Insure your property with Peterson & Andrews. They are agents for the Old Reliable, Home Mutual, New Zealand, Springfield of Massachusetts, Continental, and other good, reliable companies. Specimens of hops from the yard of S. Gentry, two miles north of this city, show what the yield and quality are this year. They were magnificently large ones and the yield is correspondingly large. N. W. Smith was in Albany Wednesday, and met an eastern drummer from whom he ordered a big stock of holiday goods. Norman says he intends to have the finest holiday stock this year ever brought to Lebanon. Mr. Don Swan, one of Linn county's bright young men, will enter the Albany college Monday morning, and take up the Normal course of study this term. His many friends join with us in wishing him success. Mr. H. Baker's new residence on Bridge avenue will be an elegant home when completed. It is an ornament to that part of the city. The carpenter work, which is being done by J. N. Crandall & Sons, speaks well for Lebanon's workmen. Rev. A. Melvin Williams returned Monday to Albany, where he enters the senior class this year in the Albany college. He will still occupy the pulpit, preaching in the morning, at the Cumberland Presbyterian church at this place.

The Linn county Sunday School Convention will be held in Albany, September 20, and 21. An excellent program has been arranged and all who attend will be highly entertained. We are sorry that space will not permit of publishing the program in full. A brakeman named H. J. Sykes who has been running on the Lebanon branch and the Oregonian railroad a few days, got his left hand badly mashed at Coburg, Tuesday evening while making a coupling. He was taken to his home at Roseburg. Mrs. J. M. Owen and daughter, of Eugene, arrived here this week and rented the Kirkpatrick building recently vacated by E. G. Carr. She will open a dressmaking shop. Mr. Owen is expected here in a few days, and will run a steam wood saw. Last Saturday the barn on Mr. K. Arnold's place above this city was burned to the ground with all its contents. It is supposed to have caught from the smoldering remnants of a brush heap where the fire was thought to be entirely burned out. The place is occupied by Mr. Alex Fitzwater. Messrs. Dalgleish & Everett, our enterprising furniture and hardware dealers received the largest invoice of goods last Saturday, ever brought to Lebanon, by one firm for many a day; over twenty tons of freight including elegant bedroom suits, stoves nails etc. Judging from the amount of goods they are receiving, one is led to believe hard times are about over. A sad sight was witness at the depot last Monday morning. It was a crazy woman; Mrs. Nellie Holmes, nee Wolfe, of Portland. About two weeks ago she went up to Sodaville hoping to regain her health; but, soon lost her mind entirely. Her people in Portland were notified, and Saturday her brother, Arthur Wolfe arrived and took her home last Monday morning. Last Saturday Mr. John O'Neil, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Mr. R. Getzschmann, arrived in Lebanon from California, with a carload of household goods, including a team and wagon. John has rented the Pete Smith house, recently vacated by Dr. Booth, where he moved his goods. Mrs. O'Neil will arrive in about a month, accompanied by Mrs. Ed O'Neil, John's mother, and commence house keeping. The Mineral Springs seminary at Sodaville, Or., will open October 7, 1896. Write the undersigned or Dr. D. M. Jones, trustee, Sodaville, in regard to degrees, state diploma, dues, board and other needed information. J. R. Geddes, Pres. Visitors to the exposition that opens in Portland October 5, will see more of interest in the exhibits than in former years. Nearly every exhibit will have something going on to interest and interest those who see it. Especially will the manufacturing exhibits have such special attractions. Machinery will be at work and mechanics will display their skill. It will be an industrial bazaar. It will be impossible in one visit to see everything contained in the huge building and enjoy the music and other entertainments offered. Prof. J. E. Horner, a member of the faculty of the State Agricultural college, at Corvallis, was in the city Tuesday. Mr. Horner is a pleasant gentleman of much refinement and ability, and speaks very encouragingly of the state fine school. In order that our readers, who have boys to educate, may know something of this great institution in our midst, we give a few particulars: There are twenty-two instructors. Tuition is free, and no charge for any incidentals or extras. There were 231 enrolled last year, with a graduating class of fifty-one. The college furnishes board, room, fuel and light at the small price of $2.50 a week. Fourteen dollars a month will board, clothe and educate your boy. An office of the United States government furnishes military instructions. Write for particulars to President J. M. Bloss Corvallis, Oregon. Last Friday, about midnight, Oscar Williams and Oscar Black had a quarrel at Humphrey & McNee's sawmill, which resulted in Williams cutting Black up in bad shape. Both men were employed at the mill and boarded at Humphrey's house. During the night they got in a racket over a girl. Williams started for a gun but the night watchman would not let him have it. He then got a bread knife which he used; nearly severing the right arm from the shoulder and inflicting two ugly wounds on the head, one laying the skull bare nearly four inches. Dr. Parish, of this city, was called and dressed the wounds; using thirty-two stitches to sew them up. The doctor says Black will recover. A feud had existed between these men for some time. It is said Black showed considerable courage, fighting as long as he could stand up, with nothing but his fists. Williams fled as soon as he finished the job and his whereabouts are unknown.

Wedding Bells. Mr. Harry G. Everett and Miss Lulu Westfall were united together in the holy bonds of matrimony Wednesday morning at eight o'clock, at the home of the bride's father, in this city; in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties; Rev. J. H. Beattie officiating. Mr. Everett is a member of the firm of Dalgleish & Everett, and is a young man of sterling qualities. During his four years of residence in Lebanon, he has made many warm friends, and by his honest and upright way of doing business, has commanded the respect and confidence of all that know him. He is a fine business man and a christian and well deserves the good wife he succeeded in winning. Miss Lulu Westfall is the oldest daughter of our fellow townsman, G. M. Westfall, and is an accomplished and esteemed young lady, loved and respected by all who know her. Mr. Everett is certainly fortunate in securing the heart and hand of such a help-met through life. Immediately after the sermon the happy couple left on the morning train for Newport, where they will spend a few days, then return to Lebanon, where they will make their future home. The EXPRESS joins with their many friends in wishing them a happy journey through life. The county court has started the work of securing an exhibit for the state fair and the industrial exposition at Portland, in the best shape possible to make a genuine exhibit untrammeled by any side issue scheme, and a success. The following leading citizens from different sections of the county have been selected to take charge of gathering the articles and shaping the character of the exhibit: Sam May, Harrisburg; George A. Dyson, Brownsville; Frank Frieble, Halsey; W. Powers, Sheed; Dr. W. H. Booth, Lebanon; W. R. Glass, Crawfordville; J. S. Morris, Solo; J. R. Douglas, Santiam; George Barton, Oakville; Judge L. Finn and Dr. J. L. Hill, Albany. The selection has been carefully and wisely made and will call out a united effort all around to give a full, fair and complete collection of the magnificent products of Linn county. Mr. A. Strong, a prominent resident of Salem, and Mr. H. F. Friok, a substantial citizen of Missouri, spent a few days in our city this week. These gentlemen were here looking over the ground, with a view to starting a bank. It is wonder that a bank has not been started here long ago. There is not a town in this state so badly in need of a bank, nor is there a location so favorably adopted to the success of a safe banking business. There are many business men, farmers and laborers who have more or less cash which they would like to place in a safe bank. There are many secure loans to be made. In a word, Lebanon needs a bank, and a bank would surely prosper. A special session of circuit court was opened Monday at 1:00 p. m., with Judge Hewitt behind the bar. Bailiff, W. H. Warner. In the the assignment of I. Beam, the final account was filed. The assignments of W. R. Graham and G. W. Smith will come up the first day of the October term. The sales in the case of the Linn County National bank against James Elkins and J. K. Weatherford against Louisa V. Duncan were confirmed.
