

Lebanon Express.

H. Y. KIRKPATRICK,
Editor - and - Proprietor.

The subsidy of $530,000 to be given by the people of Seattle to the Seattle and Lake Washington Water-way Company, which is to fill in the tide flats and excavate a ship canal to Lake Washington, has been completed and work will begin according to contract on the 23d inst.

The Umatilla Indian chiefs Peo and Young Chief have returned from Washington, where they interviewed Secretary Hoke Smith and Indian Commissioner Brown. The chiefs report that the secretary promised to pay them the $200,000 due from the sale of lands in cash, instead of building houses for them.

Two fishing boats employed of Port Orford last week turned over 2880 pounds of red fish to Winson & Co., besides catching about 800 pounds of several other varieties, such as ling, halibut and snappers. The largest halibut caught weighed 100 pounds. This new industry will give profitable employment to a number of men during the summer.

The miners of Southern Oregon are doing their full share toward increasing the circulating medium. More gold was taken out last winter than usual in spite of the scarcity of water, because the claims are being better developed by the persevering labor that has been expended upon them. All honor to our miners—their "staying" qualities are worthy of emulation!

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Post says that the brokers representing the Morgan-Rothschild syndicate have been paying a premium for the refined gold output of the private refineries throughout the west during the last two months and that they are accumulating fine gold at the rate of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 per month, which represents fully two thirds of the entire gold output of the United States.

It is stated that fifty young women have just graduated from the woman's law class of the university of New York and received their diplomas. The class was under the direction of the Woman's Educational Society. It is not the intention of all these graduates to enter upon the active practice of the profession; most of them having pursued the study for educational purposes. The purpose of the society directing these legal studies is to give intelligent direction to the efforts of women to influence legislation.

SENATOR MITCHELL of Oregon, in a recent interview, said: "I am afraid the democratic party will make concessions to the silver men in the platform adopted at their next national convention. If it does, after all its past mistakes, it will sweep the country. If neither party gives silver the recognition it deserves a new party will spring up that will sweep the country like wild-fire. I think the result of the Denver conference will be to make the republican party realize more fully the gravity of the situation, and may lead to its adopting a more liberal policy toward silver at its next Republican national convention."

CONGRESSMAN SIBLEY, while in Lebanon was enthusiastic in his praise of Senator Mitchell; and was equally as plain in his condemnation of ex-Senator Dolph. The first he considered one of the foremost men of his day on the financial situation and a warm friend of the people; the latter gentleman, he said, in effect, was the recognized champion of soul-less corporations and mercenary trusts, an enemy of the people. Mr. Sibley was particularly outspoken against the Oregonian, saying it was owned and controlled in the interest of Wall Street and England, with not a drop of the milk of human kindness in it.

THE SCHOOL PICNIC.

At 9:30 a. m., last Saturday the pupils and teachers of the Lebanon Public school assembled at the school house, and after having fully organized themselves, started to the top of the Ridgeway Butte for a picnic. At 10:00 a. m., the line of march was formed, with the band as leaders, followed by the school flag and the pupils of rooms 1, 2, 3 and 4, with their respective teachers. Marching down Main street and Bridge avenue to the bridge, we halted and listened to a few selections by the band, which were followed by three cheers in honor of the flag. Breaking ranks, we then started up the Butte and reached a pleasant spot which we named "Eutaw Springs," here we quenched our thirst with the sparkling waters. The band played another selection, we viewed the beautiful valley below, with its newly plowed ground, and beautiful green fields. After giving three cheers in honor of the band, we left "Eutaw Springs" and from here forward, ropes were used to help some of the little ones up the steep ascent. We then went through the "Wilderness" to "Stony Point," and after a short rest, continued our journey, reaching the top at 12:30 m.

On one side of us we could see the beautiful snow-capped peaks of the Three Sisters, and a portion of the Santiam river, as it made a bend around the mountain; while on the other side there stood open to our view the cities of Lebanon, Albany, Soda-ville, Spicer and Tallman, and the surrounding valley. Shortly after reaching the top, the band played a few selections, and soon all were eating their luncheon. After lunch was served, the following program was rendered:

Song, America.
Recitation, Gertrude Sharp.
"Stella Mossholder.
Song, By the chart class.
Recitation, Clifford Beattie.
"Frank Grason.
Song, By the pupils of room 1.
Selection by the band.
Recitation, Emma Baslar.
"Dot Harris.
"Pauline Adams.
"Gertrude Davis.
"G. H. Wilkes.

This was the first instance in which the top of the Butte had been reached by an organized party with educational interest in view; we therefore, dedicated the Butte to education and built on its crest, a monument of stone. The first stone was laid by Mr. Hindman, who was the oldest person present, and the second, by Loren Taylor, who was the youngest. Then every one present placed a stone to the monument, and inside of it was placed a jar containing a card from each depositor, bearing the date and his name (with occasionally short historic notes,) and a piece of music from the Lebanon band. The first card deposited bears the inscription "G. H. Wilkes, Principal of the Lebanon schools 1895-'96." This monument built by and dedicated to education by the Public school children, May 11, 1896, and the last card bears the inscription in the monument the seal was closed, "Closed at 3 o'clock 3 minutes p. m., May 11, 1896, by Minnie Thompson." The Prof. and Miss Minnie Thompson then lifted over the receptacle the heavy covering stone which rests above it, and the monument was rounded up by the deposit of stones from each of the party. Three lusty cheers were given for the endurance of the monument and its memory, the band played a stirring selection and we departed for a ramble down the mountain's grassy side.

PUPILS.

The sweet May noon was bright and fresh,
Not a cloud was in the sky.
We marched again on the old school walk,
The Ridgeway Butte to try.
Bright faces sweet as the breath of morn,
Shown up with a smile of delight,
As we trined in our lanes out of Alouette
And looked on the distant height.

The Professor's call for attention came,
Well known to was its ringing rhyme.
The band played up a merry air,
And forward moved our line.
We marched through the street where the People stood, then East to the river
"bridge."
There halted to rest, and cheer the flag, Then clambered up the ridge.

The stars and stripes were at our head,
The band played in time;
Sweet voices echoed tal-lo-lo,
The hills threw back the chime.
The Willamette valley below us spread Kept widening to our view, Until we reached the mountain crest, when Our march to a halt, we drew.

We viewed the scene with thoughts of joy
While we stood in the upper air;
And gazed on the valley that spread beneath With fields and cities fair;
For in all the world is no fairer spot to be Than here in the valley of the Willamette Where it greets the Santiam.

Our country's flag from a lofty fir barked
Its colors in the breeze.
We spread our luncheon out by groups and Dined beneath the trees.
We looked on nature's enduring forms,
And traced them o'er again, Till awed with the changes that come and Go and toy, with the lives of men.

We looked to the Sun, it seemed to smile,
And kiss us with delight;
Its beams seemed glad to greet us there
Upon the mountain's height;
Then to our joy it seemed to say,
"The part I'll speak to you,
Of Oregon, of its fair crime and of the way It grew."

"Long centuries this globe of yours has Turned before my face, I've seen its surface rise an fall mountains
And seen change place; Yes, the very peak you are standing on, for Centuries was a sea.
And I well recall when the waters moved
To make a home for thee."

Three hundred fifteen years ago,
Drake sailed on the sea,
Viewed first the land of Oregon while round The globe went he.

He praised the land he'd seen so far, spoke
Of its soil and climate;
Till others followed in his path to make Their homes and thine.

One hundred and three years ago on this eleventh day of May, A ship turned into a river's mouth at the will of Captain Grey.
He named that stream Columbia the name
It bears to day, And explored it to dashing water-traits where he found the trout at play."

"But only a hint will I give you now, more when you climb again;
Rise, rise from the fog of a thriftless life
Inspire your fellow men; Sweet light you'll find in the upper air and the music of a heavenly word.
I'll remember the climb you've made to day and wait for your voice to be heard."

Then our voices rang in the mountain air, our souls were filled with new light As our literary program of speech and song we rendered on the height; With bright green fields before us spread and behind us peaks of snow; The sweet May flowers beneath our feet and the silvery stream below.

A mound of stone to mark the spot to educator's name,
We built with three hundred busy hands all toiling with an aim.
The first stone Mr. Hindman laid, he's lived since '22.
The second Loren Taylor placed, a little lad of three.

The mound complete our names within and our day's work was done We left that spot with high resolve a useful course to run.
Time may bespell the work we've done hurt down the mountain's side.
But while we live we work as one,
and constant as the tide.

We leave the spot, its sacred ground to us who've climbed its crest, And now we look for higher peaks and pray our work be blessed.
May our future hold an upward course and ever even run,
And the sweetest joys that fall on earth
may they fall on Lebanon.

THE QUADRANT LAND CASE.

Southern Pacific Appeals From Judge Bellinger's Decision.

United States District Attorney Murphy has filed notice of appeal to the United States supreme court of the case known as the quadrant land case of the United States against the Oregon Central & Oregon California railroad companies, to recover several thousand acres of land near Forest Grove. The lands are occupied by settlers and the secretary of the interior held them to be government lands.
The United States was required to sue the railroads to quiet title for the settlers, and Judge Bellinger decided for the settlers and that the lands belonged to the government, subject to the settlers' rights. The case was appealed by the Southern Pacific company, which now owns the grant of the two other railroad companies, and Justice Fuller, sitting in the United States circuit court of appeals of the Ninth district, reversed the secretary of the interior and Judge Bellinger, and held the lands to be the property of the railroad company. It would not be proper to allow the settlers to be dispossessed while there is still another chance, consequently the appeal to the highest tribunal in the land.

The controversy is a peculiar one.
The Oregon & California company was to build a road from Portland to Astoria and built from Portland to Forest Grove. The Oregon Central built a line from Forest Grove to a point on Yamhill river. Each company, by its land grant, was allowed twenty miles of land along the line of the road as far as constructed, measuring in any direction. Running south the Oregon & California railroad grant ends at Forest Grove and the Oregon Central railroad grant begins at Forest Grove and runs west to the Yamhill river. At Forest Grove, the Southern Pacific company, when it acquired the other roads, drew a circle and connected the two land grants, and claim is laid to all of the land within this circle, which makes two-thirds of a quadrant. The government says the land railroad is not entitled to the land within the circle.—Ex.

Some one broke into the Cottage Grove jail a few days ago in an attempt to release a prisoner, but failed as the prisoner was locked up in a cell.

The Oregon Pacific is now hauling about 10000 feet of logs daily to the Gates sawmill. Messrs. Ross & Scanlon do the logging, buying the timber of John Butterworth.

Frank Blackerby of Bandon, ten years old, is laid up from the vicious attack of a cow he was driving to pasture. His collarbone was dislocated, and he was otherwise bruised up.

There are an immense number of cranes in the Grand Ronde valley, and in some instances farmers have put boys on horses to herd the birds off the fields. In some localities the cranes are so numerous that they resemble from a distance herds of sheep.

Rev. T. Van Scoy, of Portland, was brought to Salem Friday night by Sher. J. Knight to answer to a bench warrant, issued out of Judge Hewitt's court. He appeared before Justice Johnson, and gave bonds in the sum of $200 to appear before the circuit court July 1.
Rev. Grannis and W. G. Westcott are his sureties.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and gives the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure.
