LEBANON does more business than any other city in the valley according to its size.

If you want to build up your own town patronize home industries. Don't merely talk that way, but practice it.

News from Alaska states that the Hyak Indian chief who shot Harry Mors, mate of the Francis Cutting, has committed suicide in the Juneau jail.

The talk of a new state, to be formed from portions of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, will probably end in talk. It isn't such an easy matter to divide states or form new ones out of old states.

A LARGE number of people will come westward this year. This country can look for immigration and every quarter-section of land on which can be found 20 acres of tillable land, will be appropriated to thrifty families.

SUMMER made a sudden advent upon us this week, with but very little premonitory signs of its approach. A little visit in advance, like this, is not displeasing, but the country would prefer a month of spring rains yet.

The railroad commissioners, through Mr. Eddy, are going to have the courts to decide whether they can draw their salary or not. Without the least animosity against the amiable gentlemen, THE EXPRESS hopes they won't get a cent.

The Myrtle Creek West Oregonian understands that the Divelbiss Quartz Mining company, which erected the mill at Salmon, has commenced action against the discoverers of the rich mine for $18,000 damages, for not carrying out their contract and thus preventing the mill from running.

MURDER is not confined to any particular place. The recent horrible murder in San Francisco of the two girls, was committed in a church. Who would think of associating the church with deeds of blood? Of all places in the world the church, in all its purity, is calculated to drive the thought of murder from the heart of man.

The 16-year-old son of Mr. Keeney, residing three miles above Holly, on the Calapoia, a few days ago ran upon an old cougar and three yearling cubs. The boy only had a 22-caliber rifle; but he faced the music, and before he was through with the cougars every one "bit the dust." Four in one day is a good record, and the boy has the scalps to testify to his powers.

REV. J. C. READ, the preacher robber is to be sent to the asylum at Salem. Nowadays when a man commits a crime all he has to do is to play the insane act, and lo and behold, a jury of his peers, perhaps as crazy as he, will believe the evidence introduced to prove insanity and sentence him to the asylum instead of to the penitentiary. Were a single level headed judge to try the case nine times out of ten the insanity dodge would fall.—Ex.

ONE of the oldest pioneers in the state, if not the very oldest, is Mr. Taylor, of Sauvie's island, who came up the Columbia in 1836. He is about 80 years of age, and has never appeared in the procession on Pioneer day. He says the reason is that they have no flag dated far enough back for him. The society might get an 1836 flag, and induce Mr. Taylor to carry it in the procession on Pioneer day. He is still hale and hearty, and his faculties well preserved. His sons will not allow him, to do any work, and he spends most of his time in reading, and takes a number of newspapers.—Folk County Observer.

ARNOLD MUST WEAKEN.

The animated discussion going on between the Democratic State Central Committee and Surveyor-General Arnold is awakening great interest on the Pacific slope. Mr. Arnold was appointed by the president at the urgent solicitation of the democrats of this state. He now refuses to recognize his party and indignantly rejects its reasonable demands, claiming his right to retain whomsoever he wishes in the best paying positions of his department. Mr. Arnold has been writing several letters to the committee, and intimates that the victors have been generously rewarded by his (Arnold's) appointment. This is unique. Probably Mr. Arnold has been sufficiently rewarded and, if he can show that he is the party, then his claim, that the party has been sufficiently rewarded, will be proven. Until Mr. Arnold proves himself the party, the democrats can claim but slight recognition in Arnold's appointment, for Arnold is evidently no democrat, but a rank mugwump. His action is a reflection on his own qualifications, for he admits that the presence of this objectionable republican is essential to the welfare of his office; and he insults the democrats of the state by thus insinuating that no democrat can be found capable of filling this position. The presence of this republican may materially lessen Mr. Arnold's labors, but it in no way lightens the labors of his party, but places upon it a greater burden. Ingratitude is an unpardonable sin, politically, and is always a mean disposition in any man. Mr. Arnold is certainly ungrateful. He is a very small factor in the politics of his state, and he should not seek to appropriate all of the fruits of his party's victory—to accomplish which he contributes but little, if any. It is a settled political dogma, that "to the victor belongs the spoils." This is not a suitable doctrine to preach in Sunday School, where we are told to love our enemies, but politics is a horse of another color, where, of necessity, friends are alone rewarded, and enemies should not expect it. Mr. Arnold should accede to the very reasonable demand of his party or he should resign.

C. P. HUNTINGTON had to submit to the formality of an arrest. His legion of enemies may take a little comfort in that fact, though they need not allow their exultation to go to the extent of supposing the law will do him any material harm.

We noticed in one of the Albany papers a few days ago that the sheriff would soon publish the delinquent tax list for 1894. Before Sheriff McFeron does this we think he should get figures on the publication of this list from all the papers of the county and give it to the one that would do it the cheapest. The price that was charged two year ago was by far too large and we are satisfied that by letting it out by bids it can be done for at least one-half the price of two years ago. We think the sheriff owes this to his constituents, and especially to the unfortunate who are on the delinquent list.

$100 Reward, $500.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and gives the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

MILITARY STORES IN PARIS.

The French Capital Could Not Again Be Starved Into Capitulation.

Should the fortunes of war ever again expose the city of Paris to the hardship of a siege the besieger would find the reduction of the French capital to be a far more difficult undertaking than did the German armies in the winter of 1870-71. It may, according to the Philadelphia Record, be doubted whether the city could ever again be compelled to capitulate. The fall of Paris, as is well known, was not accomplished by the German siege batteries, but the city was starved into submission. A recurrence of such an emergency is supposed to have been made practically impossible by the development of the art of preserving and compressing a great variety of nutritious foods into the smallest possible space. Thus, for example, forty thousand rations of preserved vegetables can be placed in a cubic space measuring only forty inches each way, and millions of the rations, together with solid soups and preserved meats, are constantly kept ready for the eventual necessity of the military provisioning of Paris. An enormous stock of flour and biscuits is always maintained by the war department, while the introduction of compressed fodder and the silo system have facilitated the storage of sufficient food for the horses required by the cavalry as well as by the omnibus and street railway companies. One of the gravest causes of distress during the last siege of Paris was the scarcity and poor quality of milk. Such quantities of this indispensable article as could then be procured were worth their weight in gold, and the mortality among infants resulting from their deprivation of this necessary food reached a frightful rate. In the next siege, however, milk will not only be plentiful, but very good, thanks to Dr. Antefage's process of "pasteurizing" milk, which has been adopted by the French government, and by which milk can be preserved almost indefinitely absolutely pure and unaltered.

Twenty years ago the art of preserving meat by means of cold storage was in its infancy, but the French government has fully availed itself of every improvement that has been made in this direction, and at the first sign of impending danger the authorities would be prepared to store hundreds of thousands of carcasses of beefs and mutton. The military magazines are always kept filled, but at the approach of war the numerous warehouses and buildings which have been indicated for the purpose and prepared for the storage of provisions would be immediately brought into requisition. By means of the Fixary process dressed beef and other meats can be kept sweet and fresh for many months, and by new chemical methods the storage rooms can be kept cool without the use of ice. In its careful preparation for the dire emergency of hostile attack the French government seems to have overlooked nothing; even coal, wood, petroleum, chemicals and a thousand other things have been provided in ample quantities. It seems almost impossible to believe that any future siege of Paris could be prolonged until the war department should have exhausted its fabulous accumulations of provisions, which are constantly maintained at their proper level by renewals of stock as fast as they are used up. "The best laid plans of mice and men," however, "gang aft agley."

WAR BETWEEN MOTIVE POWERS.

Connecticut to Witness a Contest Between Electricity and Steam.

Connecticut is destined to be the first state in which the battle between steam and electricity will be thoroughly tested, says the Utica Observer. For many years the railroad business of that state has been controlled by what is known as the Consolidated road. Legislation in the past has been very favorable to this corporation, and it has been impossible to build rival lines of steam railroad without the consent of the Consolidated—and of course this consent was not to be secured. When trolley cars came into existence shrewd observers saw in them a possible means of finally accomplishing the downfall of the Consolidated, and as the improvements in the means of using and applying electricity as a motive power were rapidly perfected the hopes of trolley line projectors grew. The result has been the securing of a large number of franchises for trolley lines, and already the most important towns along seventy-five miles of the Consolidated are united by lines of double track electric railways that permit of continuous passage. Many other franchises have been granted and appearances indicate that through service may soon be secured between New York city and Hartford.

It is an interesting battle, because it brings into competition two great forces, steam and electricity, which are doubtless destined to compete against each other in the future. It is also interesting to note that in all cases where the steam and trolley roads parallel each other in the Connecticut example, the trolley roads have proved to be the most popular. This is doubtless in a measure due to the fact that considerable local prejudice has existed against the monopoly controlling the steam roads, and wherever an opportunity presented itself to turn business over to the trolleys it was done.

A Royal Myrtle Lash.

Near the principal entrance at Osborne there is a flower garden in which an immense myrtle bush is to be seen. This has been grown from a sprig which was taken out of the wedding bouquet of Empress Frederick in 1855. It has been a rule at court that at every royal marriage at which bride or bridegroom was a descendant of the queen some pieces of this myrtle have been placed in the bride's wedding bouquet. The practice commenced when Princess Alice married Prince Louis of Hesse at Osborne in 1862, and it has been continued until the day when their daughter was married to the emperor of Russia.
