Linn county has a sensation in the recent shooting in Jordan Valley, where a harmless looking book-agent (?) came near killing two defenseless women.

Mr. Joseph Kebo has moved into the Taylor property, which he bought. He has built a picket fence around it, and the had house all repapered and painted.

Dr. Dudley's familiar face was again seen on our streets Wednesday. He is here for a stay of several weeks and will go from here to Los Angeles for the winter.

The city is again full of people—returning from the hop yards, with more or less money—more than the growers have and less than the pickers had last year.

Messames Rice and Lamberson, accompanied by their sons, left Tuesday for Los Angeles, California—leaving George and Dr. Gray young widowers—for the time being.

The Sunday school of the Baptist church is preparing a program, consisting of music and recitations, which will be rendered next Sunday evening at 7:30. All are cordially invited.

Miss Dumond has moved her millinery stock into the stand lately vacated by Mrs. Rice, it being a much more commodious building. Mrs. P. W. Morgan has decided not to open till spring.

The Junction City paper takes exception to the assessor's returns giving that town only 207 inhabitants. It says there is certainly a mistake somewhere, as there are that many voters in the town.

Brownville has five resident ministers of the gospel, and two supplies; also six church buildings. This, the Times thinks, entitles Brownville to the distinction of being called the city of churches.

On account of a defect in the title of the land, Mr. J. M. Marks had leased near Dallas, he decided not to move there, and brought back his household goods, and will move to Albany, for the winter.

There are about an even half dozen grass-widowers in town, whose wives are away on visits. Daily reports will be sent to these absent wives, showing how their respective husbands are (not) conducting themselves.

A lady's gold neck chain, with tassel on the end, was lost Tuesday evening near the Cumberland church or on Vine street in the northern part of town. Finder will be rewarded upon bringing same to this office.

It would be a good idea for parents to see that their children of school age attend the school. Otherwise the directors may take necessary steps to enforce attendance. There are many children out of school who should be in attendance.

Rev. Cornwall, of eastern Washington, will hereafter fill the pulpit in the First Presbyterian church, left vacant by Rev. J. H. Beattie. His family will arrive sometime next week. He formerly occupied the pulpit in the C. P. church at this place.

Prof. J. W. Vogel, the optician of Salem, will be found at the St. Charles hotel, after October 8, prepared to fit glasses to all conditions of sight. Prof. Vogel has fitted glasses for a number of people in this city, who previously never had glasses that pleased them. He guarantees comfort and satisfaction to all. The best of references given.

The Oregon presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church held its regular full session at Scio, September 26-28. There was a full attendance. Lebanon was selected as the place of holding the spring meeting, commencing on Thursday before the second Sunday in April, '96.

Hon. G. M. Irwin considered the duties of state school superintendent too arduous for one person to do and be of a contented frame of mind, so Tuesday evening, of last week, was joined in holy wedlock to Miss Lillian M. Colson, of LaGrand. The Express extends congratulations.

Another cutting affray occurred among the Indians in the Marion county hop-yards across the river from Independence last week. It appears the Indians had been gambling and drinking, when a quarrel arose over a game of cards, one Indian slashing another badly across the abdomen with a knife.

A petition is being circulated and signed by many of the business men of Albany, asking the city council to prohibit the running of the steam motor on the business streets. The petition recites that the steam motor frightens horses, and drives much business away from First street, and is a great nuisance.

The editor, Mr. H. Y. Kirkpatrick and family, and Mrs. S. M. Garland and little daughter, left on Wednesday's evening train for Selma, California, to visit Rev. Kirkpatrick and family. They will be absent about a month. They will also spend some time in San Francisco. Mr. Garland accompanied them to Albany.

A team belonging to Clint Miller left standing at Goan's planer last Friday evening got frightened and ran up Bridge avenue, leaving part of the running gear along the route. They finally collided with Oscar Healy's team in front of Bach & Buhl's store, on Main street, upsetting the hack and knocking the top sides clean of the floor of the box.

Many citizens, who have received the printed cards from the assessor, notifying them that their names are on the rolls for military duty, have been needlessly disturbed. There is no immediate need of new soldiers, and they will probably go down to their graves without ever wearing the blue. The census is being taken, and that is all the matter with the assessor.

The case of the state against Mrs. John Hannah, arrested for attempt at murder of Mrs. William Hiatt, at Jordan on September 26, was called before Justice Ellison, at Scio, Monday forenoon, Attorney Young appearing for the prosecution and Mr. Weatherford for the defendant. The defendant waived examination and was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

A. Blaker, manager of the Shedd warehouse, was arrested in Portland last Friday by Chief of Police Minto, for appropriating wheat owned by farmers and stored in the warehouse. He was brought to Albany by Deputy Sheriff Wilson, and given an examination before Justice Freerkeon last Tuesday forenoon, and was held in the sum of $1000 bail bond to appear before the grand jury, on the charge of disposing of 9000 bushels of wheat. The state was represented by Attorney P. R. Kelly. Efforts were made to procure bail, one bond offered not being accepted.

Hon. R. G. Smith, who is defending Flester, the man who murdered his wife, May 19, last, in the presence of three of their young children, in a hole of water near the railroad track a few miles from Grant's Pass, has made a motion to squash the indictment found against his client on the ground that the amendments made in the state senate to the bill changing the terms of courts in this district were not concurred in by the house. If such is the case, many legal complications will follow, as two terms have already been held under that law in Jackson county and one in Josephine.

The teachers of our public school are domiciled as follows: Prof. White, at Joseph Elkins'; Prof. Allingham, at Mrs. P. M. Miller's; Miss Griggs, at H. Y. Kirkpatrick's; Miss Temple, at E. Boslar's; Miss Elkins, at Joseph Elkins'. These educators have begun their labors here with a strong purpose to educate the youth of the district. Their labors will not be successful without the steadfast support of the patrons of the school. Punctual attendance, close study and genteel behavior must be taught them at home as well as at school. Support the teachers and directors in their honest efforts to educate your children.

What is generally conceded in Philadelphia to be one of the most desirable building sites in the city has just been purchased by The Ladies' Home Journal. The property is located at Sixth and Walnut streets, which means that it fronts on two of the most beautiful squares in Philadelphia, the famous Independence Square on the east and Washington Square on the south. The land acquired includes five properties. On May 1, next, the houses thereon will be torn down to make room for a building costing $250,000, to be solely owned and exclusively occupied by the Journal. The building will require two years in its construction.
