AT THE CONVENTION.

This convention was a combination of gasoline vapor. of all shades of opinions on the money question. There were many very intelligent men, but the convention had its share of fools. It was decidedly a free silver convention. There was a large attendance of populists and free silver reputlicans as visitors. Many champions of Teller were on hand to urge his nomination. Teller is a fine man, but he is still a republican and had no right to expect a nomination at the hands of a democratic national convention.
