany, Hayes, of Corvallis, and Cruson, of Lebanon, time was given to the Albany team at 37. They did not complete their connection at the nozzle, the water blowing the nozzle off.

The first prize was given to Lebanon and the second prize to Corvallis No. 1. It is but fair to the Lebanon boys to state that they made the run and had complete connection established in 32 seconds, but by reason of some delay at the hydrant, causing a kink in the hose, the water did not reach the nozzle until 38.

Bruce Burnett, of Corvallis, won the bicycle race over eight competitors, in very good time.

Mr. Ray, of Corvallis, won in both the foot races.

Miss Scanland, of Lebanon, won in the ladies foot race.

Mr. L. Dyer won in the fat man's race, and Mr. Chas. Fresh in the sack and potato races.

The races were very entertaining and the decisions of the judges were generally approved. The day was closed with a grand call at Union Hall and an excellent supper at the St. Charles. The Fourth was a decided success. The plans of the executive committee had been wisely laid and faithfully executed. The president of the day filled the position with grace and dignity. The Grand Marshal infused his military spirit into the exercises, and with his aids made a great success in every department. The citizens without exception did all in their power to add to the enjoyment of the day. The stands made money. The visitors all enjoyed the exercises, and everybody was happy. The crowd was orderly and the jail was little used.

No Race.

Last Saturday afternoon there were more disappointed sportsmen in this city than ever congregated here before. They had met here for the purpose of witnessing a foot-race between W. O. Trine, of Springfield and James Cooley, of this place. After the crowd had congregated at the race track, Mr. Trine declared that he was a sick man and could not run, consequently gave up the forfeit. Mr. Trine requested us to say that he would run the Brownville boy in six weeks for from $250 to $500 a side. It is thought here that Trine is afraid of Cooley, and is endeavoring to run a bluff. At any event he will be given an opportunity to show his colors.—Brownsville Times.

Land Case.

There is another case near Plaluvview which promises to be hotly contested. It appears that many years ago one John Morgan purchased a tract of land from the state of Oregon, and it now transpires that the state of Oregon did not own 40 acres of said land, and a man who was looking for a snap, detected the fact and has built a cabin and now living thereon. According to Mr. Morgan's deed the state of Oregon promised to defend the land against all lawful claims.—Brownsville Times.

Look Out for Fraud.

Grants Pass Courier: "Some parties hailing from San Francisco, have been selling an inferior quality of groceries in Grants Pass, at so-called wholesale prices. When those whom they have duped take goods home find the stuff either badly damaged or of far inferior quality to the groceries sold by our home merchants, who are our own citizens, helping pay our taxes, support schools, town government, etc. Of course people are justified in getting goods wherever they can do the best, but samples of the articles furnished by the "Consumer's House" will not bear comparison with those sold at home. Look out for humbugs." It is said these parties will visit the Willamette valley towns. Look out for them. It is always safest and wisest to patronize home merchants.

A Race Horse Poisoned.

Last Tuesday Mr. Richardson, of Seio, brought his race horse to this city to enter him in the purse race on the 4th. When he arrived in the city he took the horse to P. M. Smith's livery barn and put him in a box stall. He soon took him out and washed him off in cold water and in a short time the horse was sick. This was about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening and the horse died the next morning about 10. Mr. Richardson says he is quite confident that his horse was poisoned. Some believe Mr. Richardson's theory, while others think that the horse died from natural sickness. Mr. Dell who lives in the outer edge of town, says he is sure the horse was sick when he was brought by his house as Mr. Richardson was bringing him into the city.
