Mr. J. C. Blyen expects to move to Brownsville the latter part of this month and will again have charge of the Brownsville livery stable, in which he owns a half interest. He has already moved one load of household goods. He has rented his hop yard to Mr. Chamberlain. We are sorry to lose Jake and his estimable family from our midst.
It is reported that a herd of 11 elk were seen north of Mary's peak, near Corvallis, quite recently. This is something quite unusual, as elk are becoming very scarce in the United States. Oregon, perhaps, has as many of these noble animals in her forests as any other state, and it is only in certain portions that there is any considerable number. Perhaps in the Nehalem and Ne-tucca country is where they abound most in this state.
Pague's U. S. Crop Report.
In the hay fields the greatest activity is found. As a rule the crops of hay are good and many are heavy. During the past week the weather could not have been better for the farmers to make progress in the hay fields. While the weather has been all that could be wished for progress in hay fields, it has not been satisfactory for late-sown grain, gardens and potatoes; early-sown grain has also suffered in some sections. The heat has been excessive, the temperature recording from 85 to 90 degrees, has caused the late-sown crops to burn, and though the straw in many instances has a rank growth, it is thought the heads will not fill unless rain should come. Much of the late sown grain, which is the subject of complaint, was sown after June 1, and, in fact, as late as the 10th of June. Fall-sown grain and grain sown in the winter and early spring will come through the warm spell without suffering any perceptible injury, and rarely is there a report from any section of the Willamette valley depreciating the warm and dry weather for fear of the damage it might do to these crops. Fall-sown and early-sown spring crops of grain are good and there will be many fine crops harvested in the Willamette valley. In Eastern Oregon continued warm weather has not been the best for the grain crop. There is a diversity of opinion concerning the amount of injury that has been done. However, there are favorable reports, but most of them come from Hood River.
Death of a Prominent Citizen.
Wednesday morning at the family residence in Jefferson, Mr. J. W. Jones, father of the recently elected school superintendent of Marion county, and a brother of Dr. D. M. Jones, of Soda-ville, died from the effects of a lingering illness of several years duration. It was supposed that the disease was cancer of the stomach, but a post mortem showed that it was caused by the thickening of the mucous membrane of the duodenum commencing immediately below the pyloric orifice of the stomach, and so far closing the passage that not enough sustenance could pass to sustain life, there being no cancer or cancerous condition. A remarkable condition of the diseased was that the heart was on the right side and the liver on the left, both being in a normal healthy condition. The location of his heart was known through life, but the post mortem gave the knowledge of the situation of the liver. Mr. Jones was a prominent and highly respected citizen, and many will regret to hear of his death. The funeral was largely attended.
Old Rates to Be Restored.
It is said the Southern Pacific and the O. R. & N. officials have "got together," and have decided to end the passenger war between Portland and San Francisco. The old rates, $12 for cabin and $5 steerage, on the steamer line, and $19 first-class and $10 second-class on the railway—will be restored on July 21. The reduced rates for several months have been $5 first-class and $2.50 on the steamer, and $10 and $5, sleeping car accommodations included, on the Southern Pacific special which ran on steamer days. Thousands of people have taken advantage of these rates, as they found it was cheaper to travel than to stay at home. There will probably be a big rush of travel during the remaining days of low rates. The overland flyer will, it is said, be taken off, and some changes in the time of other trains is looked for.
Dickens' Personal Side.
Stephen Fiske, who probably knew Dickens as intimately as did any American, has been induced to write of "The Personal Side of Dickens" for the September Ladies' Home Journal. Mr. Fiske often spent seasons with the famous novelist at Gad's Hill, and his article will describe the incidents of these visits, Dickens' home life, his method of working, and his pastimes. It will probably surprise Dickens' friends to learn, through Mr. Fiske, that a considerable portion of his library was made up of dummy books, which, however, offered the author a target for some of his delightful satire in giving them titles, and afforded his guests great amusement.

Twenty-eight Were Killed.
A dispatch from Omaha dated July 13, says: Further particulars of the frightful disaster near Logan, Neb., wherein an excursion passenger train came into a head-end collision with a heavy freight, show 28 persons to have been killed outright and 51 seriously injured, many of whom cannot recover from the effects of their wounds. Of these 28 who were killed, 21 have been identified, the other four having been so horribly mutilated as to render the boys unrecognizable. The responsibility for the accident rests on Engineer Montgomery, of the ill-fated excursion train. His order was to wait at Logan for the fast mail and fast freight. He started the train out immediately after the mail passed, forgetting the freight. The head-end collision occurred 20 minutes later on a curve. The heavy freight passed partially over the passenger. All the people killed were in the first coach of the excursion train. All the dead and injured were brought to Omaha today.
