Be sure and attend the social Apr. 1. "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men." It is reported that Mrs. Kimo is quite sick. S. P. Bach was in Albany Wednesday on business. S. M. Garland was in the county seat last Monday. We are glad to report that Mrs. F. Settle is improving. Mrs. Stubblefield returned home from Albany yesterday. L. L. Muitt is filling Johnnie Morgan's place as assistant in the depot for a few weeks. Hon. M. A. Miller, J. Wasson and F. C. Hansard, of this city, visited Albany Wednesday. "Broken Fetter" Thursday eve. Do not fail to hear it—at the Academy. Admission 25 cents. Rev. E. Estes left yesterday for Oakland, Or. He intends to return the middle of next week. Mr. H. J. Boyd went over to Shedd's yesterday to meet his mother whom he expected up on a visit. The Daughters of Rebekeh will give an entertainment on April 19. Look for particulars next week. N. W. Smith has rented the house where Rev. Estes now lives and intends to move into it next week. The excelsior factory shipped three carloads of excelsior this week, one to Portland and two to California. The Epworth League will give Rev. Irwin an informal reception at the M. E. parsonage Saturday evening. Mrs. J. W. Menzies and children left Monday for Salem where they intend visiting for a couple of weeks. The Rebekeh's will give an Antiquo entertainment on the evening of April 19 in the room beneath the I. O. O. F. hall. Mrs. Menzies who has been visiting her son and family of this place returned to her home in Portland last Saturday. Rev. G. M. Irwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening. The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will give a social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Montague next Monday evening, April 1. Mr. A. L. West and wife, who have been visiting their uncle, Rev. Estes and family at this place, returned to their home in Salem, Tuesday morning. Mr. C. B. Montague is having the store building next to the postoffice fitted up and will put a new floor in. It is reported that Isaac Benjamin will occupy it when it is finished. Johnnie L. Morgan has been appointed depot agent at Natron for a few weeks, while the agent at that place is taking a vacation. Johnnie is a nice steady boy, and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his promotion, and will wish him further success along that line in the near future. Mrs. Nancy Marks died at the home of her son, William, on Wednesday morning at 4:30 a. m., at the advanced age of 90 years 5 months and 22 days. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. H. Beattie assisted by other ministers of the city, at the C. P. church at 2 o'clock today. Last Saturday night a fire broke out in the residence of Mr. A. Unshrey. The fire originated from a quilt having been left too close to the stove pipe. When discovered the bed was in flames. An alarm was given and the fire department quickly turned out. The fire boys taking the hose carts down the muddy streets like good fellows, but before they arrived at the house the fire was extinguished by a few buckets of water. The damage was small. Next week will be a lively one socially. On Monday evening, at the handsome residence of the Hon. C. B. Montague will be held an April Fool social. Tuesday evening, the Hon. D. P. Markey will give a free lecture at the Opera house. Thursday evening, the students of the Academy will put on the boards, the drama, "Broken Fetters." Friday evening, graduating exercises of the Academy. Saturday evening, a grand concert given by the students of the Music Department at the Academy, and on Sunday all can go to church. The Eugene Register says that C. H. Veirs, of Sodaville, who is engaged in the creamery business at that place, in an interview with Mr. Edris, who has been visiting at Sodaville, expressed a desire to move his creamery here. He does not expect a bonus. He only wishes to be sure that he can secure enough cream to enable him to run his creamery to its full capacity. He does not wish to remove to a place that will furnish from less than 1000 cows. Not many people know that Mr. Veirs had a creamery outfit of 400 capacity.

Watch for the anniversary of the Rebekeh. Try Lebanon flour if you want good white bread. Hear the three grand choruses of forty voices at the Academy April 13. George Dibble has moved into Mr. O. Saltmarsh's house in the eastern part of the city. One musical feature of the Choral Entertainment will be the "Goat Bells." Don't fail to hear them. The choral society are preparing a firstclass entertainment which will be presented at the Academy on Friday evening, April 13. Ladies, you are cordially invited to attend the Grand Spring opening, and inspect the large and handsome stock of millinery on display next Friday and Saturday, April 5 and 6, at Miss Dumond's. Dr. J. V. Gaff was discharged in Portland, for want of testimony and with his wife left for Oakville, where they are now visiting previous to their departure for California, where they will hereafter reside. Charles D. Montague, wife and little son, of Portland, arrived in Lebanon last Thursday evening, and are now visiting relatives in this city. Mr. Montague has been very low with bleeding from his teeth, but is now much better. Prof. John M. Bloss, president of the State Agricultural college of Corvallis, will deliver a free lecture at this place on Friday evening, April 12. His subject will be "The Value of Higher Education." All are invited to attend. Parties from the county seat report that A. F. Stowe, Esq., who was given 20 days in the county jail by Justice Lovelee, is now helping to do the writing in the Sheriff's office—the jail at present being repaired. This is a pleasant way of working out one's fine. A moral wave is passing over McMinnville. Not long since the city council passed an ordinance prohibiting the opening of saloons and gambling joints on Sundays. At its last meeting another ordinance was passed for closing of all barber shops on the same day, which if violated, a fine of $10 to $20 is to be imposed. The store of Matthews & Washburn, of Albany, was closed Thursday of last week upon an attachment suit brought by S. W. Dodd, representing himself in the sum of $1744.90; First National Bank, $1500; W. C. Tweedie $236.21; Martin Ludwig, $300, and another attachment by the Linn County National Bank in the sum of $400. They have been good business men whom it is to be regretted to see fail. Mrs. Wm. Odell and children returned to Oregon last Saturday from Missouri. Mrs. Odell was dissatisfied with this country and about the first of the year with her children returned to her old home in Missouri and Mr. Odell expected to go back as soon as he got his business so arranged that he could, but as soon as Mrs. Odell got back and saw how things were, she wrote right back to Mr. Odell to not come and also said I don't see how people back here live and if I ever get back to Oregon will be contented. In conversation yesterday with F. U. Hickok, agent of the S. P. railroad at this place, he informed us that business over the road at this place was nearly double what it was a few weeks ago. That he would ship about 15 or 16 carloads out of here this week of paper, wheat, potatoes, excelsior and produce, and it was hard work to get cars, as business all over the line is picking up the same way. He said last Tuesday he shipped out a half car of eggs and chickens alone. We hope the move is general and that it has come to stay and ere long we will see the good times that has been promised so long. It has been a good many years since the Willamette valley has had as favorable outlook for an overwhelming crop at this season of the year, both in grain and fruit as this year advances. The winter season has been so delightfully mild that no man can possibly find an excuse for not having his grain crop all in, his orchard well cultivated, and his berry crop well looked after, and there are few cultivators of the soil who are in need of an excuse—the work is practically all done. Everything seems to have worked harmoniously this year.—Register. Certainly the outlook is good so far. Let us hope it will keep up the present speed. At the last meeting of the asylum commissioners permission was granted the superintendent of the asylum to employ a lady physician whenever he deemed such services for the best interests of the inmates of the institution. In accordance therewith, Superintendent Rowland has selected Dr. Clara M. Davidson, of Lebanon, Linn county, to serve in that capacity. Dr. Davidson has been in practice in Salem for a time, but her home is in Lebanon. She is a graduate with high honors of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania and is thoroughly versed in the mysteries of the profession. She is also a lady of culture and

The Red Crown Mills are again in trouble. It seems that the company has used all the wheat stored by farmers and others, in making flour, and the warehouse is empty. Formal demand has been made by various parties for their wheat, and two or more attachment proceedings have been started. Criminal prosecution is threatened against some of the officers. There is a plan on foot to settle with the creditors and to start the mills again. It is to be hoped that the plan will succeed and further trouble prevented. The Red Crown Mills have a wide and favorable reputation all over the country and when Mr. Isom was at the head of it, no concern stood higher. It is understood that this trouble will not effect the warehouse here. Mr. Thomas Kay, of the Salem Wooden Mills, passed through Lebanon last Saturday on his way to Waterloo. He informed us that he intended to stay at Waterloo the most of the time now until after the mills are started. He said he would superintend putting in the machinery and the running of the mills until everything was under good headway. He thinks it will be about the middle of May before they will get to running and possibly longer. About $20,000 has been expended in converting the Waterloo hosiery factory into a woolen mill. The company now has a force of 12 men at work adjusting the new machinery and building tanks, a dye house etc. It will be a three-set mill and the output will be wholly flannels and blankets. The enterprise will give employment to about 80 hands when completed. Last Sunday evening the Baptist church in this city, was crowded to its utmost capacity, and many were unable to enter. The occasion was the farewell sermon of the pastor, Rev. E. Estes. The ministers of the city dismissing their own congregations, came in a body to express their esteem and appreciation of the work of the retiring pastor. Mr. Estes topic was the "Apostolic Benediction," which was delivered in a very impressive manner and was very appropriate for the occasion. Rev. Melloy, president of the ministers Association, of which Mr. Estes is a member, made a few remarks at the opening of the service, expressing his regret that circumstances called for such a gathering. After the sermon, short addresses were made by the other ministers; all expressing the high esteem they felt for Mr. Estes. Subscription papers are now in active circulation and the church is making new and determined efforts to still retain the services of Rev. Estes as pastor. So far, they are meeting with a fair measure of success. Death of Jesse William George. Mr. Jesse W. George died in Seattle, Wash., Saturday morning at 10 o'clock of pneumonia at the age of 59 years. He leaves a wife and four children, two sons and two daughters. Mr. George was a prominent and wealthy citizen of Seattle. He was a brother of Hon. Melvin C. George, of Portland, and a nephew of Simon A. Nickerson, of this city. He was a pioneer of Oregon, having crossed the plains in 1851 first settling on a farm now owned by the Dodge boys at the foot of Peterson's Butte 3 miles from Lebanon. The following sketch of Mr. George's life has been prepared: Mr. George was born in Morgan county, Ohio, November 11, 1835, and was the second son of Presley Mahala (Nickerson) George. His father was a native of Virginia, but early in life migrated to Ohio, where he married and lived for 40 years. His mother was a descendant of an old Puritan family in the Bay state, and in 1817 removed with the family to Ohio. His grandfather on his father's side drew a pension for services as a soldier in the revolutionary war. In 1851 the family crossed the plains, settling on a donation claim near Lebanon, Linn county, which is still known by his father's name. He received his rudimentary education in Ohio, and also attended the Sautlam Academy in Linn county. He remained in this county, taking prominent interest in local affairs and developed unusual business capacity, until 1872, when he removed to Seattle. During his residence in that city he was prominently identified in various enterprises, and was one of the three original organizers of the Washington Iron Works. In all these enterprises he displayed sound business judgment and firmness of character. Fred Whitcomb Killed. Last Monday morning the regular freight was passing Wolf Creek in southern Oregon when Fred Whitcomb, one of the brakemen met with a horrible death. In some manner unknown, he slipped between the cars and fell under the wheel, cutting him in two and mangle his body in a frightful manner. His remains were picked up and taken to Tacoma, where his parents reside. Whitcomb at one time was brakeman on the Lebanon train; then he held a position as extra on the passenger trains between Portland and Roseburg. He was a genial, good hearted fellow. He was a small, wiry man whose face was known to all who have traveled up and down the road.

The Cascara Bark Industry. We notice in some of the valley papers an occasional item in regard to small shipments of this article. Now this industry was inaugurated in Lebanon in the year 1883, and since that time something over four hundred tons have been shipped from this little city alone. In 1888, Dr. Lamberson and Captain George Pope of Portland, bought and shipped 148 tons, paying an average price of $60 per ton for the same. A portion of this bark, also Oregon grape root is a component part of Liverine, which is a Lebanon enterprise, the members of this concern are residents of Linn county, and own property here. We are pleased to note the success of this enterprise in our city, notwithstanding the fact that the Albany papers have the plant located there in a large two-story brick building, we feel assured that Liverine will grow and flourish in the manufacturing city of its birth. Much credit is due the general manager, Dr. J. A. Lamberson, for the tact and energy he has shown in the working out, and his knowledge of chemistry of this difficult problem; in taking three different bitter extracts and compounding as sweet and pleasant a remedy as he has in this case. Now with our paper mill, our Excelsior mill, flour mill, planing mill, Liverine factory and in the near future our chieky plant and also the distilling of the oil of the peppermint. We have good reason to feel proud of our fair city. Another Pioneer Gone. W. R. Temple died at his home near Rock Hill schoolhouse last Monday, March 25, 1895. Mr. Temple was born in May of 1832 and would have been 63 years old this coming May. He crossed the plains in 1852, and in 1868 located on this farm near Rock Hill where he has lived up to the time of his death. He is the father of nine children, seven of whom and his wife still survive him. Mr. Temple was well known all over the county and was an honorable man, whose death will be universally regretted. He had been a great sufferer for many years. Rev. C. C. Sperry of Brownsville conducted the funeral services at the house and the remains were interred at Sand Ridge cemetery under the auspices of the Brownville and Lebanon Lodge I. O. O. F. He was a member in good standing of the former lodge. Consolidated Brownsville. Where there were two cities, Brownsville and North Brownsville, separated only by strife and the Calapooia river, there is now but one, the people almost unanimously having voted last Monday to have the greater obstacle—strife—removed. While there was but a small vote cast, comparatively speaking, it was sufficiently large to show the exact sentiment of the people. Out of the total of eighty-nine votes cast on the north side, eighty-eight were for consolidation, while on the south side thirty-three out of thirty-five favored consolidation. As our interests were identical it appears strange that this step was not taken many years ago. Let the old feuds and strifes of the past never be resurrected, but let peace and harmony reign supreme, and the city of Brownsville will some day be an honor to the great state of Oregon.—Times. D. P. Markey. The following program will be rendered at the reception tendered Hon. D. P. Markey, supreme commander of the Knight of the Maccabees of the World, by the Maccabees of Lebanon, April 2, at 8:00 p. m., at Hope's Opera hall. Chairman, Sir Knight Commander, A. H. Crusan.
