The people in from the country are loud in their praise of Road Supervisor J. C. Saltmarsh, who is making a good supervisor.

Harley Crandall accompanied Wm. Marks up to the Mountain house last Tuesday morning. He returns tomorrow morning.

Mr. Stokes sr., was quite sick last Saturday night, but has recovered and is now building a house for a gentleman the other side of Waterloo.

Mrs. J. W. Cusick of Albany, was in Lebanon this week, called to the bedside of her father, Grandpa Peebler, who was very sick, but is improved some.

Died in Spicer, Linn county, May 24, 1895, Mrs. Allie Taylor Calavan, wife of G. L. Calavan; age nineteen years. She was buried last Sunday by the side of her mother near Waterloo.

Our Sodaville friends had a bad day last Saturday for their picnic, and have made arrangements to hold it tomorrow, if the atmosphere will permit. Sodawater can be had free.

Wells Fargo & Co., are abandoning their letter carrying service. This was begun in 1855, and has been conducted steadily since. It was a big thing in early days, but has been little used recently.

Considering the number of applications on file for positions in the public school at this place, our school is very popular. The board is composed of good men and they will employ first class teachers.

El Guy found a boy's coat last Friday between Lebanon and Sodaville. The coat will fit a boy about eight years old. The owner can have the same by calling at this office, paying for this notice and describing the property.

An excursion train will run from Albany and Brownsville to this place on June 5, for the accommodation of those wishing to attend the fraternal picnic which promises to be the greatest picnic event this year. Round trip from Albany 70 cents, from Brownsville 90 cents.

The contract for building the new bridge across the Calapooia, at Sawyer's mill, five miles above Crawfordville was let Tuesday by Judge Duncan and Commissioners Pugh and Walters to Henry St. John for $708, that being the lowest bid.

Wheat has gone up four cents in the last few days. The republican convention sat down on free silver. The goldites are trying to see some connection between the two events. Very likely the wheat speculators don't know that the republicans ever had a meeting in Portland.

The annual meeting of the Linn county Pioneers will be held at Brownsville, Linn county, Oregon, on June 19, 20 and 21, commencing the first day at 10 o'clock, a. m. Good speakers will be in attendance to entertain the people. Lots of music, both vocal and instrumental; good meals served at all the hotels. Good camping grounds for those wishing to camp.

Langdon, at 1030 a. m., on Wednesday June 5.

Tuesday, County Treasurer Morris sent a draft to State Treasurer Metcahan for $23,906.16, which settles Linn county's indebtedness in full to date, and so our county stands clear upon the books of the state. There is still a small outstanding account for county warrants drawn, but these will shortly be met and then Old Linn will be entirely out of debt.

The committee of the Marion and Linn counties Veterans' association met at Salem and arranged the time and program for the annual encampment and reunion at Mehamma. The first encampment was held there last year and was attended by about 6000 people during the week. The date fixed this year is July 10, encampment to last one week. The place selected is a beautiful grove on the south bank of the Santiam River just below the county bridge at Mehamma. The program will be as follows:

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church met at Pittsburg, Penn., May 16, and in the history of Presbyterianism of that place, published in the Pittsburg Times, is the following: "The first Protestant sermon preached within the limits of Pittsburg was preached by a Presbyterian minister, Charles Beattie, the Sunday of November 26, 1753." This Rev. Charles Beattie was a great great grandfather of Rev. J. H. Beattie of this city.

Decoration day was observed in Lebanon yesterday in the usual style. The procession was formed in front of the G. A. R. hall headed by the Lebanon band and marched to the Academy where the decoration services were held. Rev. J. H. Beattie delivered the oration. After the exercises they marched to the Masonic cemetery where the service was concluded at the grave of Comrade F. M. Miller, where there was a fine display of flowers. Mr. C. B. Montague was marshal of the day.

A number of the Albany College students had planned a trip to the top of Peterson's Butte to have a picnic Saturday, where they intended to erect a monument and dedicate it to education, but their proposed trip was stopped on account of the rain. It is with much pleasure that the EXPRESS calls attention to the fact that Lebanon's public school was the first to build a monument of this kind in the state. We predict that in less than five years there will not be a butte within any reasonable distance of a school house in the state, but what a monument will be built upon it.

Mr. N. S. Dalgleish returned Wednesday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Dalgleish. When Mr. Dalgleish left here several weeks ago on a visit to his sister in British Columbia, his friends had strong suspicion that he would return with a fair Canadian girl for his bride. Their suspicion proved correct, for he was married at Langley, B. C., on May 15, 1895, to Miss Aggie Ross. Mr. and Mrs. Dalgleish were met at the evening train by many friends and were serenaded by the band later in the evening at the home of Justice Lovelace, with whom they are at present stopping, while Mr. Dalgleish is fitting up his new home. Mr. Dalgleish is universally respected and liked for his many admirable qualities, and his new happiness is a source of pleasure to his many friends. We are glad to welcome Mrs. Dalgleish to our city.

A citizen of Portland, while strolling along a street in Lebanon, Linn county, a few days since, had his attention attracted by the most magnificent cherry tree he had ever seen. Seeing a sprightly old man hoeing in the garden, in which the tree stood, he leaned over the fence and inquired about it. The veteran gardener, who proved to be ninety-two years of age, stated that the tree was two and a half feet in diameter, and that the branches spread over an area of fifty-two feet in diameter, and that last year, which was not a good year for cherries, it produced fourteen bushels, and would have several bushels more this year. The tree appeared as healthy and vigorous as possible, not a dead branch or any sign of decay about it. It would be difficult to match that tree out of Oregon, but there are a number of trees as large in this state.—Oregonian.

Frank Cochran, aged about twelve years, who lives with his mother, a few miles north of Brownsville, met with a thrilling experience one day last week. It was an experience such as would only be thought of by a sport loving youth in his wild fancies of a midnight dream—an experience that very seldom shapes itself into a reality. He was roaming the hills in quest of a stray cow, and was carrying in his hand a lengthy rope, when his dog rushed into the brush and in a moment a large deer came bounding by the youth, who, acting upon the impulse, threw a noose over its head, and immediately taking the other end around a small oak grub, had the gamey animal foul. That the animal should come in such close proximity to the boy was an unsolved mystery until after a scrutinizing examination had taken place, and the animal was found to be blind as a bat, evidently having come in contact with some hot lead on a previous occasion. This fact of course caused the young hero to shed crocodile tears of grief, as he desired to keep the deer a captive.—Brownsville Times.

GRAND PICNIC.

Campus of Santiam Academy all Arranged for the Crowd—Two Large Brass Bands and Grand Choir Engaged—Distinguished Orators to Deliver Addresses—Fraternal Societies to be Represented—Grand Parade With Mounted Escort.

Every one come to Lebanon on the 6th, and have a glorious time. Bring your baskets and dine under shady trees to the strains of sweet music. Hear distinguished orators, see the races and many other interesting and amusing sights.

The committees on arrangements of the grand picnic are doing all in their power to make this the best picnic of the year, and as Lebanon never does anything by halves, we can insure our readers that this fraternal picnic will be one of the best.

The following is an outline of the general program for the day:

The parade will be formed on the public square at 10:50 a. m., under the direction of Charles B. Montague, grand marshal, assisted by Marshals A. Emphrey, S. M. Jarland, Henry Smith, M. Weisner, R. Hiatt, J. Kellenderger, G. Elkins, J. M. Donaca, and F. Lutz, in the following order.

Lebanon brass band.
President of the day and orator.
Grand Army Post, old soldiers, W. R. C. and Sons of Veterans.
I. O. O. F. and order of Rebekahs.
A. O. U. W. lodges.
Sodaville brass band.
K. O. T. M. and Lady Macabees.
A. N. & A. M. and Eastern Star.
Knights of Pythias.

Woodmen of the World and other benevolent organizations.
Citizens in carriages.
Citizens on horseback.

All visiting bands will be assigned proper places in the procession. The march will be down Main street to the campus of the Santiam Academy, where the benevolent and fraternal organizations will be halted, brought to open order and counter-marched to their seats. Citizens on foot will then be seated. Carriages and horsemen will be directed by the marshals to convenient hitching places. While it is the aim of the promoters of this fraternal festival to provide comfortable places for all, it is deemed best to reserve the seats until the various orders are provided. The Marshals are strictly charged to enforce the observance of this rule.
