The Governor of Alaska is not able to report much growth in the Territory, the population remaining at about 5,000 white people and 23,000 natives.

At Kansas City Theodore Hanson, judge of election, and John Phillips have been arrested and placed under bonds in connection with alleged election frauds.

A dangerous $2 silver certificate counterfeit has appeared in the East. It is of the series of 1891. All the work is well done. It is one-eighth of an inch larger than the genuine.

Red river, in Texas, is lower than at any period during the past fifty years. The ferries have been abandoned and teams are crossing the channel, which is not over two feet in depth.

The internal revenue experts who are building the machinery for the collection of the income tax asserts that the amount to be collected from corporations will reach the sum of $40,000,000.

A loud complaint comes from Chicago of the misery caused by the boycott by the railroads of those men who were engaged in the A. R. U. fight last July. They are kept from getting work by a black list.

The lines of no two human hands are exactly alike. When a traveler in China desires a passport, the palm of the hand is covered with fine oil paint and an impression is taken on thin, damp paper. This paper officially stamped, is his passport.—Ex.

In Ohio a farmer painted his house white. It rained before the paint was dry, and the rain carried plenty of white lead into the cistern. Then they all drank the water, and six members of the family are dying. It requires some sense to keep alive, even in Ohio.

The Examiner's railroad petition has been placed in the hands of Congressman McGuire, of California. It contains 200,507 names, Oregon contributing 13,058 of the signatures. Multnomah county is highest with 1,418, Coos second with 1,148 and Douglas third with 1,134.

The state university and agricultural college cost the state a great deal of money, and they are turning out some fine football players. The taxpayers are, also, doing a little kicking, although not so scientifically proficient as the boys their money is educating.—Ex.

A bachelor one day set the table in his lonely abode with plates for himself an imaginary wife and five children. He then sat down to dine, and as he helped himself to food he put the same quantity on each of the other plates and surveyed the prospect, at the same time computing the cost. He is still a bachelor.—Ex.

NEARLY every community has some people it could well afford to do without. They are constantly complaining of the shortcomings of better citizens. They have never been known to take hold of any public enterprise. They never fail to impress a stranger looking for a business location that every branch of trade is crowded. They seem thoroughly dissatisfied and disgusted. The wonder is they do not emigrate to more congenial climes, with the wide world before them they might find some place better suited to their way of thinking.

The President has sent a lengthy message to congress, embracing nearly every item of interest that has happened since his last message. He is in favor of strengthening the army and navy and to protect American interests at all times and places. He has a kind word for Spain and believed the war nation is entitled to take its place among the civilized nations of the world. No reference is made to the last cyclone that struck the democratic party and but little attention is given to the tariff. The president has a plan to relieve the country of its financial embarrassment, but it is too lengthy for us to copy at present. The Republicans don't like the message and the Democrats refuse to comment on it. They have not yet recovered their breath.

The Oregonian's Washington correspondent writes that Governor-elect Lord, of Oregon, and his wife spent a few days in Washington, before going home. The governor made a decided hit in inviting President Cleveland to visit Oregon, especially as the boorishness of Penoyer on the occasion of President Harrison's visit is still remembered. Governor Lord became quite a prominent figure as the man who succeeds the peculiar Penoyer. His invitation to the president and the fact that he coupled it with the assurance that the people of Oregon would at any time welcome the chief executive of the nation, has done much to give the people of the East a better opinion of the state. It also left the impression that Penoyerism was on its last legs in Oregon.

At a recent banquet at the Press Association of New York, Mr. Whitelaw Reid was called upon to respond to the toast, "The Independent Press." Here is his response as reported in the daily papers of that city: "There is no such thing in America as an independent press, unless it is out in the country towns. You are all slaves. You know it and I know it, there is not one of you who dares to express an honest opinion. If you express it, you know before hand that it will not appear in print. I am paid $150 for keeping honest opinions out of the paper I am connected with. Others of you are paid similar salaries for doing similar things. If I should allow honest opinions to be printed in one issue of my paper, like Othello, before twenty-four hours my occupation would be gone. The man who would be so foolish as to write honest opinions would be out on the streets hunting for another job. The business of the New York journalist is to distort the truth, to lie outright, to pervert, to vilify, to fawn at the feet of Mammon and to sell his country and his race for his daily bread, or for what is about the same thing, his salary. You know this and I know it; and what foolery to be toasting an 'independent press.' We are tools and vessels of rich men behind the scenes. They pull the string and we dance. Our time, our talents, our lives, our possibilities, are all the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes."

Tried For Killing Deer.
The trial of Alma Morris for killing deer for their hides was completed before Justice Powell and a grand jury of six men Saturday. A verdict of not guilty was brought in. One man informs The Democrat that he saw eight carcasses near Morris' place, which he testified to; another saw Morris carrying deer in on his back. It is stated that he confessed to different parties, and it is further said he came to Albany with money to confess and pay his fine; but he was ably defended and cleared, and likewise well prosecuted, but the jury didn't look at it according to the reports given. It is possible no one saw him skin the deer and sell the hides. But the county will foot the bill, nearly $200.—Albany Democrat.

A foot race has been arranged between Fred Oberer, the hero sprinter at the recent fireman's tournament, and Ed Lane, Champion of Northern California. The distance is 100 yards, and Oberer is given 7 feet on the outside. The race occurs in Corvallis and starting afternoon, December 11th.

DROWNED WHILE HUNTING.

Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 28, Nicholas Sprenger jr. went goose hunting riding a horse. His destination was to be Horse Shoe Lake and the bar in the Willamette near it, about three miles west of Albany. Wednesday night his dog returned home, and not returning yesterday the young man's father went up the river to hunt for him. His horse was found near the lake, with the saddle on but both stirrups gone, the bridle broken, the halter tied around the horn of the saddle and the horse well covered with water and mud, indicating that he had had a struggle in the water. Mr. Sprenger came to the city last night and organized a party which left for the scene of what was undoubtedly a fatal accident in some form.

Every thing indicated that young Sprenger was drowned in the slough leading into the Willamette. Tracks were traced to the bar, where he tied his horse and watched for geese, then returning towards home. A low bridge without railing crossed the slough, and is now three feet under water. As it was dark, probably shortly after 6 o'clock, he undoubtedly missed the location and went off into the water. A searching party of about fifty men with five or six boats and hooks, continued the search during this forenoon. At about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon the body was found at the bottom of the slough in ten feet of water about ten feet above the bridge. It was brought to the home of Mr. Sprenger.

The deceased was a bright young man of splendid habits, a perfect gentleman, genial and upright. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was universally beloved by not only his fellow members and parents, but by all who knew him. The community loses an exemplary young man. He was about 19 years of age.—Democrat.
